FEW APPEAR TO REGISTER

Boards Have Scarcely Anything to Do During First Day.

SOME REGISTRARS NOT ON DECK

Number of Places Where One Man Goes Through Day Alone—None Register at All in Some Places.

The first day of registration for the November election was a gloomy failure. One feature of the failure was the absence of voters to be registered. Another feature was the absence of the registrars themselves.

In the various precincts the situation at 8 o'clock last evening indicated the least interest ever taken in a general election. In some of the precincts no voters at all appeared for registration. In others half a dozen stragglers called during the day, and in all of the precincts the smallest number in the recent history of the city signalled the first day's work.

Whether the first snowflakes of the season had anything to do with it or the lack of general knowledge of the fact that the work of registration had been commenced was responsible for the lack of interest, the fact remains that if greater interest is not aroused in the two days remaining many voters in Council Bluffs will find some trouble in casting their votes on November 8.

In a number of the precincts some of the registrars did not show up, and City Clerk Cassidy was sweating blood for a while. In nearly half of the precincts at 10 o'clock only one registrar was on duty, and in a number of them that condition prevailed all day.

The outfitting of the pay of the registrars from $3 to $17.50 for the complete work is declared to have had considerable to do with the absence of the registrars. In the first precinct of the Fourth ward, A. H. Clark, the republican registrar, was on duty all day without getting a chance to get away for his dinner or supper unless he locked the office. The democratic member, Charles Paschal, went to the Pacific northwest coast last week with the intention of remaining several weeks, and the vacancy was not filled. Mr. Clark registered only five voters during the day.

The work of the registrars this year is unusually heavy on account of the demand of the county for two sets of books. This involves the copying of all the names from the old books into the new ones and gives the men employed plenty to do. County Auditor Innes and City Clerk Cassidy expect to have all the vacancies on the registration boards filled by this morning. There is a grave question as to the legality of the registration where only one man passes upon the eligibility of the voter to register.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers were reported to the Recorder of Deeds by the Pottawattamie County Abstract company, Council Bluffs, August Nelson to H. E. Five transfers, total $4,320.

On next Sunday, matinee and evening. Manager Mooney of the Dobany theater, will offer his patrons the original Hackett and Daly's theater New York production of "The House of a Thousand Candles." The play is a dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's novel of the same title which for the last three years has been one of the "big best sellers." Not alone was the play successful in New York, but has had quite a long run at the Garrick theater in Chicago. Unlike most book plays, it is said that "The House of a Thousand Candles" is just as interesting to those who have never read the novel as it is to those who have.

Pure Food Men Back from Trip

Visit to Des Moines Resulted in Learning Many New Things and Having Fine Time.

The members of the pure food show committee of the Council Bluffs Retail Grocers' association have returned from Des Moines, where they went for the purpose of attending the pure food exposition that is occupying public attention there this week. The purpose of the committee was to get whatever was possible in the way of new ideas in the food show business to be used in the second exposition to be given at Council Bluffs next year. The Retail Grocers' association of Des Moines is now giving its sixth annual exposition. The Council Bluffs men were well repaid and much pleased with what they saw and learned, and especially delighted with the fine treatment given them by the Des Moines managers. This included a banquet at the Elks' club, automobile rides over the city and other attentions in addition to the open sesame to all the secrets of the show management. The Bluffs men say the Des Moines show is a very successful affair, fully as large, but not quite so pretty, as that given here in September. The exposition is located in the Caltoun building, which has been permanently fitted up for the purpose, the exhibitors having permanent booths under the balconies and the main floor left free for the use of the visitors. This gives it more of a commercial cast and robs it of many of the pretty show features that made the first attempt of the Council Bluffs association so successful.

Nearly all of the exhibitors who had goods on display here are at Des Moines, and the Council Bluffs committee took advantage of the opportunity to book them again, in addition to many others, for the show next year. The Council Bluffs committee was composed of W. A. Stone, Louis Green, John Mulqueen, A. Metzger, H. H. Huntington, W. E. Baker, L. Simons, J. Simons, W. A. Williamson and Julius Kepner, ten in number.

Gilkisons Say Authority Given

This Will Be Their Plea in Court When They Face Charge Against Them.

B. F. Gilkison and Mrs. E. I. Gilkison were arraigned in police court yesterday morning charged with obtaining money under false pretenses in connection with advertising for the Jennie Edmundson hospital. Both entered an emphatic denial that they had made any misrepresentations, but declared that they had been given ample authority for doing what they had done. They asked to have their hearing continued until Monday morning, and they were permitted to go on their own recognizance until that time.

