market. The trade did not improve, but, if anything, weakened, the late market being a light to maintain prices but under conditions existing at all selling points, they were forced to give in, with the result that the big bulk of the receipts changed hands in fair season in the morning.

Today's decline carries the market to a point that is 50c lower than the close of last week. The decline has been greated on light than on heavy hogs. This has resulted in a much narrower range of prices, at the seles being more closely bunched to gether. While best light hogs still command a premium over heavy hogs, it is not nearly so great as a few days ago. In fact, hogs of the same quality are selling in g very close together, regardless of the weight, but rough heavies are selling at the bottom of the list.
