

LOCAL GRAIN RECEIPTS BOOM

Nearly 1,300 Cars More for December This Year Than Last.

CONGESTION IS ON AT CHICAGO

Indications Are for Quite a Rush of Grain to the Markets of the Country After the First of the Year.

Omaha grain receipts for the months of December to date are nearly 1,300 cars ahead of those for the corresponding period of last year, according to figures obtained at the Grain Exchange Wednesday morning.

The Chicago wheat market is threatened with at least a temporary congestion, Tuesday there being 5,800 cars on track in Chicago and 1,400 were reported Wednesday morning.

"The number of inquiries received now indicate an increased demand after the holidays," said W. J. Hynes in reviewing the situation in grain Wednesday morning.

Daniel Baum Enjoys Eighty-Third Birthday

Pioneer of Iowa and Nebraska, Surrounded by Family and Friends, Talks of Early Struggles.

Daniel Baum, ex-president of the Baum Iron Co., yesterday celebrated his 83rd birthday, surrounded by his friends and family.

Mr. Baum is one of the early pioneers of Iowa and Nebraska, coming west in 1847 when he was but 29 years of age. He first settled in Burlington, Ia., where he worked in a store for about two years, leaving to go to Davenport to enter the service of Cook & Sargent, land operators and bankers.

After a short time Mr. Baum came further west, locating in Fort Dodge, Ia., at that time a frontier trading point. Here he entered mercantile business and was very successful. A few years later the Burlington railway had completed its line to Plattsmouth, Neb., and was planning to extend through to Kearney.

In 1858 Mr. Baum moved to Lincoln and established the largest hardware business in the middle west, which he continued until 1888, when he came to Omaha and founded the Baum Iron company, with his two sons, J. E. Baum and D. A. Baum, of which company he is still the president.

Mr. Baum tells many very interesting stories of the early pioneer life. He has a very extensive and valuable collection of articles used in those days showing what the settlers had to contend with in developing the wilderness. One of the most interesting pieces in this collection is a hall clock made by Mr. Baum's great-grandfather in 1767, carrying with it his initials and the date, beautifully inlaid in white wood against the richly finished mahogany casing.

Mr. Baum yesterday was surrounded by his four sons and two daughters and with his wonderfully clear mind is the source of much entertainment with stories of the early life in western America. Charles L. Baum of Denver, Colo., a son of Mr. Baum, is here, making the family circle complete.

Mr. Daniel Baum, ex., is making his home with his daughter, Helen Baum, at 194 North Thirty-first street.

Grubstake Rule Applied to Taking Up Homesteads D. Clem Deaver Makes Suggestion for Two Men to Take the Same Homestead.

D. Clem Deaver, head of the homesteaders' information bureau of the Burlington lines, has a new theory in settling lands of the west. His plan is to allow two men to take up one claim, one man working upon the farm land and obtaining the land and the other holding some money-earning job in the city and supplying the necessary funds. At the end of the time needed to settle the land each man takes half the land.