The Gilkisons claim that they were engaged in soliciting for advertisements to be placed on the annual supply of stationery to be used at the hospital and not for an annual publication to be issued by the hospital association, and that to do this they had received permission from Miss Steinbaugh, the superintendent.

The police department was yesterday morning placed in possession of another check drawn in favor of the hospital by J. Simon and which was cashed at the Merchants' National bank, Omaha, endorsed, "Jennie Edmundson hospital, per B. F. Pratt, superintendent." There has never been any person connected with the hospital by the name of Pratt. The endorsement on some of the other checks was "E. I. Wilkinson, solicitor."

The high wind yesterday afternoon blew down trees on First avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets and knocked out one circuit of the fire police signal system. The trees carried down every way on that side of the street.

Bernice Brown, daughter of Harry M. Brown, clerk of the district court, is confined to their home, 304 High street, by illness of such a serious character that her parents fear she will be unable to attend school for several months.

Mayor Maloney was yesterday advised in a letter from John McVicar, secretary of the National League of American Municipalities, that he had been appointed vice president for Iowa, and thus becomes one of the active officers of the league.

Miss Stella Gibbs has been appointed assistant librarian at the public library. Miss Gibbs has just completed a two years' course of public library instruction at New York under the tutelage of Miss Annie Carroll Moore. She had previously served as an apprentice in library work here.

Judge Woodruff will attempt today and tomorrow to finish the business of the September term of the district court. But little remains to be done beyond cleaning up the shreds of cases, for Judge Woodruff has pushed the work with zealous industry throughout the term. The November term will begin next Tuesday with Judge Green on the bench.

E. J. Day has returned from a fortnight's business trip through the eastern business and money centers. He says politics now overshadow every other thing throughout the east. While in New York Mr. Day was drawn away from other pursuits long enough to attend a few political meetings. He heard Henry I. Simmons, republican candidate for governor, speak and also attended meetings addressed by Chanier and others.

One of the myriad offenders of the same character got a little touch of grief yesterday morning when William Landstrom was fined $5 and costs for throwing a bottle in the street and smashing it on the pavement. The broken bottle crop is the most prolific one the street cleaning workers find in their morning rounds, especially on Monday mornings.

In answer to the demands of automobile owners the police department is making an extra effort to teach the offenders some wholesome lessons.

William F. Sledentopf yesterday closed negotiations for the purchase of the J. H. Schultz farm on the Glenwood road. The farm comprises 100 acres and the purchase price was $15,000. Mr. Sledentopf bought it for speculative purposes. Mr. and Mrs. Sledentopf some time ago celebrated their golden wedding when forty children and grandchildren were present. They have concluded to spend the remainder of their lives in a comfortable little home in Council Bluffs, free from the cares and toil of looking after a big Iowa farm.

E. C. Frost, residing at 129 South Seventh street, got out his winter overcoat yesterday and hung it out in the yard for a few minutes to let the brisk wind blow away the moth ball fragrance. The wind and the comfortable looking coat, and perhaps the owner's name, formed a strong attraction for C. B. Seaton, alias "One-eyed Reilly," who was given a suspended police court sentence on Friday to get out of town. Seaton took a seat where he could calmly survey the situation for a few minutes and then took the coat. Frost came out a moment later and took up the chase for the thief and caught him in the immediate neighborhood at the instant he had negotiated the sale of the garment to a neighbor. The two held the man until the police came.

Mrs. J. M. Langdon, manager of the Union City mission, has planned to attach a school to the mission for the purpose of adding interest and value to the winter's work. The work outlined is somewhat of the character of that long conducted by Rev. Henry DeLong and Mrs. DeLong at the Avenue F and East Broadway missions. The girls of poor families will be taught to make their own garments and be given practical lessons in dressmaking. A free employment agency is also to be incorporated in the mission work, where employment for both men and women will be sought.

The mission, which is wholly non-sectarian, is to be made more than ever a factor in the life of the city.

Luther Perkins, a nephew of C. A. "Tib" betta, has been his guest for the last few days. Mr. Perkins has recently returned from a year's residence in the Philippines, where he was engaged in educational work. While there he became interested in the mission and movement and is now on his way here, qualifying himself for the work. He has received an appointment for the missionary field in China and is now on his way there. Mr. Tibbetts has not seen his sister, the mother of the young man, for thirty-eight years, and the old home life in Michigan and the family circle memories were forcibly brought back when he was visited by a young man who is now on his way here.

