

MAKES Cream Baking Powder

Its superiority is unquestioned
Its fame world-wide
Its use a protection and a guarantee against alum food

The low-grade powders are made from "phosphate alum," or "sodium aluminum sulphate," which is also alum, a mineral acid, and that makes the food unhealthful.

One pound of the imitation (25c.) powders contains five ounces of alum, a mineral poison.

Food baked with alum baking powders is found to contain a portion of the alum unchanged.

The continued use of alum made food impairs digestion, causing dyspepsia. The careful housewife when buying baking powder, will examine the label and take only a brand whose label shows the powder to be made from cream of tartar.

POSTAL RECEIPTS GROWING

Report to Be Issued Wednesday Will Show Large Increase.

SECOND AND THIRD-CLASS, TOO

Newspapers, Catalogues, Pamphlets and Circulars All Going Out in Larger Quantities Than Ever Before.

"Our monthly statement, which will be issued Wednesday, is going to show a big increase in postal receipts over October of last year," said Postmaster Thomas Tuesday morning, "and while I am unable to give exact figures, owing to the fact that the compilation of our statement is not yet finished, I am sure that the growth we shall show will be a matter of gratification to all Omaha boosters. Perhaps the most notable increase is in the sale of stamps, an indication which shows a busy business than ever before."

One of the most notable phases of post-office expansion in Omaha is the rather remarkable increase in the value of second class mail matter, which is merely another way of saying that the newspaper business in Omaha is on the upward trend, for second class matter is newspapers and periodicals.

The following figures, taken from post-office records, tell the story:
Second class matter, year ending
June 30, 1910.....$2,520.08
June 30, 1909.....$1,506.67
Increase.....$1,013.41
Third class matter, 1910.....$4,673.13
Third class matter, 1909.....6,709.91
Increase.....$2,036.78

All Classes Increase.

The term "third-class" matter refers to catalogues, pamphlets, circulars and other printed matter devoted exclusively to advertising purposes and which does not carry with it any news or general reading matter. It will be observed by a glance at the foregoing figures that Omaha has been doing some lively advertising.

"The postoffice is an infallible index to a city's state of prosperity, there being only one other barometer of equal significance, and that is the bank clearings," said Mr. Thomas. "The postoffice business is growing by leaps and bounds, the bank clearings run far ahead of many cities, and the only reason for this, in our opinion, is that Omaha lacks in size is more than offset by commercial quality."
Figures from the United States Internal revenue office show a total October collection of $229,096.36, and it is estimated that the aggregate collections for the year 1910 will run up to $2,900,000. This is considered remarkably strong for an agricultural state, where there is no tobacco raised and where the liquor industry is but a comparatively small factor in the state's resources.

WORK RUSHED ON HILL LINE

Load from Thermopolis to Shoshoni Is Well Under Way—More Direct Line.

Reports from the working camps on the new Thermopolis line of the Burlington indicate that fast work in blasting and grading of a railroad line has been going on there during the summer, the engineers stating that the first bridge east of Thermopolis is ready for the steel work, the piers having been set, and that the second bridge on the line is under construction. Grading and track laying has been done for two of the thirteen miles and blasting in the heavy rock country of the Royal gorge is going on now.

The line as it is being built is to connect the two ends of the Burlington line and is the key to the big Wyoming trade in the northern part of the state. When completed, the Burlington's manufactured goods can be shipped directly to and the food products of that country will be saved hours in shipment. As an indication of how important the road considers the building of the line it is costing the construction department of the Burlington $100,000 a mile to build some ten to thirteen miles of track.

The new line is a part of the "North Platte" system, for which the Burlington bought the right-of-way three years ago, and will finally run from Kearney to Bridgeport, from Bridgeport to Orin Junction, and from Orin Junction to Shoshoni, to connect with this Big Horn country. As it is, however, the only road needed for immediate connections with the Big Horn is the Thermopolis-Shoshoni line under construction. The other parts of the North Platte system would be merely to develop the country, as the Burlington has a line into Wyoming now. By this new line some 2,000 acres of fertile land will be placed in connection with Omaha direct, instead of having to go nearly to Billings first.

