VIADUCT FIGHT SETTLED

New Plans Seem to Be Satisfactory to All Concerned.

PLAN OF BRIDGE IS CHANGED

Under New Scheme It Will Not Be Necessary to Cut Away Part of the Missouri Pacific Freight House.

The protests made in court by the Missouri Pacific railroad against the plans of the proposed Nicholas street viaduct were successful in getting the city to make a change and the suit for an injunction to prevent the building of the viaduct has been dismissed because the city will repeal the ordinance and pass a new one more satisfactory to all parties to the controversy.

The viaduct was to run from Thirteenth to Sixteenth on Nicholas and to make the street wide enough for it the council ordered the thoroughfare vacated to its original width of 100 feet. This caused no difficulty except between Sixteenth and Fifteenth, where it would be necessary to cut off about six feet from the Missouri Pacific freight house to allow the viaduct to get by.

To avoid this the new plans will specify that the width of the bridge shall be reduced by four feet. The roadway will be twenty-four feet instead of twenty-six feet wide, and the sidewalk five feet wide on the north side will be taken off altogether and the south sidewalk made eight feet wide. This will make a good viaduct and avoid the freight house.

The city finds it had no right to ask the railroad to move its building because the land had already been condemned for a public purpose when the railroad was put through there and the city had no obligation of reconsidering its former action.

Seven New Viaducts.

Omaha now has seven viaducts under way or under extensive repairs, and only one of them is moving along without a controversy with some railroad. If the engineers of the Great Western continue with their proposed action in laying immediate plans for the foot bridge at Nineteenth and Mason only five will be left for litigation. The Locust street bridge only is progressing without dispute.

The Mason street viaduct, was specified as a part of the contract between the city and the Great Western when that road was allowed to go through and it is now one and one-half years late, even after the five years of grace that was allowed. A retaining wall was to be built at the same place it also yet to be put in.

Some light is now appearing in the situation of the Sheeley viaduct at Thirtieth and Bancroft, and after the ordinance passes the council at the third reading, next meeting, the long litigation over the rights of various parties to that proposition may be settled without further trouble.

The injunction suit of the Missouri Pacific against the construction of the Nicholas street bridge is about to be settled.

PARK BOARD IS STILL BUSY

Activity is Being Shown in Several Sections of the City and at Carter Lake.

Engineers of the Park board are continuing their early winter activity by beginning the grading for the new northwest boulevard. The work has been done at Forty-seventh and Military avenues and will extend north toward Fontanelle park.

At Carter lake the dredge that has been working all summer has finished the filling in of about fifty acres and is now being used at the west end. The concrete retaining wall at that end is also under way and will probably be nearly done before cold weather puts a stop to concrete laying. This retaining wall, with the cleaning up of the shallow, muddy places by a dredge will make the west end one of the most beautiful in the whole Carter lake drive from the city to Levi Carter park and it will be through this that the will be laid out.

Club's Pet Fire Escape Now Said to Be a Bridge

Structure Reversed and Taxless for Years as Escape Declared Under False Identity.

Q.—When is a bridge not a bridge?
A.—When it is a fire escape.

The Commercial club of Omaha and City Comptroller Lobeck are having a riddle-guessing contest—and they differ as to the answer.

Three years ago the Commercial club caused to be constructed a platform which runs to the Schiltz hotel over the alley between the Board of Trade building, in which the club is located.

The platform, bridge, or whatever it should be called, was designed and built for fire escape purposes and for fire escape purposes only. Hence, therefore and ergo, says the club, it is a fire escape.

"The structure," says Mr. Lobeck, "is a bridge. It is a thing of steel and wood, with hand rails, lying several hundred feet above the ground. It thrusts itself out laterally and horizontally. A fire escape projects downwards, as though of earth-seeking nature. It is a bridge." concludes Mr. Lobeck.

The debate is not theoretical and academic; because if the structure is a fire escape it is untaxed and untaxable; if a bridge, $20 a year is due the city. Thus the question takes on a faint tinge of sordid commercialism.

The fire escape (or bridge) was built at a cost of $200. It has depreciated at least

Neighbors Help Bereft Family

So Quick and Generous Was Aid to Otto Family, it is Made Safe from Want.

Neighborhood kindness has been so prompt and so efficient in relieving the case of the Otto family at Fortieth and Grand avenue that an unusual series of misfortunes has been overcome. The father, E. D. Otto, died Thursday, but the remaining family of seven will be well taken care of.

For seven years E. D. Otto had been an invalid and his wife had a hard time of it to support him and herself and their six children. The oldest boy is 16 and there are four younger boys and one baby girl of about 4. The recent cold weather made their condition worse and the neighbors informed the Associated Charities and offered their own aid.

One house was chosen as a collecting storehouse, and it was soon filled up with clothing and groceries enough to last a large family for some time. Six sewing machines were put in use, and the clothing will all be made over for the children.

The death of the father brought a small sum in insurance and now the family considers itself as well started, so that it may soon become self-supporting. The case is one of the few that have come to the notice of the charity authorities in which the neighborhood kindness has been so helpful and entirely sufficient to relieve destitution.

Big Ranch is Sold.
HURON, S. D., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—One of the largest real estate sales ever made in this locality was consummated a day or two since when George Edleman sold his ranch of 1,000 acres to Missouri parties for the sum of $6,000 cash. The premises are two miles south of this city, along the Jim river, and is one of the finest farms in the state. It was formerly owned by Messrs. Foster and Thompson, who secured a part of it from the government.

Omaha Tent and Awning Company to Build Shortly

Has Bought Corner of Twelfth and Harney from George B. Lake Estate.

The Omaha Tent and Awning company has bought the southeast corner of Twelfth and Harney streets from the George Lake estate and will build a six or eight-story building there.

The new building will be erected before the company's lease expires on its present building, which is on the corner of Eleventh and Harney streets. This lease runs two years from now.

A consideration of $25,000 has been paid Mrs. Abbie Lake, widow of George Lake and administratrix of his estate. The tent and awning company has a five-story building now and is occupying two floors of other warehouse space, but all this is not sufficient for the needs of the company, which is getting crowded for room on account of the expansion of its business.

Franklin Defies Press.
LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 11.—Jake Nohal, the alleged slayer of Wesley Turner at Jackson Tuesday night, was barricaded in the mountains of Breathitt county today. Two hundred men are seeking the capture of Nohal, who is only 21 years old.

at $1.95

per pair you may equip that "lively" boy of yours with a pair of box calf "Fulluvwears" in button or blucher. When you've done that you've done all you can to combat the wear a boy gives shoes. And they're pert lookers, too, even though they ARE tough.

"Fulluvwear Bill"

at $2.45

per pair you put your "Boy Scout" into a pair of "Fulluvwear" shoes of water shed tan, patent leather or vicci kid. Shoeing him with these shoes is the next thing to putting horseshoes on him; they're the acme of strength—and what's more they're VERY stylish.

"We don't charge shoes; cannot afford it." "We do not deliver for the same reason." "A few steps down brings the prices down."