The blue-eyed little sister whom he left at the old home while she was yet a child. With snow clouds boiling up from the northwest and swirling into faces that strangely resembled some of the realistic cartoons of Teddy Roosevelt, the coal dealers of Council Bluffs yesterday looked into the angry cloudland faces and smiled. Their smiles soon changed into worried looks when rush orders for coal began to pile up far beyond the capacity for the day's deliveries. The Council Bluffs coal and ice company had fourteen teams deliv livering and got the teamsters to work until late at night, and still were unable to keep up with the demands.

Other dealers were equally pressed, and many Council Bluffs people had to huddle around the little stoves in the furnace last night as the only alternative to going to bed to keep warm. There is plenty of coal in the local yard and unless freight deliveries should be delayed no difficulty will be experienced in maintaining the supply during the moderate autumn weather.

CORN SHOW PREMIUM LIST

Goodly Number of Valuable Prizes Offered Exhibitors of Farm Product.

The premium list of the Corn show was issued yesterday and is now being rushed through the mails. A number of the premiums exceed $50 in value.

In accordance with the desire to give premiums that have specific value as incentives to the production of permanent interest in the evolution of king corn as many silver cups as possible have been secured. One of the handiest of these is a handsome iron eighteen inches high and mounted on solid ebony, which has been contributed by George Gerner, the Council Bluffs jeweler, who acted as the agent of the Horticultural congress last year for the purchase of all of the cups given as prizes and who is discharging the same obligation this year. Mr. Gerner has designated it as the premium to be awarded annually to the boy or girl who exhibits the ten best ears of corn. Another cup has been contributed by the Omaha Grain exchange for the ten best ears of corn grown in the Missouri river valley.

Though the book from which it is taken is not less than forty years old, the "St. Elmo" which is to be presented at the Dobany theater Saturday, is a masterpiece of new with the present theatrical season. So remarkable was the furor created by the novel when it first came to the attention of fiction lovers and so lasting has been its popularity it is not to be wondered at that widespread success is predicted for the play. It makes a capital stage story. St. Elmo, it will be remembered, thought his first love was a lasting one. Disappointed in it he entered upon a wild career and became a wretched criminal. Then he met "the one girl." She was a simple country maiden, whose purity of character shames him into repentance and a reassertion of his nobler self. It's a play of thrills and heart interest and has a lofty tone that makes its own appeal.

Former Creston Man Dead.

CRESTON, Ia., Oct. 28.—(Special.)—Word has been received here of the death of Dr. A. J. Rawls, a long-time resident of this place and a practitioner for more than twenty-five years here and at his home in Kent, a suburb of Seattle, Wash. He was found dead in his office, heart trouble being the cause assigned. Dr. Rawls was widely known throughout this part of the state, coming here from Macksburg when the latter giving rise to a young man, where he soon built up an enviable practice and was connected with the hospital staff for many years. On account of failing health, about two years ago he with his family removed to Washington in the hope of benefiting the trouble, and recent letters to his daughter and friends here gave the information that he felt very much improved. A widow and four daughters are his survivors.

Iowa Pioneer Dead.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Franklin McGuire, 79 years old, a pioneer of Webster county died at the home of his adopted daughter here. McGuire had the distinction for many years of being the earliest pioneer living here, having come to the county in 1848, with his father, uncle and Henry Lott, who caused the Spirit Lake massacre. Until a year ago he was in the best of health.

MRS. COX FATALLY BURNED

Prominent Woman of Storm Lake Will Die of Injuries Received by Fire.

STORM LAKE, Ia., Oct. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—Mrs. S. B. Cox was so terribly burned at noon today that physicians say she cannot live. Her clothing caught fire while she was about her work, and before she was aware of her danger she stepped outside, where the strong wind caused the smoldering fire to burn up suddenly. Men passing in a buggy rushed to her aid, throwing blankets and robes around her, but before the fire could be extinguished practically all of her clothing was burned from her body. She is about 55 years of age and one of the most beloved women of the town.

Her son, who is employed in the post-office, and her daughter, who is primary teacher in the city schools, were less than a block from the house and were compelled to witness the flames without being able to reach their mother quickly enough to save her.
