Solicited Loan.
"Why should not Hitchcock demand to know when he solicited and obtained that loan in 1905?" remarked the ex-state treasurer.

Mr. Bartley hesitated about making any statement in answer to Mr. Hitchcock. He said:

"Mr. Hitchcock's statement was more of an evasion than a denial of Mr. Howard's charges and in fact should not necessitate anything from me."

Bartley's ill feeling towards Hitchcock dates from their meeting in the Lincoln hotel June 14, 1904, at which time he says Hitchcock flatly told Bartley that the paper was outlawed and that if Bartley started action against him he would be liable under the criminal libel law and that might mean a repetition of his "former trouble."

WOOD PULP GOES INTO PAPER

Over Four Million Cords of the Raw Material Used in the United States Last Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Over 4,000,000 cords of wood were used in the manufacture of wood pulp for paper making in the United States in 1909 as shown by the annual report on the industry issued today by the census bureau. The cost of the transformation of the wood, of which there were 4,002,000 cords, was $24,675,000. This was an increase of about $500,000 cords over the consumption of 1908, but of only about $500,000 over 1907.

The advancing cost of pulp wood of all species is brought out in the report. The total consumption in 1909, though exceeding that of 1907 by less than 40,000 cords, cost over $2,000,000 more. The cost for 1909 exceeded that for 1908 to the extent of over $4,000,000.

Probably the most noteworthy detail in connection with the report is the decrease in consumption of spruce in the manufacture of pulp. A slight decrease in hemlock also is noted, whereas increases have occurred in the consumption of woods heretofore little used as pulp material, such as balsam, white fir and several hard woods, including birch, beech, maple, gum and bass wood.

There has been an improved demand for white fir. Of the 2,621,000 cords of spruce consumed in 1909, almost 710,000 was imported.

Beneath Your Fat a Graceful Figure Dwells

Hereditary, natural tendency, inaction, high living, and inability of the system to dispose of fatty foods are responsible for the pads and rolls of fat which gather on chest, hips, waist, elbow, cheek, and neck, covering up and distorting the little, graceful figure beneath. To remove or prevent these unwelcome deposits—control the quantity and location without paying the price of violent exercise, dieting, saddle-sore or impairment of health; in short, to find one's own slim self beneath the fatty sheath—has been made possible by a noted physician, whose Marmola Prescription helped thousands of over-fat men and women to reduce safely and surely from 10 to 15 ounces per day, until the natural health of the system is restored and slimness results. Marmola Prescription Tablets, the new form of this great remedy, each contain an exact dose of the famous Marmola Prescription. Like the original prescription, they are absolutely sure and harmless. Nearly every drugstore keeps these wonderful little tablets, or they may be secured direct by mail from the Marmola Co., 123 Monroe, Ave., Detroit, Mich. For a large case in the uniform price—(Adv.)

CRIPPEN PLACED ON TRIAL

Charged with Murder, American Dentist Pleads Not Guilty.

ENGLISH CHIEF JUSTICE PRESIDES

Taking of Testimony Begins at Once, Mrs. Martinelli, with Whom Crippen Dined, Being Called as Witness.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Dr. HANLEY H. CRIPPEN was today put on trial for his life, charged with the murder of Cora Belle Crippen, the American actress known in the profession as Belle Elmore. The jury, a typical body of middle class tradesmen and clerks, was sequestered with but little trouble, objection having been made in but three instances. Crippen pleaded not guilty.

The trial, which is being held in the new Bailey, promises to be one of the most historic in the annals of that famous court. No less a personage than Lord Chief Justice Alverstone is presiding. He was accompanied into court today by Sir John Kell, lord mayor of London, Sir Thomas Vesey Strong, lord mayor elect, and the sheriffs in their robes of office. Richard D. Muir, K. C., conducts the prosecution with the assistance of Solicitor Travers Humphreys, who represented the crown at the preliminary hearing. Crippen is represented by Alfred Aspinall Tohn, K. C., unionist member of Parliament, and Huntley Eugene Jenkins.

