Fiction. MAX. By Katherine Cecil Thurston. 315 Pp. $1.50. Harper & Brothers. A young and beautiful Russian princess masquerades as a boy and, as she is rushing to Paris in her boy's disguise she meets the hero, a clever and fascinating Irishman, and they become in that city the closest of comrades. She falls in love with him, as he does with a person whom he supposes to be boy friend's twin sister. The girl's struggle against her love, for which she despises herself, her jealousy

> Miscellaneous. AFRICAN GAME TRAILS, by Theodore Roosevelt; 21 pp., 4. Charles Scribner's

This is the series of articles on his African hunting expedition which Colonel Roossvelt contributed to Scribner's magarine and which engaged our comment from time to time as they appeared. In the present volume the letter-press is perected in large new type and amplified with fine illustrations both from photographs and drawings. Colonel Roosevelt describes lucidly his experiences in the jungle. He also gives observations of wild nimal life which are not only interest ing and entertaining, but highly instructive from the original viewpoints and suggestive comparison which he makes. BACKBONE OF THE PARIS RAILWAY STRIKE BROKEN

Continues and, Fearing Trouble, the Government Brings In the Troops.

PARIS, Oct. 14-The backbone of the railway strike appears to have been broken, but rioting occurred today, and the government, fearing further disorders, has brought troops to Paris. Striking masons, who went out in sympathy with the railroad employes, wrecked a freight dray in Montmartre, in the northern section of the city, and, forming two columns, attempted to parade.

The police and republican guards charged and dispersed the strikers. In the encounter several guards and policemen were in-
