FIRE DAY WIDELY OBSERVED

All Schools of State Have Drills and Ceremony.

OMAHA PROGRAMS ARE INDOORS

Owing to inclement weather Pupils of Local Schools Have Ceremonies Inside—Essays and Text Books on Fires Read.

Fire day as set by the state superintendent of instruction was observed in every school in the state today with appropriate exercises and drills. In Omaha the drills were given indoors in most schools, because of the inclement weather. At the Cornucopia school all the entrances were closed but one and it was planned to get the children all out by that one exit so that they would not get into the habit of rushing about the building in all directions and increasing their own danger. At the high school the drill is given with six bells as a signal. The first two are a warning, the second two are an order to get ready and the third two are the assurance that the alarm is not false and the exits must be made. The high school students are trained in getting quickly about the building by their frequent changes of classes and fire drill is not for them so serious a problem.

The clearest and most original program of those given in the schools during the day's celebration was probably the one in the kindergarten department of the Saratoga school. Miss Marian Funkhouser, daughter of Councilman M. P. Funkhouser, a teacher there, has written words and music for a number of children's songs and they have been learned by her small pupils. One of these tells about the brave "fire ladder" and the children sang this song as a special part of the ceremony.

Lothrop School Has Program.

At Lothrop school the programs for the rooms were very elaborate. One room had a debate on the relative amount of danger in the work of the fireman and the policeman. Pupils in another debated the question of having explosives in patriotic celebrations. Essays in all the schools were written by the children and read before their classmates on such subjects as the loss of property and life in fires, the training of boy scouts in building and guarding fires in the woods, the great fires in Chicago, Baltimore, modern European cities, Rome and the configurations of tubular times. One boy at Central school, Frank Hunter, read a paper on his personal experience in a prairie fire.

The establishment of fire day as a state institution was suggested to state superintendent McBrien by Superintendent Davidson of Omaha, Deputy Fire Commissioner A. V. Johnson has lent all the aid possible in sending out text books and brochures of information and the day will probably develop into a very useful and enthusiastically observed institution.

Salesman Dies of Sudden Illness

Henry H. Drefold Succumbs to Double Pneumonia After Four Days' Illness.

Suffering a remarkable attack of pneumonia in both lungs, Henry H. Drefold, 30 years old, died after a four-days' illness at his home, 509 Underwood avenue, Thursday noon. Mr. Drefold was taken ill Sunday afternoon from an unknown cause and quickly became seriously stricken. The physician reported that he had suffered double pneumonia in an unusually sudden fashion.
Mr. Drefold was a traveling salesman for the Adams & Kelly Traveling Mill company. He had returned from a trip Saturday day, apparently in the best of health. He is survived by his father and a brother, Oscar, and sister, Mrs. W. Wakefield.

DENNISON LEADS Y. M. C. A. UNTIL NEXT SPRING

No Effort Will Be Made at This Time to Find a Successor to Wade.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian association has decided to wait until next spring before choosing a new secretary. "It would be almost impossible to find a new man now to fill Secretary Wade's place," said G. P. Gilmore, president of the board, "as all of the good secretaries are tied up with yearly contracts. Besides we had our work here organized until spring. Mr. Dennison will continue as acting secretary and fill the place until a permanent selection is made."

TELLS OF BIG LAND BOOMS

Arnold Zbinden Reports Great Land Values.

PAID TWO DOLLARS, GOT FIFTY

Seattle Man Says Land Once Rated at Two-Fifty an Acre is Now Seventy in Nebraska—Praises Land Products Show.

Arnold Zbinden, one of the city councilmen of Seattle, is in Omaha today, calling on old friends and meeting the city officials. Mr. Zbinden is a former Nebraskan, having settled in Buffalo county when land could be bought for $2.50 an acre. He was there long enough to dispose of some of his holdings at more than $9 an acre, and the last land he sold brought him almost $60.
"In those days, some people held the notion that Nebraska land was not a good investment, even at the low prices prevailing," said Councilman Zbinden, "some others of us could not agree with them, and the outcome justified our faith. Those same lands are today held at $9 an acre, and even more for some pieces, and they are worth the most."
"My experience teaches me that any land in the west is about as good an investment as a man can make, and the results prove it. When I speak of the west, I mean Nebraska, and the states lying west of this. Take, for instance, the matter of corn growing, and lay a map on the table. It will be readily discovered that the area in which good corn can be grown, or any kind of corn, is very small in comparison to the whole area of farming lands. Nebraska, of course, stands among the leaders as a corn producing state, and there is no reason on earth why its lands shouldn't always hold the present high values. Indeed, this value is bound to increase as the farmers begin to do their work in the most modern, approved and scientific ways. That kind of education is making in and must in the nature of things bear good fruit. We of the further west see its good results every year in increasing measure.

Praises Land Show.

Mr. Zbinden saw some of the advertising of the Western Land Products exhibit to be held in Omaha January 15 to 25, and the plan struck him very favorably. "Such a show will draw many people in from our section, I feel sure, because it's right in line with the newer agricultural education that I mentioned. We know many things by hearsay, and some of us old-timers know the handicaps and hardships that were met and overcome; but such an exhibit as you propose to hold here will present in concrete form the results of wise and well directed work on the farm lands of the west. Many of the original settlers of farms are still left with you, and to them there will be lessons in such a show, but to the younger generation it should prove especially valuable. We ought to have more of these farm shows, if that's what they can be called, and we ought to have them all over the west. Omaha is one great center in which such a show can be held with absolute promise of success, in my judgment."

FIGHT FOR THE FURNITURE

Furniture Company and Loan Company Both Want the Goods.

War over household goods of Mrs. Leticia Clayton, 115 Leavenworth street, between the Peoples Furniture and Carpet company and the Foley Loan company broke out in district court Friday, when the furniture company filed a petition in which it asked the court to order the loan company to relinquish its property, and converting it to its own use.
According to the petition, the furniture company sold the goods to Mrs. Clayton on the installment plan. Installment plan sale contracts are made in the form of leases, the title to the furniture remaining in the seller until the final installments are paid. The furniture company alleges that it made such sale contracts with Mrs. Clayton in the spring of 1909, that she defaulted in her payments about January 1, 1910 and that on January 20 the Foley Loan company took the property from Mrs. Clayton and has refused to give it up.

The loan company is presumed to have taken the furniture to satisfy a debt of Mrs. Clayton, but the furniture company alleges that the seizure was illegal because the woman did not actually own the property.

DOCTORS VISIT TWO CLINICS

Annual of Nebraska College of Medicine Wind Up Day at Glenwood, Ia., Feeble-Minded Institute.

Clinics were the order of Friday for the Alumni association of the Nebraska College of Medicine. At the Methodist hospital the visitors attended a clinic in nervous diseases conducted by Dr. Joseph Allen and one in eye diseases by Dr. Gifford.
At the Child saving institute Dr. McClellan conducted a clinic in dieting.
In the afternoon the visiting physicians went to Glenwood, Ia., to be the guests of the management of the institute for the Feeble Minded.

Conference Held on Institute Plan

F. L. Haller, Rome Miller and Superintendent Clark Talk on Child Saving Institute.

Regent F. L. Haller of the University of Nebraska, President Rome Miller of the Child Saving Institute and Superintendent Clark held a conference at the Home Friday relative to the grading of the ground around the new home of the institute. The university is interested because the new buildings of the college of medicine will thank the institute. The legislature must confer authority upon the regents before such progress is made upon the new group of buildings, which will include an orthopedic hospital, funds for which have been promised.