Ethel Not in Court.
Ethel Clare Levee, the doctor's typist, who has been indicted as an accessory after the fact, was not in court today. Her trial will follow in the event of Crippen's conviction. The American witness, Bruce Miller of Chicago, and his wife, were recognized when they appeared in a cab and were followed to the doors of the building. Crippen entered the dock wearing a black frock coat and light trousers, escorted by two policemen. It was well on toward noon when Lord Chief Justice Alverstone took his seat. From that moment the proceedings moved quickly. The indictment was read at once and Crippen, standing, replied to the usual questions and pleaded "not guilty, my lord."

A hush fell as Counsel Muir rose and made the opening statement for the crown. He related the familiar story of the tragedy so far as it has been learned by the prosecution and the public.

The taking of testimony was then begun. The most interesting of this testimony before the lunch interval was given by Mrs. Paul Martinelli, who repeated the evidence she had given in the police court. The witness and her husband dined with the Crippens at the home of the latter on the evening of January 31 and played cards until 1:30 o'clock in the morning. The Crippens seemed perfectly happy. This occasion was the last on which Mrs. Crippen was seen by any one so far as the police have been able to learn.

Miller on the Stand.
The feature of the afternoon session was the testimony of Bruce Miller, in which the story of his acquaintance with Belle Elmore was some into at length. Miller testified he thought a great deal of Crippen's wife, but denied their relations were other than those of propriety. When he was excused from the stand Miller was granted permission by the lord chief justice to return to the United States.

Miller said he had last seen Belle Elmore in 1904 in London. There had never been a proposition made that she should join him in America. The two exchanged letters three or four times a year.

Mr. Tobin cross-examined the witness closely concerning his relations with Belle Elmore. He elicited the admission that Miller had been in the habit of visiting the actress often in the absence of her husband, Lord Alverstone here asked:

"Were there any improper relations?"

The witness admitted he had written the woman affectionate epistles, concluding with "Love and kisses to Rosemary." He thought that these were not improper letters to write to a married woman. Miller said Crippen knew all about the affair. He was not Belle Elmore's author. He had kissed her and that was all. Asked whether the actress' letters were couched in the same affectionate terms, the witness said:

"Perhaps. My wife read my letters."

"Did Miss Elmore discourage attentions?" was asked.

"No. My attentions did not bear the interpretation which you wish to put on them."

On re-examination Miller told Mr. Muir his relations with Miss Elmore were in no way improper.

Omaha Shippers to Get Refund From Railroads

Supreme Court Denies Petition and Orders Reduced Rates to Go Into Effect.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—The decision of the United States supreme court yesterday in the famous Missouri river rate case denying the petition of the railroads for a rehearing makes necessary the immediate dissolution of the injunction issued two years ago by the United States circuit court at Chicago and compels railroads between the Mississippi river and the Missouri river to put into effect to Omaha at once the reduced rates originally ordered by the commission. The immediate result of this decision will be 3 cents per hundred in the first class rate from the immense Atlantic seaboard territory to Omaha. A corresponding reduction will be made on the remaining four merchandise classes.

This decision is the culmination of a contest which was begun in 1908 and which resulted in the commission ordering the reduction above in rates west of the Mississippi river. The commission's order will be bitterly contested by the railroads and was upheld by Judge Grosscup in 1908. On June 1, 1910, the United States supreme court upheld the commission. A petition was immediately filed by the railroads interested which operated as a stay to the mandate of the supreme court and the result was that the injunction issued by Judge Grosscup remained in effect. This compelled the Omaha shippers to pay the excessive rates which had been condemned by the commission. The denial of the petition for a rehearing will dissolve the injunction and the railroads will be compelled to put the reduced rates into effect at once.

The traffic bureau of the Commercial club has been engaged for some months in the preparation of claims for repayment on behalf of Omaha shippers in anticipation of the decision rendered yesterday. And these claims will be presented to the Interstate Commerce commission immediately. The commission will be asked not only to award repayment but to issue a new order extending the time in which new rates shall be effective to the full period of two years so that the rates may become permanent.

There has been no change in the conditions since the original opinion of the commission was rendered in 1908 that would justify charging any higher rates than those named in the original order.

E. J. McVann, manager of the traffic bureau of the Commercial club, who is in Washington preparing evidence in the order extending the time of decision.

"The immediate effect will be a refund to the Omaha shippers of about $75,000 wrongfully collected under the rates condemned by the commission. The traffic bureau will file claims on behalf of its members asking for repayment and will also ask the commission to make a new order extending the new rates for the full two years."