Hallowe'en Pranks Occupy Police

Officers Cover Their Beats at Swift Pace and Some Damage Is Done.

Last night was Hallowe'en, and it was evident from the many reports which came into the police station over the telephone that young Omaha enjoyed itself to the utmost.

From early in the evening until late at night the desk sergeants had their hands full attending to the complaints of angry housewives and indignant citizens. It is reported that several of the men out on their beats in the residence sections reduced their embonpoint by a number of inches in their attempts to cover the whole territory. As is usually the case, many of the groups of funmakers went too far.

Four men, forty-first and forty-second on Farnam it was reported that a number of girls were breaking windows. At Tenth and Hickory streets a crowd of boys, some of them almost men in size, tore down a coal shed and at Twenty-sixth and Seward streets a large plate glass was broken.

Joe Guade, special officer for the Illinois Central, caught four sons of Italy making away with some lumber from the Brown flats, two deserted buildings at Thirteenth and Davenport streets. The property belongs to the Illinois Central and Guade at once notified the police. The men were arrested, but protested all the way to the station that they were only "Hallowe'ning." A friend later furnished $10 bonds for each of the quartet and they marched out of the station showing all their teeth in daring smiles of joy at their release.

Suspects Prove to Be Wrong Men

One Fugitive Arrested for Supposed Complicity in Times Horror is Big Embesment.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Dispatches received here tonight stated that the American consul at Acapulco and the Mexican authorities are convinced that one of the men arrested there on suspicion of being implicated in the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building in Wilson B. Evans, said to be wanted in Los Angeles for embezzlement, and that the others are not the parties for whom search has been made.

One man gave his name as Harry Ham. The sum of $10,528 was found on his person. According to the dispatch, papers found in his baggage indicate that Evans is the real name of the man who is under arrest. Others who were arrested, having been taken from aboard the power schooner Kate, have been released from custody, but are still under police surveillance.

American Consul Marion Letcher of Acapulco is in direct communication with the state department at Washington in regard to the arrests.

WILSON TO SPEAK IN OHIO

Secretary of Agriculture Will Make Addresses in Mercer and Greene Counties.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—A fourth cabinet officer has been ordered to Ohio to help the republican ticket. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson's dates in New York state have been curtailed to enable him to speak in some of the rural districts of President Taft's state on Friday and Saturday.

Secretary Wilson leaves tonight for New York state to fill engagements made for him in some of the upstate counties. It is expected he will leave for Ohio to speak in Mercer and Greene counties.

Secretary Wilson has been much in demand. He is popular among the farmers, and the republicans are apparently more anxious about the voters in the rural districts than they have been for several years. The request for his services in Ohio came on Saturday.

Secretary of State Knox, Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh and Attorney General Wickham are the other cabinet members who will participate in the Ohio campaign.

No Trouble to Have Beautiful Hair

(From the Chicago Inter Ocean)

A well known New York society woman, renowned for the exquisite loveliness of her hair, is reported to have said: "I attribute the abundance and glossiness of my hair to the fact that my hair-dresser never uses water on my head. She uses only a dry shampoo, sifting it evenly over my head and then brushing it thoroughly—brushing it until all the powder is removed."

"She says wetting takes the life and color out of the hair and leaves it dull and brittle. In reply to my inquiry she told me she made the shampoo herself—simply mixing a ounce of ether with 4 ounces of powdered orris root. She explains that the orris root cleanses, while the ether keeps the hair light and fluffy and retains its natural color."—Adv.

Birth Rate on the Average—October was an average month for additions to the population and there were 190 newcomers. Ninety-seven of these were boy babies and four of them were colored. The girl babies numbered ninety-three, with three of them colored. In 1909 during the month of October there were born eighty-seven girls and ninety-eight boys.

