

WASHINGTON MEN GO HOME

Seven Thousand Are Expected to Cast Ballots in Own State.

MANY RETURNS TO MIDDLE WEST

Interest in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska's Elections—Changes in the Senate Will Result.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Special interest in the results of the forthcoming elections are manifest on every hand, and the question, "Are you going home to vote?" is one which is most uppermost in the clubs, restaurants, hotel lobbies and other places where men meet and congregate.

The general consensus of opinion is that there will be a greater number of voters whose employment is in agriculture and who still retain their political affiliations in their home states to vote this year to cast their ballots than in usual in a so-called off year.

The campaign managers of both parties have quite successfully "drummed" the various government departments and the business houses of the nation with the slogan, "Go home to vote." This plea to go home to vote has been most industriously carried forward for weeks past with the result that at least 2,000 voters resident in Washington will go to their states to cast their ballots on November 7.

The indications are that nine-tenths of the residents of Washington having votes in the middle west will be present at their voting places on election day. The interest shown in the elections in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska is particularly noticeable and many hundreds from these states who have the right of suffrage will this year exercise it.

A canvass of the offices of the railway ticket agents today indicated a very marked increase in the sale of "out-of-state" tickets had been made during the last week. Railroad men assert there will be a greater exodus of voters from Washington this year than upon any previous year.

Thirty Senators' Terms Expire. Great are the odds against such a contingency. A general political landslide at the polls next Tuesday might result in a democratic senate, as well as a democratic house. Of the thirty-two seats in the senate thirty would become vacant.

Of the thirty positions twenty-four are held by republicans, a circumstance usually prejudicial to the democracy, as it gives them proportionately more opportunities for gain. The republican senators whose terms will expire are:

Aldrich of Rhode Island, Beveridge of Indiana, Bullock of Connecticut, Burket of Nebraska, Burrows of Michigan, Carter of Montana, Clark of Minnesota, Clark of Wyoming, Deussen of New York, Dick of Ohio, Dupont of Delaware, Flint of California, Hale of Maine, Keam of New Jersey, La Follette of Wisconsin, Lodge of Massachusetts, McPherson of North Dakota, Nixon of Nevada, Oliver of Pennsylvania, Page of Vermont, Pennington of Virginia, Sutherland of Utah and Warner of Missouri.

The democrats are making vigorous fights for many of these places, but the republicans are so strongly entrenched that nothing less than a revolution could insure success in a sufficient number of cases to diminish the republic's majority in the house of congress. The republican majority is now twenty-four, and in order to attain such control it would be necessary for the democrats to gain fourteen of the twenty-four republican seats and in addition hold all of the six seats now occupied by democrats.

Retiring Democrats. The democratic senators who either must retire or be reelected between now and March 4 are:

Culberson of Texas, Frazier of Tennessee, Money of Mississippi, Raynor of Maryland, Swanson of Virginia and Talliferro of Florida. Mr. Swanson is the appointed successor of Senator Daniel, whose death occurred after the last session of congress. His appointment is limited to the approaching session, but owing to the fact that the Mississippi legislature will not be in session this winter, it will be necessary for the governor to make another appointment either of Mr. Swanson or of some one else until there can be an election.

Even though the democrats do not gain control, the senate of the next congress will be a changed body. In addition to Senator Daniel, Senators Danahy of Iowa and Molloy of Louisiana have died since adjournment in June, and their places probably will be filled in the coming session. No selection has been made in Iowa. Action has been taken in Louisiana, but complications are expected to arise in connection with the vacancy from that state. After himself receiving an election to the vacancy caused by Mr. McKern's death, Governor Thomas declined the office and sought to fill it by the appointment of Mr. Thornton.

The circumstances under which the appointment was made have given rise to doubt as to its validity and the vacancy may continue until the legislature can act.

Several Not Candidates. Of the republicans whose terms will expire in March, it is known that several will not come back. Among them are Messrs. Aldrich, Hale, Flint, Piles and Warner, all of whom refused to stand for re-election, and Senator Burrows, who was defeated in the Michigan primaries.

Among the democrats Senator Money will be missed. His successor, Hon. John Sharp Williams, former democratic house leader, was chosen by the Mississippi legislature three or four years ago when Mr. Money refused to be a candidate to succeed himself.

