

David B. Hill's Will Cuts Relatives Off with Small Amounts

Ferry S. Pearce and Peter J. Manwiler Will Receive Bulk of Fortune—Wants Simple Monument.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 1.—Former Governor David B. Hill, who died in Albany on October 23, left a personal estate, exclusive of household furnishings, effects and library, estimated at $20,000, and real estate assessed at $25,000, according to the will filed today for probate. The real property includes his beautiful home known as Wolfers Roost, on the outskirts of Albany. The principal beneficiaries are Dr. Ferry S. Pearce and Peter J. Manwiler, both of Albany, protégés of Mr. Hill. The will was executed by Mr. Hill on January 21, 1906, in his own handwriting. One of the provisions, characteristic of the testator, is that a "plain and simple monument be erected over my grave." The bequests include: To Mrs. Catherine Hill, who had been his housekeeper for several years, and to her daughter, $200 each. To his brother, Dr. Alonzo D. Hill of Dexter, Mo., $2,000, and to two nephews and two nieces, also of Missouri, $2,000 each. The executor is to convert the property into money, and after the payment of the legacies divide the remainder equally between Dr. Pearce and Mr. Manwiler. Mr. Hill's elaborate law library and office equipment also go to Mr. Manwiler. Dr. Pearce is a young man in whom Mr. Hill took a great interest. Mr. Manwiler was Mr. Hill's secretary for almost eighteen years, which includes the time when he was United States senator.

Juror Excused to Go to Daughter's Bedside

E. M. Robinson Leaves After Case is Submitted Judge Expresses His Sympathy.

After the jury in the case of Josephine Knauer, M. C. Goodwin and others against E. G. Patrick, a battle over the property of the estate of the late Amanda A. Patrick, had deliberated for three hours, Judge Willis G. Sears yesterday afternoon excused E. M. Robinson, one of the jurors, that he might go to the bedside of his daughter, Miss Vera Robinson, who is seriously ill. "A lawsuit can be tried any time," said Judge Sears, "but we must be near our loved ones when they need us and we cannot select the times when they shall need us most."

Burlington is Found Guilty

Railroad Convicted on Directed Verdict of Violation of Twenty-Eight-Hour Law.

Verdicts in two cases against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad company, charged with violating the twenty-eight-hour law in the shipment of livestock, were directed in United States district court by Judge T. C. Munger yesterday afternoon. The Burlington was charged with having held the cattle in cars without unloading for feed and water for a time far beyond the legal limit. The shipment included one from Canada delivered to the Burlington at Sioux City and another from Wyoming, both bound for Nebraska points. The defense and the prosecution both moved for a directed verdict at the completion of the testimony last yesterday afternoon. Judge Munger has not fixed the fine. The defense has not yet decided upon the taking of appeal.

Washington Affairs

November was a highly favorable month for the finances of the United States treasury. It produced a surplus in all accounts of nearly $1,000,000, while October had produced a deficit of more than $1,000,000.

The working condition of the nation's cash drawers shows a corresponding improvement for the month. December opened today with a working balance of $1,000,000 on hand and $1,000,000 in the general fund, an improvement of around $1,000,000 in the cash available for immediate operations. This condition would seem to justify Secretary MacVeghan's confidence in the treasury's ability to maintain itself for the present without financial aid.

With the drainage of Panama canal operations amounting to $1,000,000 for the month, which were not intended as a charge on the treasury, estimated from the calculation, November would show a handsome surplus of more than $1,000,000 over all expenditures.

New Books

THE CREATORS, by May Sinclair; NY Florence Holt; The Century company. This is a story of London life and London literary folk. Is it possible for the man or woman of genius to marry, and sacrifice neither family happiness nor success in creative work? This is the question these "creators" ask. This is the problem they try to work out in their lives and furnish the kernels of this brilliant novel.

THE OTHER SIDE, by Horace Annisley; 25 pp.; $1.25; George H. Doran & Co. The life story of a musician described by the authors as "a novel of life and afterwards." The story is well written and will be especially interesting to thoughtful readers.

MOTHERS AND FATHERS, by Juliet Wilbur Tompkins; 275 pp.; $1.50; The Baker & Taylor company. A collection of short stories dealing with mothers, fathers and children, flashing with humor and touched by genuine pathos. The book is made in a charming manner, with decorative cover, end-papers, etc., and is an attractive gift book.

THE PATERNOSTER RUBY, by Charles Edmunds Walk; 274 pp.; $1.25; A. C. McClurg & Co. When Stephen Paget was found murdered, suspicion fell equally upon two men, his secretary and a lawyer, who had spent the night in his house. His murder took place just after he had broken the wheat corner of a rival financier, and hidden in his home was the Paternoster Ruby for which he had outbid that rival years before. The unraveling of the mystery is materially aided by a girl whose charm will win the heart.

THE SCALES OF JUSTICE, by George L. Knapp; 208 pp.; $1.25; J. B. Lippincott company. A story of the "third degree" method of extorting confessions. This novel is based on present-day conditions and the description of this merciless inquisition, a snake thief, innocent of the crime with which he is charged, but from whom a confession is wrung, is most real.

