OMAHA, Oct. 17, 1919. The latest Argentina crop advices are more favorable, thecking the buying trade, which has turned disappointing.

Temporary conditions cannot change the bearish outlook, as the world's wheat supplies are everabundant. After a steady opening on firm rables values slumped off, the market showing no strongth.

The more the corn trade studies the enormous supplies for the year the sentiment becomes more bearish. Reserves of the opening the weakness of wheat was continuous. News of rain in North Argentina came as a severe disappointment to the buils, and was followed by announcements that Nebraska wheat at low prices had been diverted from Minneapolis to this city and to St. Louis. Throughout the day there was little or no comfort to promoters of higher prices barring a falling off in world's shipments. Russia and the Danube alone sent forward 3,00,000 bushels less than the preceding week, but a selling fever had set in here that suffered no interruption. The most important addition to the general The most important addition to the general causes accountable for the recovery in stocks was the publication since Saturday of the statistics of the country's foreign trade for September.

The general assumption remained unshaken that a foremost private New York banking house was the principal influence in furthering the rise in prices. This assumption includes that of a widespread market organization and fostering and protecting measures for the money market as well as the movement of stock prices, despecially United States Steel.