Senator Talliferro occupies an anomalous position. Defeated at the primary for re-nomination by Governor Broward, another change has been effected to him by the death of Mr. Broward before the legislature could meet and ratify the action of the primary. If Senator Taylor should be elected governor of Tennessee another complication would arise.

Senator Page of Vermont is the son-in-law of the retiring thirty whose terms expire in March who already has received a re-election, and to him was awarded the unusual honor of an unanimous election, the democrats joining with the republicans.

Taft Issues

Thanksgiving Proclamation

Vigorous Growth and Progress of Nation Reflected by Records of Population and Harvests.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The vigorous growth and progress of the country as reflected by the records of population and harvests and the general conditions of international trade are things for which Thanksgiving is especially due for the year 1910 according to the annual Thanksgiving day proclamation issued by President Taft today. The proclamation is as follows:

"This year of 1910 is drawing to a close. The records of population and harvests which are the index of progress show a vigorous national growth and the health and progress well-being of our communities throughout this land and in our possessions beyond its seas. These blessings have not descended upon us in restricted measure, but overflow and abound. They are the blessings and boon of God.

"We continue to be at peace with the rest of the world, in all essential matters our relations with other peoples are harmonious, with an ever-growing feeling of friendship and depth of recognition of mutual dependence. It is especially to be noted that during the last year great progress has been achieved in the cause of arbitration and the peaceful settlement of international disputes.

"Last year therefore, I, William Howard Taft, president of the United States of America, in accordance with the wise custom of the civil magistrate since the first settlements in this land and with the consent established from the foundation of this government, do appoint Thursday, November 24, 1910, a day of national thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed on that day by the people of the United States, and to be observed by the people of the United States to give thanks to God for His goodness and loving kindness.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this 7th day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ten and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and thirty-fifth.

"WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, President."

"ALVIE A. ADER, Acting Secretary of State."

Secretary Meyer Confers with Taft at Washington

Inspection Tour of Ten Thousand Miles—Too Many Navy Yards on Atlantic and Gulf.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Back from an inspection tour that extended over 10,000 miles, Secretary of the Navy Meyer reached Washington Sunday, conferred with President Taft and departed in the afternoon for Massachusetts, where he votes Tuesday. Meanwhile he announced there were too many navy yards on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and that he expected to make some changes in the work of the Mare Island yard. He declined to discuss the Pacific island yards until after he had consulted experts in the service.

The shores at Guantanamo naval station, said Mr. Meyer, is low enough so that buildings can be erected without expensive preparation and there is one place where large floating docks can be located with only about ten feet of dredging.

He found in some of the navy yards that the buildings had been erected at greater expense than was necessary. At Guantanamo the expense will be minimized and a single building of concrete and corrugated iron will be effective.

Mr. Meyer favors having only one navy yard at the Gulf coast of the United States, that to be supplementary to Guantanamo and supplementary to the Panama fortifications. There is no intention to establish a base on the isthmus nor is there any intention, as reported, of placing the construction and pay corps in the line of the navy.

While declining to indicate what navy yards were to be abolished, he admitted that on the Pacific coast he favored establishing dry docks. These, in all probability, will be within easy distance of San Francisco.

Secretary Meyer's trip may result in various executive changes and recommendations to congress.

Candidates Favor Woman's Suffrage

Twenty Per Cent of Nominees by Both Parties Advocate Votes for Gentler Sex.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—More than 20 per cent of the men nominated by the democratic and republican parties as candidates for congress at the coming election are in favor of suffrage for women, either in full or partially, according to the congressional committee of the National Woman's Suffrage association.

In order to ascertain the view of prospective congressmen on the subject the committee conducted a canvass by mail. In a letter sent the nominees the committee requested to obtain answers on the questions of whether the nominees were in favor of or opposed to full suffrage, municipal suffrage, school suffrage or suffrage in any form for women. They also were questioned whether, in favor of full suffrage, they approved an amendment to the United States constitution.

This request for an expression was responded to by 161 of the 672 nominees addressed. In the replies received, 107 favored full suffrage for women, sixty-four of whom were democrats and forty-three republicans. There were twenty-one democrats and fifteen republicans who favored partial suffrage. Only nine nominees declared themselves as opposed to any kind of suffrage for women. These were democrats. Non-committal replies came from six democrats and eleven republicans.

TO BE ELEVENTH HOUR AFFAIR

Mayor Jim Once More Confidently Invites Audience to Barbecue with Which He Expects to Celebrate Victory.

