Omaha Man Clears Two Hundred Thousand Dollars—An Omaha attorney recently sold part of his Canadian farm land for $200,000. The land was bought for a song before railroads entered that district. The same opportunities and conditions exist today in the Fort George country of British Columbia. The Grand Trunk Pacific Land company, 212 New York life building, owns large tracts there and is making attractive terms on forty and eighty-acre farms. Cash payments are only $2 per acre.

With Mr. Ware during the last few days was W. B. Scott, assistant director of maintenance of way of the Harriman lines, and both Mr. Ware and Mr. Scott pronounced the track in fine condition and were also the bridges and terminals. Speaking of the Union Pacific double track work, Mr. Ware said, "We have double track from Omaha as far west as twenty miles beyond North Platte where our work was closed for the winter."

The Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America will not distribute Thanksgiving dinners this year, and all charitable minded people who want to give dinners to the poor will do it through the Associated Charities. The office of the charities in the city hall will be supplied with a list of people who could be helped to enjoy the day and any family that wants to give may call up there and get the name of some one to send a turkey to.

CHANGE IN CHURCH FINANCES

Such is the Suggestion Being Made by A. F. McGarrath to the Churches of Omaha.

A. F. McGarrath of Auburn, N. Y., a representative of the executive council of the Presbyterian General assembly, held three conferences in Omaha Monday on the principles and methods of church finance, the last being at the German Presbyterian church, Twentieth and Willis avenue, Monday night. Here a dinner preceded the meeting. The women of the church prepared and served the dinner which made 150 men and 100 women for more than an hour. The dinner was served in the church auditorium and the entire plant was at the disposal of the guests.

Mr. McGarrath's proposition is simply to get the churches to apply the direct methods of business to their own fiscal affairs. His methods, which have the endorsement of the General assembly of the Presbyterian church, will, it is maintained, effect a scientific conservation of financial resources enabling the churches to multiply their powers for extension work in local management, and some and foreign missions. He took all over the country propagating these principles. Having had a business training and having made this work a special study of years, he is considered an authority on it.

Several local churchesmen, laymen and ministers, spoke Monday night. The other meetings of the day were at the ministers' meeting at the Young Men's Christian association in the forenoon and at the First Presbyterian church in the afternoon.

Both Speedy and Effective. This indicates the action of Foley Kidney Pills, as E. Parsons, Battle Creek, Mich., illustrates. "I have been afflicted with a severe case of kidney and bladder trouble, for which I found no relief until I used Foley Kidney Pills. These cured me entirely of all my ailments. I was troubled with backaches and severe shooting pains with annoying urinary irregularities. The steady use of Foley Kidney Pills rid me entirely of all my former troubles. They have my highest recommendation." Sold by all druggists.

TRUTH IS BEST IN ALL THINGS

So Declares Charles A. Alden of Chicago to Ad Club Men.

PUBLICITY AND PATRIOTISM

Forceful Address, in Which Speaker Says It Does Not Pay for a Business Man to Lie to His Customers.

"It does not pay the business man to lie to the public," said Charles A. Alden of Chicago to the Omaha Ad club at the noon luncheon at the Home. "It certainly does not pay the advertising man to lie for him and a circulation liar is no better than any other kind."

Mr. Alden's address fairly bristled with epigrammatic sayings of this kind. "Lincoln," said the speaker, "once described a public man of his acquaintance by telling the story of a steamboat which had a six-foot boiler and a ten-foot whistle so that every time they blew the whistle they had to stop the boat."

Publicity and Patriotism. "Publicity and Patriotism," was the title of Mr. Alden's address and his general theme was that real publicity which seeks after the truth is in line with true patriotism and ethical conduct. He said:

"There have been two secrets to the solution of our American nation which are working to that full measure of prosperity which alone will satisfy the generations of tomorrow. The first you can trace to the head of Galilee, who said: 'Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free.'"

We have, of course, a modern name for it, as we have for nearly everything. We call it publicity. Publicity is all we ask, is there any other? We no longer expect to see the regiments of armed men that these things meant a few short years ago. Give us the truth. Publish the facts. Investigate! Investigate! Investigate! And then spread broadcast the established fact and the power of public opinion will unlock that factory and start again the wheels of industry which ever the side that may have erred. When you know the truth you shall be free, not before."

Is there an epidemic of disease? Doctors, bring on your medicines. Nurses, bring on your salves and your gentle ministrations. All this will turn out to be a hand. But when you have done all you can, when the last poor victim has been cured or buried, the work is only begun. Investigate and find the cause. Publish then broadcast to all the world the facts you find, for only as man shall know the truth can he be free from other epidemics of this kind.

Or it may be there is an epidemic of false advertising and people read in their magazines and newspapers the wild stories of the mighty dollar as it is portrayed in the most ingenious tales of some fever wrought imagination. Come on, ye verdant customers, come on, we will need you. Buy and buy—Then try the goods and know the truth—and never "go there any more."

Or perchance it may be an epidemic of political corruption. What, ho! Mr. State's Attorney, come on, we need your services. What, ho! the judge, come on, we need you on the bench. What, ho! ye honest and unfeared citizens, come on, we will need you. When the last foul, grafting looter of the public purse and pride in given a period of deliberation in penned up quarters suitable for his porcine kind, the work is not yet done. The fact may be driven home that the citizens of every state shall know the truth that neither these men alone, nor the system which made these men, alone, is to blame for the corruption of our commonwealth, but that on us lies the burden of responsibility and men who, from foolishness or negligence, have failed to exercise their kingly rights as citizens are partners in the crime in this black avalanche of political degradation, for if good citizens do not themselves vigilantly perform the duties of citizenship they have no right to expect those duties to be unselfishly performed by others. This is the truth that knowing shall make us free from future political prostration.

