Viaduct Strong Enough; Craig

Says Complaint of the Railroads on Twenty-Fourth Street Bridge is Wrong.

The complaint of the railroads owning the Twenty-fourth street viaduct that it is being badly strained by the weight of the street cars going across it will be referred back to the city council by the city engineer at the next meeting with the opinion that there is no danger. This same complaint was made by the railroads in 1908, when William A. Ayerling was city engineer, and he reported that the bridge was tested to support a weight of fifteen tons in a steam roller, which is much more of a strain on the floor timbers and supports than a twenty ton street car. The cars now running weigh about 8,000 pounds, so there is no danger of their weakening the bridge.

DOCTORS' MACHINES IN BAD

City Electrician Finds Trouble in Electrical Appliances of Physicians—Inspections Made. Machines that are designed for use in electric treatments are giving the city electrician trouble because of the disregard of the manufacturers for the rules of electrical inspectors. The doctors who practice in electrical healing, says Mr. Michaelson, have their offices or apartments inspected before they install the machines before they are inspected. They are constructed very largely of discarded fittings that cannot be used in regular electrical work.

ACTOR GENTRY PASSING ON

Now a Sufferer from Partial Paralysis and Dementia. OUT OF PRISON AFTER LONG YEARS. Jealously Insane, Fifteen Years Ago, Shot Madge York, Who Was Playing in the "Baggage Check." NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(Special Telegram.)—James B. Gentry, the old time actor, was removed this afternoon to a sanitarium on Long Island suffering from partial paralysis and dementia. It is believed that he will not survive many months longer. Gentry was a well known actor a generation ago, but his fame has grown rusty, for out of the last fifteen years of his life, fourteen have been wasted serving sentence at Moyamensing prison, Pennsylvania, for the murder of Madge York. The shooting took place fifteen years ago in Zetser's hotel in Philadelphia. Madge York was playing in Charles E. Stanley's production, "The Baggage Check." Gentry had formerly been in the same company and had become madly infatuated with her. At the time of the Philadelphia engagement, however, he was with William Collier in "One of the Boys."

Frantic with Jealousy. The Collier company was due in Poughkeepsie after completing an engagement in Boston, but Gentry, frantic with anxiety and jealousy, left his fellow players and hurried to Philadelphia. It was Sunday afternoon and he went straight to Madge's room. Several members of "The Baggage Check" company were in the room with Miss York, but none of them today can tell exactly what happened when Gentry burst into the room. Some have it that the overwrought actor insisted that Madge turn to the door, while others deny that any such words were spoken. At any rate there were a few angry sentences, a scuffle, a puff of smoke as a report and a confused cry of voices as Madge York sank to the floor. Evidently turned to the dying woman and by the time a semblance of calm supervened Gentry was gone.

Belmonts Reorganize for the Fall Season

Ray McWhinney is Elected Captain and M. Powell Manager of the Team. Ray McWhinney, former captain of the Omaha high school football eleven, was elected captain of the "Belmonts" in a business meeting of the club last night. The eleven which will lead this season will average nearly 170 pounds and the squad has a number of experienced high school and local football stars. M. Powell was made the manager of the team at the same meeting. Up to date the Belmonts have scheduled games with Waterloo, Red Oak, Creighton university second team, Nebraska Military academy and several other minor teams. The manager is anxious to get games with some of the teams in this city, such as the Dixie and the Superiors. The squad that turned out for practice consists of: McWhinney, 175; Phillips, 224; A. Frederick, 180; M. Powell, 152; Craig, 132; McLeish, 175; Doll, 170; Cory, 146; Cramer, 142; Nall, 138; Clark, 170; McKell, 170; De France, 190; Murtel, 150; Crawford, 175; Harvey, 160; Shorter, 170; Hatcher, 180; Dakin, 150; Chanon, 130; B. Craig, 146; Burdick, 190; Coe, 170; Thompson, 170; Fagon, 115.

Would Force the Use of Machines

Three County Commissioners Propose to Insist on Putting Voting Machines into Action. Although they have not been definitely advised by County Attorney English that the Board of County Commissioners has authority to determine whether or not voting machines shall be used at an election, Commissioners Bruns, Piskars and Bedford, the three commissioners, who want the machines used at the election next month, will proceed on the theory that the board has the power. They will vote to order County Clerk Haverly to use the machines when they meet Saturday, and their vote will overcome the negative one of Commissioners Trouton and Grant. Friday afternoon, it appeared almost certain that the matter would be taken to the courts for final decision. County Clerk Haverly, who has decided not to use the machines, declares his is the power to determine whether or not their use is practicable. Since the secretary of state's certification of the state ballot cannot be received by the county clerk until October 23 and the official ballot cannot be prepared until the certification arrives, it appears that E. E. Ridgeway, custodian of the machines, will have but fourteen days in which to prepare for the election. Whether he can do this and deliver the machines to all the voting places is admittedly doubtful. The seven members of the Board of County Commissioners, still are in the express offices. The records of the board show that the ordering of the machines and the payment of the express tariffs on them were authorized by the board, but the actual purchase and payment for the machines never have been authorized.
