New Autumn Dishes

At this season of the year the chefs of the fashionable hotels and restaurants of the cities particularly sought by the winter traveler give much thought to the composing of new delicacies to tempt the guest. Some of these more attractive and newer dishes and ones which may be adopted by the housewife are given below.

An entirely new and delicious salad is composed of fresh figs cut in halves, placed on the edge of a dish in the center of which, place a mound of sections of grapefruit, oranges and pineapples, decorated with tiny strips of red and green pimento and Maraschino cherries. Serve with this salad a mild dressing of cream cheese. A cold dressing of lemon juice, Tarragon vinegar, salt and white pepper completes the salad.

"Pear Lily" is the pleasing name of a new and delicious dish suitable for luncheon. It is made of fine large pears slightly hollowed from the stem and filled with the pulp of the pear mixed with rich cream and a little brandy; the pear is then placed in a layer of vanilla ice cream on a plate, ornamented with grapes cut in halves.

Another new dish is a "Saled Maria," made from a head of lettuce on which is placed a layer of peeled and pitted plums, served with a French dressing made thick by mixing it with a small piece of ice held by a sharp fork while stirring. "Saled Caprice" is made of heads of lettuce covered with sections of oranges and tomatoes and a dressing made of rich cream, lemon juice, paprika and salt. Minced chicken surplies is another new favorite. Place a pint of cream in a saucepan; season with salt, pepper, paprika; add to half on the fire; add a few sliced boiled potatoes, some boiled breast of chicken of about the same size as the potatoes, a little smoked beef, cut Julienne shape. When about ready to serve cut two nice slices of boiled smoked tongue, place them on a platter, spread with a little devil sauce, place under the salamander. When thoroughly heated place the minced chicken in a chafing dish, the two slices of tongue over it, and serve very hot.

Among the new dainties is ice cream served with quince jelly, a new fruited coffee served with brandied peaches, a compote of oranges, a russe au froche flavored with orange, almonds baked in dairy rich shapes. It is most delicious with tea or coffee.

Sweet potatoes, Lucifer, is a delicious new dinner dish, made of par-boiled sweet potatoes and large chestnuts. The potatoes are sliced lengthwise, laid around a shallow baking dish an inch apart, and in this space is put a layer of chestnuts, which have been finely minced. Little pats of butter are under and over the potatoes and chestnuts. This whole is covered with a generous sprinkling of sugar. This is put in a hot oven and baked until brown over the top. In preparing this, and when ready to serve, pour two tablespoons of brandy over the top. Set fire to it after placing the dish on the table.

quettes, while roast beef is served with most any of the vegetables, although tomatoes, corn and cauliflower are a safe combination; a roast of veal needs a plump sauce of some kind, and beans are a good vegetable to serve, being very nutritious, a quality lacking in veal.

For the Future

Festivities at Happy Hollow tomorrow evening are both a celebration of the October festival, Halloween, and a closing of the club's season of festivities. There is every indication that the party, which is to be a masked ball, will be largely attended by the members. Among those who will be in fancy costume are Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shriver, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Penfold, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Culver, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Goodman, Mr. and Mrs. John O. Yelner, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Marley, Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Henry, Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Henry, Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Nellig, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Dinning, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Durkee, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Funkhauser, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Johannes, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gunther, Judge and Mrs. Howard Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Galtner, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Challis, Miss Hubbard, Miss Jeannette Jessop, Miss Jeannette Miller, Miss Helen Bodine.

What Women Are Doing

At its thirty-fourth annual meeting held in Omaha this week the Women's Missionary society of the synod of Nebraska elected the following officers: Mrs. Butler Hessel, Edna Hillis, Eloise Hillis, Margaret Metcalf of Council Bluffs, Mildred Funkhauser, Messrs. Oliver Eldridge, Fred Craig, Samuel Rees, Robert Gantt, Ray Eldridge, J. Gorham, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Braden.

The Young Women's Christian association is planning to add a class in water color to its already long schedule of opportunities offered to the ambitious young woman. This will be a day class and if enough people signify their wish for such work, will be opened Monday. Already some members are studying the art of china painting at the association.

Dr. Anna Brown of New York, secretary of the national board of the Young Women's Christian association, and director of the physical education and hygiene department, visited the local association this week. Dr. Brown was on her way from Salt Lake City to Columbus, O.

Ralph Waldo Emerson was the subject of study for the Dundee Woman's club which met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. H. C. Baird, 502 Cass street. Mrs. Burke Sinclair was leader. Mrs. G. C. Edgerly read an interesting paper on the personality and philosophy of Emerson.

COUGHED UP IN A CORNER

What Happened to a Newspaper Man Who Flashed a High Roll.

A new brace gains is being worked in West Virginia. A well known Washington correspondent who has just returned from an excursion into the domain of Senator Ekins in search of political information is the latest victim reported. The correspondent landed in Martinsburg at the unearthy hour of 1 a. m., and as it was a raw morning, and he hadn't slept, and had a cold, and his feet were damp, and he wanted an appetite for breakfast, he dropped into a saloon near the station to get a drink. The moment he was in the place he wished he were well out of it, for it was a decidedly tough "joint," but he walked up to the bar and ordered a drink. When he came to pay for it he found he had no change and was compelled to produce a $10 bill. As the bartender counted out the change three rounds around a table in the rear of the room got up and edged over to the bar.

"Say, Bill," called out one of them to the bartender, "didn't we hear this guy ask everybody to have a drink?"

"I didn't you did, I didn't," answered Bill. "Didn't you ask us to have a drink?" demanded the third tourist, the correspondent. The latter was not disposed to be an easy mark for such coarse work, and he answered, briefly, "No!"

Without a word the thing turned and walked over to a doorway and taking hold of the frame across the way, he shined himself, slowly and impressively, three times.

"There," he said, as he dropped to the floor and strode over to the bar, "I knew I could do it. Hand over the five!"

"Why the five you bet me that I couldn't chin myself three times," was the answer. "Come across with it."

"I didn't bet you anything," said the correspondent, starting to edge toward the door.

"Hold on there!" roared the thug, blocking the way to the door.

"Bill, you heard this guy make the bet, and now he's trying to wig out."

"I heard a lot of talkin'," answered the bartender. "Well, we heard him," chorused the other two thugs.

"Now, you hear that?" said the leader. "You come in here and make a lot of talk and make a bet and lose. When a guy makes a bet in this place and loses he settles, see! Come across with the five-quat!"
