ROLF'S SLIP OF THE TONGUE

Asks to Go to Prison Where Acquainted and Starts Where.

GETS FIVE YEARS AT FT. MADISON

Albert Engel Given Five-Year Indeterminate Sentence for Forging Name of B. M. Brochu—Wilson Gets Freedom.

Criminal business went along with a rush in Judge Woodruff's court yesterday. The cases were disposed of and two sentences imposed. First of guilty were entered in two cases and a jury heard the evidence and rendered a verdict in the other.

William Rolf, who was indicted on two counts for the theft of a valuable lot of dresses and woman's apparel belonging to the daughter of Carl Herr, 368 Avenue H, last April, pleaded guilty. One count charged him with breaking and entering and the other with larceny, and by an agreement with the county attorney he pleaded guilty to the larceny charge upon the condition that the other was dismissed. His plea was accepted by the court and he was sentenced to an indeterminate period of five years in the penitentiary at Fort Madison. Rolf's age brought him within the leniency of the law that permitted him to be sent to the state reformatory at Anamosa, but he objected to going there, and when asked for his reasons for choosing the harsher punishment replied that he had been at Fort Madison before and wanted to go back where he was acquainted. It was an unfortunate declaration under the circumstances and Judge Woodruff was obliged to take cognizance of it. While no evidence was submitted it was learned that Rolf had completed a three-year term there last October.

"If you have served one term in prison I have no power to sentence you to the reformatory, although your age, 25 years, would entitle you to be sent to Anamosa. The law contemplates a severer punishment for a second offense, and I will send you to Fort Madison for five years unless you are pardoned sooner," said Judge Woodruff.

Stole Bride's Trousseau.

Rolf's offense was an aggravated one. He became engaged to marry an estimable young woman in Council Bluffs, and on the night before the wedding committed the burglary at the Herr residence, stealing about $100 worth of fine dresses belonging to Miss Herr, which he presented to his bride as a wedding trousseau. The marriage was solemnized and the two left town the same evening on their wedding trip. Some of the wedding guests closely observed the bride's clothes and to others she displayed with great pride the pretty gifts of her husband. The trousseau was described minutely and in course of time reached Miss Herr. She believed she recognized her clothes and told the police detectives so. Rolf was located at Loup City, Neb., and the sheriff there wired to arrest him. The arrest was made, but Rolf succeeded in making his escape before a Council Bluffs officer could get there. He was captured, however, within a day or two after he broke jail. His young wife repudiated him after she learned the truth and has since secured a divorce, resuming her maiden name.

The second to plead guilty was Albert Engel, the old man who robbed B. M. Brochu of a pocketbook containing a $50 draft, Masonic emblems and a membership traveling card in the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He forged the name of Brochu on the draft and went to Marshall, Mich., where he attempted to impersonate Brochu as a Mason and not only days in jail. He pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was sentenced to an indeterminate period of five years in the Fort Madison prison.

Acquitted of Mayhem.

John W. Wilson, alias Frank Wilson, was acquitted by a jury in five minutes of the charge of mayhem. Wilson was indicted last year for maiming T. O. Andrews, better known as "Dago Nevil", Andrews, the Lake Manawa balloon jumper. In a fight at Manawa on July 6, 1909, Wilson seized Andrews and sank his teeth into his left thumb, biting it to the bone. His poisoning set in and Andrews lost the remainder of the summer's work and the permanent use of his thumb. Two of the chief witnesses for the state were absent and only the statement of the plaintiff was available to refute the testimony or a lot of witnesses for Wilson. It was said to be the second time that Wilson has bitten his opponent in a fight. P. G. Fricks, 528 Seventh avenue, was ready to testify to a similar injury that induced blood poisoning, but the state could not use him.

Judge Woodruff last evening excused the jury until Saturday.

Women Have Not Given Up Work

Young Women's Christian Association Will Hold Meeting Next Monday to Consider Situation.

Despite the very plain and lucid statements that have been made in the newspapers that the Young Women's Christian association had been deferred for a short time the impression prevails that the movement has been wholly abandoned. This has caused a good deal of annoyance and some anxiety on the part of the women who have been working so long and earnestly to carry forward the work. The movement has not been abandoned by any means or the efforts of the women abated in the least. It was deemed inadvisable to organize at the time stated on account of possible interference with the migrating work of the young men's association. The women will organize within a short time, but will begin the work in a very simple way.

On next Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock the regular monthly meeting of the association will be held, and every woman interested in the work in any degree is urged to be present. At this meeting it is expected that arrangements for taking over the building decided upon for the first headquarters will be completed.

School Board

Considers Cases of Pay for Pupils

Hesitates Before Deciding to Pay Tuition of Young Student Living in East Omaha.

The school board secured a quorum last night and held a lengthy and busy meeting the first in six weeks, with two of its members, Reed and Capell, still absent campaigning for county offices.

A large portion of the time was given to the consideration of tuition for pupils residing outside of the city, and was precipitated by the presentation of a bill from the Omaha High School for $45 for tuition by Mrs. Hamilton, who resides in East Omaha, and whose daughter cannot attend the Council Bluffs High School, except by making a street car journey consuming an hour and a half each day. The communication was in the nature of a demand for immediate payment or the expulsion of the pupil. The matter was referred to the finance committee and that committee, represented by only one member, Mr. Hendricks, immediately referred it back to the board.

While the justice of the demand was apparent, there was a reluctance on the part of the board to establish a precedent of paying tuition, but some arrangement may be made to continue the education of the young girl, who is but 14 years of age and a very promising pupil. About a dozen other cases were acted upon, all of pupils attending the city schools, but whose parents reside elsewhere. Some of them were interesting. One was the case of Charles Ford, 17 years of age, attending the high school. His parents reside in Kansas, and he goes there every summer and works on the homestead, but through the school period he makes his home with his brother, an employe of the Alfalfa Meal mills. He makes his own way by getting up at 4 o'clock every morning and driving a milk wagon. He was given a clean bill with hearty indorsement of his pluck. His sister Leah, living with L. O. Claar, owner of the Omaha & Council Bluffs Transfer Co., but declared by Mr. Claar not to be required to work for her board, was required to pay. Only two pupils were required to pay. The other was Miss Mayn Mildred, whose father owns a 160 acre farm in Garner township, but who is making her home with Miss Charlotte Dryden, county school superintendent.

The board fully approved the plan of Miss Julia Officer and gave a series of cash prizes for the best story of Thanksgiving day and its origin, and instructed Superintendent Beveridge to co-operate with her and instruct all teachers to assist in awakening the interest of the pupils. The prizes are to be awarded after Thanksgiving.

Superintendent Beveridge was given $25 to defray the expense of installing the exhibit of the National Horticultural congress. The superintendent was also authorized to purchase 100 copies of the song, "The Beautiful Land," for use in the schools.

Miss Grace Barr, supervisor of music, who was requested to amend her certificate by submitting to an examination by Prof. Reese of Omaha, submitted a report from the Omaha musician highly commendatory of her abilities to fulfill the duties of her position.

The board directed the high school to be closed for one day, Friday, November 4, to permit the principal and teachers to attend the Iowa State Teachers' association meeting at Des Moines, and decided that those who did not attend the meeting would be denied pay for the day, and all who do attend will not be required to attend the Southwestern Iowa Teachers' convention, which meets in Red Oak next spring. The grade teachers were exempt from the Des Moines attendance.

Member Schoedack had October 23 set apart as flower day, when the pupils in all of the schools will assist in planting the bulbs that will produce the first crop of spring blossoms, and the janitors were instructed to have the beds prepared for that day.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Grantville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R. F. D., Grantville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.
