Goss Tells of Money He Gave Kemmerling

Hearing in the Alleged Bribing Case is Now Under Way in District Court.

Story of his alleged telephone conversation with John Kemmerling, the juror charged with accepting a bribe for "hanging" a jury for the benefit of the street railway company, and of his subsequent payment to Kemmerling of $50 in full settlement in order to secure evidence against Kemmerling, was told by Attorney C. A. Goss at Kemmerling's hearing on a charge of contempt of court before Judge Willis G. Sears Friday morning.

The hearing was commenced after Judge Sears had overruled a formal motion of Kemmerling to quash the complaint. Kemmerling is represented by A. S. Ritchie, William F. Gurley and J. W. Woodrugh, the state by Deputy County Attorney Magney.

Mr. Goss testified that on Saturday evening, November 12, a man telephoned him that John Kemmerling wanted the $50 balance of that $50 he was promised for hanging the jury. From this, Goss said, he suspected crooked work and determined to find out what he could. He said he would talk to Kemmerling himself. Another voice then called over the wire to him. The voice said, "This is Kemmerling." Witness went on to say that Kemmerling asked the balance of the $50, saying that he had done his part and was anxious to leave town. Witness said he told the man who said he was Kemmerling that he would send the messenger with the money. He then posed as the messenger, took the money to Kemmerling's home, delivered it, and secured a receipt.

"MIDNIGHT ROUNDERS"

Become Daylight Gentlemen After Taking the Neal 5-Day Cure for the Drink Habit.

It is a very easy matter nowadays to become cured of the drink habit since the Neal 5-day drink-habit cure has been perfected. The hardest part of it usually is to convince the erring one that he needs it or for the erring one to convince himself of the same. "Once a drinker, always a drinker," unless cured by the proper treatment.

A man's money, business, reputation and friends quickly drift away, like the fog before the sun, when the flowing bowl is tapped too frequently, and it does not take long for him to be pointed out and whispered about as a "rounder" and a "booze fighter." When a man gets that name his reputation for business honesty and integrity suffers a severe change. The contamination of alcoholism exerts itself in more than one way.

The Omaha Neal Institute is located at 1602 South Tenth St. Patients are received at all hours. The genuine Neal Cure is also administered at 1508 W. Charles St., Grand Island, Neb. For full information, address, Neal Institute Co., O. B., 1402 South Tenth St.

TO STANDARDIZE ACCOUNTS

New Methods May Be Adopted by the City Dads.

ENGINEER HAS TRIED THE PLAN

Big Saving Has Been Made to the City by an Improved System of Keeping the Books of the City Engineer.

A plan to standardize the accounts of all the city departments so that unnecessary bookkeeping and waste may be avoided is now being considered by members of the city council. The plan will follow closely the recommendations made a year ago by Deputy Comptroller Fred H. Cosgrove, after he made a trip through the east examining the accounting systems in many different cities. This trip was made at the request of the city government and Mr. Cosgrove's suggestions on his return were put into practice in the engineering department, where they have been a success.

"The other departments run completely out of money before the year is up and have to retrench heavily for the last few months," said City Engineer Craig. "We are saved this annoyance by knowing at any time just where we stand and at the close of every day in the year we know how much money we have left."

"The department has been saved as much as $1,000 a month," said George L. Campen, his assistant, "and we have escaped the great leakage there used to be in distributing our supplies. And although we can have a daily balance the system is so much simpler that one bookkeeper was discharged as unnecessary after we put this into effect."

George C. Bryant, a statistician for the United States census bureau, who has been working on the books of the comptroller for several weeks, has expressed himself as of the opinion that the system now in vogue here is rather old-fashioned and as it was established twenty-five years ago something better could probably be found.

There will doubtless be some opposition to the plan if it is proposed, as its adoption will mean the discharge of some of the clerical staffs of the various departments. The saving to the city, however, will probably lead to a resolution being introduced into the council at the next meeting of the committee of the whole.

OMAHA SHOW IS OF THE WEST

Editorial in Denver Paper Gives the Omaha Land Show a Very Strong Boost.

The Western World of Denver, under the heading of "The Land Show," writes the following editorial:

"The king is dead! Long live the king! Such is the story of the land shows. The reign of Pittsburg is past; Chicago is now at the height of its glory; soon will come Omaha. Each presents peculiar advantages to its own section. Pittsburg brought to the attention of the far east things of which it had not dreamed. To the east there was presented the first opportunity, right at its own door, so to speak, to learn of the opportunities now opening in the south and west. Concrete examples were shown of the wonderful productivity of the new farms in the rapidly developing sections of the reawakened south and of the virgin west; of the bounteous crops which are being grown and the superior excellence of these crops.

"The railroads, north, west and south, have been given large representation and are making particular effort to interest homeseekers in the lands along their lines. They will also be well represented at Omaha in January; as will be the states to the west. The Omaha show is more particularly of the west, aiming to set forth the resources inherent in the newer states. It will be a practical demonstration of what the west can do, and will prove of considerable educational value to the farmers of the middle west who are looking for the opportunities which may be found in the unbroken lands of the farthest west."