Dahlman Talks Thursday—Mayor Dahlman's address before the executive committee and members of the Commercial club was postponed Tuesday until Thursday noon because Mr. Dahlman was not able to be back in the city. His talk, which follows an address one week ago by Chester H. Aldrich, will accordingly take place Thursday of this week.

For Introducing Whiskey—Sunnet Morrie of Winnebago was brought to Omaha Monday night by Deputy United States Marshal Nides on the charge of introducing whiskey on the Winnebago Indian reservation. His case is being investigated by the grand jury, which is now in session. It is not alleged that Morris sold whiskey to the Indians, but the mere fact that he is supposed to have carried whiskey into the reservation territory constitutes a federal offense.

Building Figures for the Year—The year 1910 is still doing well in building, but shows no promise of catching up with 1909 unless some of the twenty-story buildings that are contemplated materialize before January 1. There were 162 buildings erected during October as an aggregate cost of $44,965. In October, 1909, there were 152 costed $57,205, and in October, 1908, 113, costed $37,975. In the first ten months of the year 1910 1,333 buildings have gone up, costing $1,738,173. In 1909 there were 1,467, costing $1,511,628, and in 1908, 1,322, costing $2,321,390.

Miss Francis Starr and company in "The easiest way," a drama in four acts, by Eugene Walter, under direction of David Belasco. The cast:

John Madison.....Edward H. Robbins

William Brookton.....Joseph Kilgour

Jim Weston.....John P. Brawn

Laura Murdoch.....Frances Starr

Elise St. Clair.....Louise Randolph

Andie.....Violet Hand

Mr. Eugene Walter's adaptation of Mr. Arthur Wing Pinero's "Iris," under the name of "The easiest way," has not improved the quality of the drama's argument in the least. It has had the effect of vulgarizing the conditions, of brutalizing the characters, and, if possible, alienating the sympathy that might have gone out to the woman. It is possible to condone the fault of Iris Bellamy; it is not possible to condone that of Laura Murdoch; in the Pinero play Maldonado pursues Iris with something akin to honest love, for he offers to make her his wife, regardless of the fact that she does not love him, while in the Walter play, Brookton simply pays her to amuse him. The immorality of the outfit is far from edifying, and the lesson, if it has any, is "the easiest way" may be the most alluring, as well, but it still leads straight to disappointment. It is not only distressing, but its progress is depressing, for it is not pleasant to watch the course of a woman, even a weak one, along the road to destruction.

Miss Starr gives vivid life to Laura Murdoch, sparing nothing in the building up of a perfect picture of a young woman who sold herself to a rich man, while holding the love and faith of a poor man who was trying to win the means to supply her with the luxury she craved. She has the charm and strength of youth in her favor and her beauty adds much to the realism of the role. From first to last she works with a definite purpose, to develop the character in every detail, and succeeds most admirably. It could well be wished that her talent were devoted to a better purpose.

Mr. Kilgour, too, gives a most impressive performance as Brookton, the man of wealth, who does not take his women seriously, but buys them as he does his horses or his motor cars, and parts with them as lightly; and, incidentally, uses them as roughly while they are in his possession. He may have in him some spark of the noble nature of man, but he shows none of it. Edward Robbins makes equally convincing the other type of man in the part of John Madison. He is willing to marry Laura, knowing she has been the mistress of Brookton, but could not forgive her having led to him; while Brookton, whose honor turned on a very fine point, could not bear to have Madison think it was he who had led and not her. And between these two poor Laura's life went down in a most tragic wreck. The man who bought her and the man who loved her was neither willing to help her when she most needed help. So she called to her maid to unpack her trunks, get out her most attractive dress and prettiest hat, while she made ready to go to "Rector's," there to "make hit."