Mayor (Cannon) at Omaha again read William Jennings Bryan out of the party at a meeting yesterday afternoon at People's hall, South Omaha. There were some 50 people gathered to hear the candidate for governor, in whose party were Gilbert M. Hitchcock, candidate for United States senator and John M. Tanner, candidate for state senator, and Campaign Manager Tom Fitch. The crowd observed to the echo Mayor Jim's declaration that when Bryan and Hitchcock came back into the party they would have to take off their shoulder straps and walk in the ranks as privates. This is the situation the Fearless One has in face and that Mayor Jim means it and that he has the support of the democrats was plainly evident by the outburst of cheering that greeted the announcement. Bigger and more fervid than any mark of appreciation that signaled the utterances of any of the speakers.

The mayor was preceded by "Doc" Tanner, who felt that he was not required to say anything for himself and consequently set himself out to boost the gubernatorial and senatorial nominees. Mr. Hitchcock followed and with the statement that "neither the mayor nor himself had noticed the standards that have been leveled against us," and with a wave of the hand to indicate that he was not to be intimidated, proceeded to discuss the tariff situation, and while he belabored the republican majority of the senate, forgot to tell the audience the part of the tariff situation, and senators played in the issue of living, and he put the issue before the people. Mayor Jim is so confident of victory that he invited his South Omaha audience to that barbecue on the grounds of the governor's house, by which he is going to celebrate his election. His audience, he said, coming into Douglas county with a majority of 15,000, and he expects that county to give him an additional 5,000.

Fire Does $100 Damage. Fire late Saturday night damaged a colored boarding house at Twenty-seventh and N streets to the extent of $100, by the explosion of a gasoline stove, and as intent were the roomers on getting out their goods and chattels that it was necessary to evacuate after the outbreak before an alarm was sent in. The city might have been face to face with a serious conflagration, as the locality is probably the most densely populated in the city, but the fire was confined to the third floor, where it originated, and the attic.

Burglar invades Bachelor's Room and Gags Inmate

Elmer Cope is Bound and Room Looted—Joe Baldrige Frightens Off Crook.

A bold burglar invaded the quiet bachelor quarters at 50 South Twenty-sixth street Saturday night where reside such well known men as Elmer Cope, J. E. Buckingham, A. A. McClure, Joe Haldrige and others and had a merry time until he was frightened away by the late arrival of Mr. Baldrige.

Mr. Cope, treasurer of the Updike Grain company, is the only member of the colony who has his room on the ground floor, and into this room Mr. Burglar crawled while Mr. Cope was asleep. The invader gained entrance by pulling up some sashes of sashes set in from a house building nearby and crawling into the room through the window. He found Mr. Cope asleep and soon bound and gagged him by using the bed clothes. He then went through Mr. Cope's clothes and secured $20 in money and some jewelry.

Mr. Burglar then started to go through the rest of the house, but was met in the hallway by Joseph Baldrige who was just coming home. Instead of putting up a fight the burglar simply pulled his overcoat up over his face and walked by Mr. Baldrige in the hall. The latter did not have time to sound an alarm nor to start the burglar before he was gone. Search revealed the fact that nothing was taken except the loot from Mr. Cope's room.

MINISTER TALKS ON ELECTION

Rev. Mr. R. H. Houseman Points Out Moral Issue Involved on Liquor Question.

"Is the leading question of the impending election moral or political?" asked Rev. R. H. Houseman, in his sermon at the East-lar Presbyterian church Sunday morning. And in his discourse the clergyman not only dominated the moral issue for the people of Nebraska it was entirely a moral issue, but also that it was their duty to vote for the uplifting of the state ethics and the downing of the evils of intemperance and government by the brewers.

"The temperance question, which was repudiated by our governor and the party leader, is up again and it is for the people of Omaha to take their stand and settle it for once and all," he said. "In their convention in Grand Island the democrats refused to identify themselves as against temperance, but the man who is running for governor says that he will do his best to repeal the 3 o'clock closing law, even against the will of the people.

"County option means that the farmer who pays the burden of the taxes shall have a chance to decide on the liquor question, and I ask you now why should Omaha attempt to dictate to the people of the state? Omaha is supported by the state and should be dependent on it.

"I know that we will not have the liquor business in Omaha nor in South Omaha stopped, but I appeal to you as moral men to vote against this government of the state of Nebraska for the tool of the liquor interests, the interests that are going to ruin our state unless checked."
