

POLITICAL CHAOS IN IOWA

No One Knows Which Way to Turn in Matter of Senatorship.

JUST GAME OF WATCH AND WAIT

List of Available Men to Succeed Dooliver in Large and Contentious Issue to Keep Tight on Growing.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 23.—(Special.)—There has not before been in Iowa any such chaotic condition of affairs politically as this year. It would have been bad enough, but the senatorial crisis makes it much worse.
Nobody knows which way to turn in regard to the senatorship. Nearly everyone is counseling patience and a waiting game, so that the legislature shall be made sure before anything else happens, but equally almost everyone is doing some quiet work in one direction or another to affect the result.
The list of the available for the senatorial fight is being constantly enlarged. It now includes most of the prominent republican statesmen of the state. It is readily seen, however, that a good many of them can be and will be eliminated because of location. A few of the reasons Senator Cummins lives in what is known as the southern part of the state and the bulk of the republican majority is further north. Nearly all of the republican strength lies in three northern districts, the Fourth, Tenth and Eleventh. In a legislative session the district would nearly control. Senator Dooliver was in the Tenth. His successor cannot very well be from the south part of the state, unless it is from the extreme east or extreme west.

May Be Byers.
The most probable successor to Dooliver is Attorney General H. W. Byers. He lives in the western part of the state, is very popular, and he has earned a great reputation in the state for his enforcement of the laws and for his temperance attitude at all times. A candidate who has suddenly sprung into prominence is Congressman A. P. Dawson of the Second district, who is regarded as the most reliable of the progressive leaders; Senator James A. Smith of Osage, the floor leader of the Iowa state senate, and A. B. Funk, now in retirement, but long regarded as one of the very leaders among the progressive republicans in the northern districts of the state. Others who are in the running are Congressman Frank P. Woods, Congressman E. H. Hubbard, Robert Healy and James A. Trevin.
Some spasmodic and feeble efforts have been made to start "booms" for this or that person. Such an effort was made for W. S. Kenyon of Fort Dodge, assistant attorney general, and a staunch progressive, and it was even said Governor Carroll was considering making his appointment. Similar "booms" have been started for several ambitious persons living in or near Des Moines, largely for free advertising purposes, for it was once recognized that northern Iowa would hardly stand for any such movement.
Carroll Will Not Appoint.
The fact that Governor Carroll will not make the appointment will tend to put the whole matter off for the present. In the meantime preparations will be made for a fight between the republicans. A good many republicans, as well as democrats, favored getting the matter before the people for a vote at this time. Some of those who will be candidates would have been very glad to submit the matter without any campaign and leave it to the good judgment of the voters. But the state committee would not stand for it.
The state campaign, so far as it relates to the republicans, has made little progress. The candidates for state offices will take hold now and make things busy, having decided upon a course that will interest the people. Governor Carroll, Senator Cummins, Lieutenant Governor Clarke, ex-Governor Garst, and all the regular leaders of the party, including all the candidates for congress, are hard at work. There are a few who are sitting, but in the main they are those who have been in the habit of bolting. But the general belief is that notwithstanding the failure of the state committee to get busy the state will be carried by the republicans.
Will Have a Reformatory.
Despite the sentiment of the State Board of Control against the establishment of a woman's compulsory reformatory, the state Woman's Christian Temperance union convention in session at Boone will urge the next legislature to make the necessary appropriation.
To establish somewhere in Iowa a reformatory for women which would not be a walled prison, but a farm with useful outdoor pursuits, has long been the aim of the temperance women. Several sessions ago they secured an enactment of law for this reformatory department for women, but through some legislative error no appropriation clause was added to the law to make it effective. The temperance women are now spreading a lobby to wait upon the session of the next general assembly and get the necessary appropriation clause.
A number of prominent temperance women of Des Moines are in attendance at the state convention in Boone. Among these are Mrs. Ida B. Winsor, Mrs. C. H. Gordon, Dr. Nina Wilson-Dewey have an address before the convention yesterday afternoon on the subject of woman suffrage.