W. G. Whitmore, president of the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska, and uncle to Mr. Alden was present as guest of the club.

C. V. Higby of the Lincoln Ad Men's club, brought with him a silver loving cup as a gift of the Lincoln Ad club, a token of appreciation to the Omaha club for its recent trip to Lincoln.

Walters Will Wear Overalls at Feast of Manufacturers

"Made in Omaha" Will Apply to Everything Used at Big Banquet.

Walters, garbed in overalls, whose presence in the otherwise immaculate surroundings will be solely due to their having been made in Omaha, is to be an incident of the Manufacturers' banquet by the Commercial club next Tuesday night. Invitations have been issued to all the manufacturers of the city requesting their presence at the dinner, which is described as one at which nothing will be served or used that has not been manufactured in this city.

All the tables and chairs will be of Omaha manufacture, and it is announced necessarily these articles will be of an advanced age. All the food is to be from the products of Omaha manufacturers. The linen, table silver and the beverage—it is said the latter will be chocolate, but this has not been verified—will be Omaha products. Several hundred men have announced they will attend.

TOWN IS NOW BEING MOVED

Tractor Engine Hauling Houses to Winner, the New County Seat of Tripp County.

Mr. and Mrs. Winwood Doherty of Winner, S. D., are at the Loyal, and their enthusiasm over the future greatness of Winner is so contagious that many other guests of the hotel are thinking "Winners" very strongly.

Winner, as most newspaper readers are aware, is the victor in the Winner-Lamro county seat war. Lamro had the seat of county government, but an election was held to decide whether it should stay at Lamro or be taken over to Winner, two miles distant. The ballots favored Winner, and now one after another, as fast as a steam tractor engine can pull them, the buildings in Lamro are being removed to Winner. Winner is in Tripp county, heralded far and near as one of the richest agricultural sections in the great northwest.

WYOMING MAN IN SWINDLE

Dot Sims of Opal Loses Eleven Dollars to Strangers on Old Express Game.

Dot Sims, a resident of Opal, Wyo., reported to the police Tuesday the loss of $11 to two strangers who worked the old express package swindle on him. Sims says the men engaged in a conversation with him on a train coming into the city, and telling of their predicament over the charges on a huge express consignment, borrowed $11 from him on a check. The check proved worthless and the men made their escape before the train had reached the Union depot.

Stockmen Declare Local Jail is Too Far Away from Home

Inspect Douglas County Structure Like Tenants Looking for Light Housekeeping Rooms.

Indications now denote that William G. Comstock, Charles C. Jameson and other defendants in the northwestern Nebraska land fraud cases, under sentence to serve terms of imprisonment, will be sent to the Adams county jail at Hastings instead of the Douglas county jail, as stipulated in the original sentence.

These defendants are pleading for a change of location. They do not want to serve their sentences in Douglas county, and various reasons are set forth. One of these reasons is the congested condition of the local jail, and another reason is that Douglas county is remote from their section of the state, and for business reasons they prefer to be nearer home. The Dawes county jail at Chadron is the first choice of the defendants, but District Attorney Howell has not consented to that location. He, however, is said to be willing to permit a change to Hastings, and has so recommended to the attorney general, in whom is vested the power to grant transfer from one jail to another when sufficient cause is shown.

The mandate from the United States court of appeals which makes it final that Comstock and his associates must go to jail, gives them until December 7 to surrender for commitment. They are now in Omaha awaiting decision of their plea to go to some jail other than Douglas county.

"I think we may have a decision in this matter tomorrow," said District Attorney Howell, Tuesday.

It is rather anomalous for prospective prisoners to be shown through a jail with a view to determining if they care to take "apartments" there, yet that is just what has been done in the case of Comstock and Jameson. They have made a thorough inspection of the Douglas county jail, Sheriff Bralley escorting them through, much after the fashion of a landlord or landlady of an exclusive family hotel showing rooms to tenants-about-to-be.

After a thorough inspection, here is what Mr. Comstock said:

"The architecture of the Douglas county jail is splendid; the cuisine is not quite so good, but that doesn't make much difference; and the service is fair, the cells are well kept and probably would do. Really, the worst objection to a year's imprisonment in this jail is that it is too far from home."

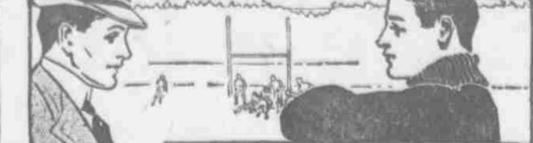

GOVERNMENT AFTER SCALPERS

Passenger Officials Say that Ticket Brokers Will Soon Be Driven Out of Business.

Ticket scalpers will soon be driven out of business, states Omaha general passenger agents. Now the government has taken up the fight against them and a ticket scalper not only defies and violates the interstate commerce law, but is also very often liable to be held for using the mails to defraud.

Charles Gordon of Los Angeles is the first man to be indicted under the new system of pursuing these men. To sell a ticket by the scalpers' method it is almost imperative to use the mails somewhat and thus they are caught.