"While the reduction does not yet bring the Atlantic seaboard rates down to where they ought to be, it will help Omaha jobbers and retail merchants who buy in that territory."

This is the case originally tried by John Lee Webster in 1907 and followed through to the United States supreme court by him, with the backing of Omaha's shipping interests. Mr. Webster is entitled to a share in the felicitations offered to Omaha on this victory.

Omaha shippers will not only get back from the railroads a total of something like $150,000 to $200,000, but according to John Lee Webster, the attorney who won the fight for them, an annual saving to the shippers of this city of approximately $150,000 will be effected. The refusal of the supreme court to grant a rehearing finally settles the matter for all time.

Mr. Webster bases his computation, which he does not assert to be definite, on testimony given at the hearing by the assistant to the president of the Gould roads. That witness said that the annual loss to the roads by a reduction would amount to $500,000. Of this Omaha shippers net about one-third.

"The Omaha shippers who are entitled to repayment are those who were among the original plaintiffs in the action before the commission," said Mr. Webster, "the list being as follows: Byrne-Hammer company, M. E. Smith & Co., Kirkendall & Co., E. E. Bruce company, Carpenter Paper company, J. L. Brandeis & Sons company, Thomas Kilpatrick & Co., American Hand Sewed Shoe company, Hayward Bros. Shoe company, Thompson & Belden, Orchard & Wilcox Carpet company, Nebraska Clothing company, D. J. O'Brien company, Brownie King & Co., Herzog-Swanson company, Miller, Stewart & Beaton, the Bennett company, Hayden Bros. company, Spiesberger & Son company."

Mr. Webster read these firm names from the printed record of the Missouri river rate case. The record is a cute little volume of only 139 pages.

DOLLIVER FUNERAL PLANS

Bishop Luther B. Wilson, Philadelphia, "Laymen's Relation to the Churches," Bishop William Fraser McDowell, Chicago, "A Fallen Leader."

Burial is planned for Oakland cemetery by the side of "Father" Dolliver and his wife, the senator's mother. It will precede the outdoor service, the scene of the final tribute to a great life will be the First Methodist Episcopal church, of which "Father" Dolliver was a pastor in early days and where the senator had been almost a life-long member, much loved by the congregation.

The Empress made quartet of Mason City, composed of L. B. Higgins, W. S. Rankin, W. E. Ensign and W. F. Muse, have been engaged to sing at the Dolliver funeral.

NOTE OF Sorrow and Appreciation Sent at Time of Mr. Rosewater's Death.

At the time of the death of the late Edward Rosewater, Senator Dolliver, who will himself be buried on Thursday, wrote a note of sympathy and condolence to Mr. Victor Rosewater, in which he expressed his high appreciation of his dead friend. It is a curious coincidence that both Senator Dolliver and Edward Rosewater died unexpectedly. The note is:

"FORT DODGE, Ia., Sept. 1.—Mr. Victor Rosewater, I have read with very great sorrow of the death of your father and I write for the purpose of expressing the sympathy I feel in your affliction.

"Your father was one of the strong and able men who have accomplished so much in laying the foundation upon which the growth and prosperity of the middle west has been built. He was a man of fine intellectual powers, of upright purpose and combined with these qualities a restless energy and activity which for a whole generation has influenced not only the community in which he lived, but the entire country. He will be sadly missed, not only in the newspaper world, but in our political and industrial affairs. For many years I have counted him among my friends and his numerous acts of kindness and goodwill will be cherished as long as I live. I wish you to understand the feeling of sympathy which his sudden death has awakened in my heart.

"With cordial personal regards, yours very truly, J. P. DOLLIVER."

DIRECTOR OF MINT TO IOWA

George E. Roberts Leaves Washington to Attend Funeral.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(Special Telegram.)—George E. Roberts, director of the mint, left Washington this afternoon for Fort Dodge to attend the funeral of the late Senator J. P. Dolliver. Director Roberts and the late senator had been close personal and political friends for years and Mr. Roberts in rather choked utterances could only say as he left the treasury department to take the train: "The death of Senator Dolliver is not only an irreparable loss to the state of Iowa, but to the nation as well. Personally his death comes to me as a great shock. I could not feel more deeply that he had been a member of my immediate family."