Insurance Men Elected.
J. D. Carpenter of Des Moines, state agent for the Queen Fire Insurance company, was elected president of the Iowa State Fire Prevention association at the meeting at the Chamberlain. According to the reports there were 200 inspections made by the members of the association during the last year. Other officers elected at the meeting follow: A. M. Upham, Des Moines, state agent for the Liverpool and London and Globe, vice president; and G. W. Holton of Des Moines, state agent of the Phoenix of Hartford, secretary and treasurer.

LINEMAN KILLED BY FALL

Keeneath Holcroft Expires from Injuries Received at Maquoketa When Pole Breaks.

WATERLOO, Ia., Oct. 23.—(Special Telegram.)—Kenneth Holcroft of Marshalltown, lineman for the Iowa Telephone company, was instantaneously killed today in Maquoketa and F. E. Richards of Lincoln is thought to have fallen from the snapping of a pole upon which they were at work, throwing them heavily to the ground. The great weight caused the decayed pole to break off next the ground and the force of the fall caused eight other poles to fall. One man escaped injury. Foreman Henney of Dubuque had just begun wiring a toll line from Waterloo to Dubuque and had not got outside the city limits when the fatality occurred. The dead man was 19 years old. His mother and two sisters came from Marshalltown this afternoon and will convey the body to that city.

A bunch of containing hundreds of letters from stations here on the Iowa Central, addressed to points on the Northern Iowa and its contents were found in a coal bin under the rear of the Plaza hotel, which is not known. How much in cash was stolen is not known. The property which had evidently been overlooked, was found in the litter this morning.

LOUIS BERKA STOPS CHARGER

Runaway Horse Dashes Toward City Father, but Passes in Mad Career at Judge's Signal.

Surpassing even his own record for daring lions in their rage and city competition in their fury, Louis Berka, pacificator of the city's ruling body, has acquired new honors and has become a hero. While three members of the city council were exploring East Omaha bottoms Saturday afternoon in search of unkept dairies and bagging lots of game, the party entered from the automobile at a farm house east of Carter lake and the barns were viewed. As the proprietor was remarking in icy tones that if there was any other little detail of his establishment that might be of interest he would be glad to show it, there was a sound of many feet, or, rather, many sounds of feet, from the roadway. The councilmen were positively horrified by seeing heading down the lane a loose horse, his harness flying in the wind along with his tail, and the bit grasped firmly between his jaws. No buggy was attached, and there was no sign of a driver.
The other city fathers were speechless and motionless. On came the terrified horse, doubtless more fanned against than any particular direction. But Berka, with his cravatette belted out to the breeze, his hat set firmly down over the bridge of his nose and his face graced with his most oratorical smile, he started across the horse's path. As he ran he seized, with that presence of mind that is rare and yet so valuable a twig from a brush heap that stood by the gate.
Only the eloquence of the pacificator could have persuaded that plunging steed that the twig was an olive branch. The effect of the beast's intrepid advance was marvelous. The horse stopped as though shot, trembled all over in fear or ecstasy—the crowd could not tell which—and then walked up to Judge Berka and offered to make hands off with him. The horse declined the proffered hoof and boldly stepped the bit as the horse stood beside him. With the aid of the farm lads the charger was tethered and, blushing modestly, the judge climbed back into the automobile and said in a quiet, determined tone, "Forward! No matter what dangers threaten we will follow our mission to the end."

COUNTY OPENS 44TH STREET

Commissioners Allow Mrs. Mary Cassidy $700 for the Ground for Which She Asked $1,200.

Refusing to grant the request of Mrs. Mary Cassidy that she be paid $1,200 for her land that must be taken for the opening of a part of Forty-fourth street from L to J streets, the Board of County Commissioners decided that the street shall be opened and Mrs. Cassidy shall be paid but $700, unless the courts otherwise rule.
The decision was made at a hearing of affected property owners, all of whom desire the street opened. Mrs. Cassidy's agent expressed her willingness that the road be opened if she is paid what she considers a reasonable price for the property she has. She has a frontage of 300 feet. The value of the portion she must give up was appraised at $700 by a board of appraisers. She protested. The commissioners overruled the protest. Informal notice of appeal to the district court was given by Mrs. Cassidy.

