Belief Exists McClelland Man Was

Worked on by Swindlers.

HAD HIS MONEY IN SMALL BILLS Refused All Advice of Bankers to Use Checks-Suspicion Points to Certain Men, One of Whom in Missing.

Cashler Spencer of the McClelland bank and N. M. Thomas, father of Albert Thomas, the young man who mysteriously disappeared on December 29 and was returned to his home at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning drugged and unconscious, yesterday went over the young man's financial accounts with the bank and other places where he had money located. They figured up about $2,000 which he had in his possession when he left his home to go to Omahs

Developments within the last twenty-four ours fix the conviction solidly in the minds of the boy's friends that he was the victim of a plot as carefully laid and carried out at the time of his death was rated as one to the last detail, with robbery and even murder as its object if murder became necessary. One man under suspicion has not been located since the day of Thomas departure.

Young Thomas had been renting a farm near McClelland for which he paid a cash annual rental of $400. When he concluded business, he decided to sell off all of the farm stock and property, and on December 22 he had a public sale for that purpose. The property sold brought a total of about $3,200, a large part of which was paid in cash and the greater part of which was leposited in the McClelland bank.

It developed yesterday that he had collected all that had been secured by short time notes by giving a discount to the bank in the town of Bently near by. These notes were cashed on December 25, the day before he went away, and the amount was paid to him there and the amount drawn from the McClelland bank approximated $5,900, and it was declared yesterday that only one payment of a debt amounting to $100, was taken from this money.

The young Thomas was the victim of some sort of a "mike" deal is now pretty we established. Banker Spencer said last evening over the long-distance telephone that he tried to induce the young man to use nothing but checks, but the boy insisted upon having nothing but cash, and seemed to be impressed with the idea that he could use nothing but cash. The money paid to him at both banks made a huge roll. The belief is that the plotters had insisted upon his converting everything into cash. At least one man who attended the farm sale and knew all about young Thomas' financial affairs is missing. Two others who were likewise familiar are under surveillance. On the day the young man left only two tickets were sold at McClelland for Counell Bluffs, but the conductor of the Great Western train that day said three men boarded it at the village. A note book was found yesterday at Mc-Clelland, where it had been left by the boy, in which he had entered the denominations and numbers of $1,000 worth of the bank bills comprising his big roll. This may be of great assistance in tracing the money after the robbery was completed. The mind of young Thomas continues to be a complete blank. He is able to talk, but still shows the effects of his fearful experience. He can vaguely remember only getting aboard the train at McClelland, but