THE UNFORGOTTEN, by Mary Stewart Cutting; 25 pp.; $1.25; Doubleday Page & Co. This is a story of every-day people, the neighbors we know and the strangers we meet from time to time. In Evelyn Gaynor, Mrs. Cutting has drawn a heroine after her readers' hearts, one who is femininely charming and quite understandable. Fred in a country town and graced with a good education, she longs to escape from the rural provincialism, to get out of the narrow groove and live her own life. After two years of struggle in New York she almost despairs and decides to give it up, when the unforeseen occurs.

THE SPENDTHRIFT, by Marshall Browne; 22 pp.; $1.25; G. W. Dillingham company. This book is founded on the play of the same name, which appeared at the Grand Opera a few weeks ago. It is a tense story, full of fascination and tremendous situations. The couple it portrays—indolgent husband and spendthrift wife who ruins him, but rises at the end superb and self-sacrificing—are strikingly delineated.

THE FRONTIERMAN, by H. A. Cody; 24 pp.; $1.25; George H. Doran & Co. A story of stirring adventure in the Yukon. It is packed with action and filled with a tremendous atmosphere of reality and depicts an unusual phase of life in the north country.

THE EMPTY HOUSE, by Elizabeth Stuart Phelps; 98 pp.; $1.25; Houghton Mifflin company. A volume of short stories dealing with typical American men and women, and with critical moments in their lives, and, though starting at times, will strongly appeal to the reader on account of their truth to life.

THE BETRAYAL, by Walter Neale and Elizabeth H. Hancock; 29 pp.; $1.25; Neale Publishing company. A novel, historical, political, social, a novel of madness, in which is shown the rise and fall of Virginia—and her betrayal by native Virginia.

JUVENILE
THE RAINY DAY SCRAP BOOK, by E. L. and E. T. Shuman; $1.25; Rilly & Britton company. This book is accompanied by 107 half-tone pictures, which are to be fitted into their appropriate places in the scrap book, according to the hints given by the outline sketch and brief description.

THE NARRATIVE BIBLE, edited by Clifton Johnson; 402 pp.; $1.50; The Baker & Taylor company. The narrative portions of the Bible are here condensed into a volume of moderate length, without any essential change in the Bible words and phraseology, except that of omission. The story is suitable for the average reader under 15 years of age.

MARJORIE MOXIE, by Maud Harrison Huey; 28 pp.; $1.25; Rand McNally company. Marjorie's experience—some grave, some gay—will prove interesting and amusing to the little girl of 10 or 12 years.

PRINCESS POLLY, by Amy Brooks; 252 pp.; The "Dorothy Dainty" series. An attractive little story for girls by the author of the "Dorothy Dainty" series.

A HAPPY LITTLE TIME, by Laura E. Richards; 29 pp.; $1.25; Dana Estes & Co. The story of the happy time a little girl has during her convalescence. The book is attractively illustrated in color.

MORNA, THE FAIRY, by Joan Ingelow; 27 pp.; $1.25; J. B. Lippincott company. An exquisite fairy tale which ranks with the classic fairy stories. Illustrated in color with decorated lining papers.

BIBBI, by "Ouida"; 22 pp.; $1.25; J. B. Lippincott company. A volume of entrancing short stories for children of 8 and 10 years. Illustrated in color.

STAR PEOPLE, by Katherine Fay; 22 pp.; $1.25; Houghton Mifflin company. Once upon a time the captain of the Jane Hilde determined that sailors should no longer be obliged to sail at night without some fixed star to steer by, so he sent fairy folk to interview the star people. While he was up there Fairy learned a great deal about the history and peculiarities of the stars and these are delightfully narrated.

LITTLE GIRL BLAZE, by Josephine Gordon Gates; 21 pp.; $1.25; Houghton Mifflin company. This story of how "Little Girl Blaze" in live doll lived in the woods until she learned to say "please" will appeal to every child's sense of humor.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMLIN, by Robert Browning; 56 pp.; $1.25; Rand McNally company. The fascinating chronicle of the Pied Piper is more attractively illustrated in color and fairly bustles with the action of the poem.

THE BRYMING RING, by Louise Ayres; 24 pp.; $1.25; Rand McNally company. The verses are just the sort to read to little folks, and will be a source of joy to every boy and girl lucky enough to hear them and look over the edge of the book at the beautiful illustrations that go with them. The rhymes cover a wide range of childish thoughts and experiences.

Runs Away with Mail.
NEBRASKA CITY, Neb., Dec. 2.—(Special.)—A team of old horses attached to the mail wagon here did a peculiar stunt yesterday morning. All of the night mail which arrived here was loaded on the wagon and the driver went back into the depot for something and when he came out the team was gone and with them a wagonload of mail. He came up town and gave the alarm, but nothing could be ascertained regarding the team. All morning officers and others were looking for the team, but with no success, but about noon a telephone message from Wyoming, a small town seven miles north of here on the Missouri Pacific railway, conveyed the intelligence that the wagon and team were there and the mail all intact. The team had traveled the entire distance by itself and gone on a slow trot. The only reasonable solution of the act is that the horses have been fed up at that place several times of late and liking the feed real well concluded to go back there. The horses have been driven on the mail wagon and hacks here for years.