Major John J. Gordon of Washington, D. C., one of the builders of the Union Pacific railroad, who has been in the city of Washington, D. C. was a guest at the home of D. C. Patterson yesterday. Major Gordon had not visited Omaha in thirty years and he expressed surprise at the city's wonderful growth in that time. He said, however, that he could not understand why Omaha really prices are so low in comparison with those of many smaller cities.
Miss Gordon and Miss Marian Patterson were classmates at the National Cathedral school.

How He Loves the Soldier.
OMAHA, Oct. 23.—To the Editor of The Bee: Why don't you ask G. M. Hitchcock how many bills he has introduced since he has been congress to better the old soldiers, or even then up say $15 per month or $20 or $25, or $1 per day? Can he show a single bill since he has been in congress to better all the old soldiers condition? The soldiers would like to vote for a good man, who would get up and have the nerve and advocate a more equal division.
Here is another break Mr. Hitchcock made before he was congressman. He owned some lots on Ohio street. Mrs. Bailey bought a house and lot of him. He was paid the day following to her and he told her the old soldiers would live longer than the common man. She asked him how that was. He said, because they drew a pension and didn't have to work. It made her mad and she don't like him for that until this day. I wonder if Mr. Hitchcock today could live on what at that time soldiers got from $5 to $10. Does he think today he could live on that and work. I guess not. If you wish to get this first hand you will find Mrs. Josephine Bailey in the Grand Island Soldiers' Home. She is a war widow. She can explain to you. OLD SOLDIER.

A Tribute to Barton.

PLATTSBROUGH, Neb., Oct. 23.—To the Editor of The Bee: Some time ago I saw in the columns of the World-Herald an article that dealt with the candidacy of Mr. Elias H. Barton for the office of auditor of public accounts on the republican ticket this fall.
The writer of this article would be a good many dollars poorer than he is now if he had the day following to his affairs in the auditor's office instead of a man like Mr. Barton and there are several hundred in the state who would have been in the same fix.
I have five more than thirty-nine years in Nebraska and during that time I have never known any of those who have held that office try harder than Mr. Barton has done to do his whole duty to all the people, especially in insurance matters, about which I know more than I do of other things with which the auditor has to deal. I have no idea that he will be swept away in the landslide which a good many people think is going to sweep over the country at the coming election. I think there are enough voters who are interested in the welfare of the state stockholders and as policyholders in life, fire and accident companies to see him through, no matter how destructive to the hopes and aspirations of many the avalanche may be. All they will ask him to do will be to keep right on saving wood and making money and as policyholders in life, fire and accident companies to see him through, no matter how destructive to the hopes and aspirations of many the avalanche may be. All they will ask him to do will be to keep right on saving wood and making money and as policyholders in life, fire and accident companies to see him through, no matter how destructive to the hopes and aspirations of many the avalanche may be.

Consolidation Inevitable.

SOUTH OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 23.—To the Editor of The Bee: While the pleaders of South Omaha, by the most unfair methods ever known in a civilized country, have stopped the submission of the question of the consolidation of South Omaha with Omaha, a vote of the people of the two cities, yet the sentiment for the consolidation has not been killed and many men who were opposed to the submission and who refused to sign petitions have stated to me that they will sign the consolidation. Fully 50 per cent of the people of South Omaha are ready for the consolidation today and we are now in favor of the legislature taking the matter up and passing a bill that will be satisfactory to the people of South Omaha outside the Pie-Eaters' Building association.
It is plainly evident that the bulldozers' union is opposed to the people voting on the question, so now we favor action by the legislature that will at once consolidate us with Omaha, or at least pass a bill that will give the city of Omaha the power of absorbing us on terms that will be of an equitable nature toward the people of South Omaha. The members of the Consolidation Club of South Omaha ask every person who favors the consolidation to find out how the candidates for the state senate and houses stand on the question and vote against every man who is not in favor of the legislature passing a consolidation act. Do not pay any attention to their politics when you vote for members of the legislature, but vote for men who will vote according to the wishes of the people of South Omaha. We want no more petitions, for the same intimidation and coercion will be used again by the same people as were used this year. The most satisfactory way out of it and a way that will cause less hard feelings and do away with all coercion is for the legislature to pass an act that will consolidate us with Omaha. So watch