Mr. Brawn has a good comedy role in the part of Jim Weston, who tries to help Laura, and Miss Randolph well portrays the character of the woman who sells herself as if she were so much cargo or baited hay. Miss Rand is good as the maid.

Mr. Belasco has staged the play with the care that marks all his output. He is a master of scenery at least, and on this he has bestowed such a setting as really deserves to be called beautiful.

The Brandeis was very well filled last night by an audience that gave its tribute of praise to the actors for the excellence of their work.

Notes from the Stage World.

The Scott concert at the Brandeis this afternoon promises to be very well attended. It is the opening number of the B. H. W. program for a winter series of matinee concerts, for which many season subscriptions have been made. The great baritone will sing a characteristic program.

The picture of Mr. Sothorn being wounded in the course of a savage rehearsal of the duel scene between Macbeth and Macduff and the "first aid" stunt by Miss Marlowe should not be taken as a bit of press agent prelude to the announcement of something that Mr. Sothorn has at least denied by indirection. If the marriage is to come, it will come in good season without such exploitation.

Thursday morning Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe and the entire organization that is to appear with them in their new production of "Macbeth" leave New York, where for the last three weeks they have given an average of ten hours a day to rehearsals and journey to New Haven, where behind closed doors they will give a complete full dress rehearsal of the play. The initial performance of the new production occurs the next evening at the Hipperton theater, New Haven.

This will be the most pretentious production these two eminent artists have yet made of any Shakespearean play and promises to rank as the great artistic event of the season. For nearly two years both Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe have been steadily elaborating their ideas of the great tragedy and studying the different authorities and versions to present as near absolute accuracy as possible the full meaning of the great tragedy and its illumination for the stage.

The version that will be used by Mr. Sothorn and Miss Marlowe is elaborated from the Henry Irving prompt book used at the magnificent production of "Macbeth" at the Lyceum theater, London, December 29, 1883. The musical setting for that production, written by Sir Arthur Sullivan, has been especially arranged for the Sothorn and Marlowe production by Mr. Frank A. Howson, who also furnished the musical setting for "Hamlet."

The allotment of roles supporting Mr. Sothorn as Macbeth and Miss Marlowe as Lady Macbeth is as follows: Duncan, William Harris; Malcolm, Eric Blind; Donalbain, F. J. Kelly; Banquo, Sydney Nathal; Macduff, Frederick Lewis; porter, Rowland Buckstone; gentleman, Noraah Lomian; witches and apparitions, Malcolm Bradley, Albert Howson, Lenore Chippendale, Eleanor Fralick, Charlotte Lewis and William Shumper.

At the Boyd today Miss Lang and company will play a matinee performance of "The Girl of the Golden West."

Pietro Mascagni, the composer of "Yohel," is booked to sail November 2 on the Kronprinzessin Cecelle for New York. Mascagni has not been in America since 1902, and a tumultuous welcome is awaiting him, both from his compatriots and the musical public at large.

"Musical Theater," the xylophone and banjo expert who is appearing this week at the American, is known to his Omaha friends as Thor J. Michaelson. His father is a scholar and is now on a lecturing tour in Denmark. Since he left here, more than a dozen years ago, this musician has never had a chance to play in his home town and he is immensely enjoying the chance to be here. His friends and relatives here are welcoming him enthusiastically, and at the Monday night performance he received a big bunch of white chrysanthemums from unknown admirers.

Miss Kellerman declares that during her stay in Omaha she intends to see every part of the city from the seat of her new automobile, which she drives herself. That she might have the car here on time last Sunday afternoon she had her manager drive the car himself from Des Moines. Manager Sullivan left the Iowa capital city at 5 a. m. and reached here about midnite time.

There is a renewal of old acquaintances at the Gayety this week, where the Behman show is receiving all the friends it made when here last season as the first house in the city when the theater changed its policy. This performance gets all the laughs it did last season and about the only difference is that it is being witnessed by far greater crowds than saw it on its first visit.
