DAYLIGHT SALOON BILL FILED

Dakota House Committee on Temperance Favors It.

BLACK HILLS RISES UP IN ARMS
Members from that Section Want Longer Instead of Shorter Period for This Line of Business.

PIERRE, S. D., Jan. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—The house committee on temperance today reported favorably on a duplicate of the Nebraska daylight saloon bill and it will soon get to the floor for discussion. The bill is in favor of a longer instead of shorter saloon day. Hugh Lawrence, presented a minority report against the bill and the committee reports will be up for action tomorrow.

The "hatpin" bill which is a copy of the Chicago ordinance on that subject, has been favorably reported in the house and when it gets on the floor the members will be given an opportunity to tell each other how much they know of the mysteries of millinery.

In the senate this afternoon, Perley started a move which has for its purpose reaching the sentiment of the women of the state on the question of equal suffrage. He provides that at the primary election following any submission of the question of equal suffrage, the county auditor shall provide extra booths, ballot boxes and tally sheets, with two women inspectors, and the women of the state shall be given an opportunity to register themselves on the subject, which result will indicate to the voters at the general election just what the majority of the women of the state want in that line.

Erickson of Minier, in the house today introduced his bill for state hall insurance to be conducted under supervision of the state insurance department. He presented the same bill two years ago, but it did not get very far and he will try again.

The different orders of railway employes are showing up on the ground with a bill for an employee's liability law, based on the national law on that subject and asking that such legislation be enacted in uniformity with national legislation.

The senate this afternoon concurred in the house resolution for a recess from the eighteenth to the twenty-fourth of January and for the week between those dates the members will be at home finding out what their constituents want and getting pointers.

C. L. Wood Expires While at Seattle

Candidate for Governor of South Dakota at November Election Passes Away in Hospital.

He came to Seattle three weeks ago to be operated on for appendicitis.

Chancellor L. Wood was one of the pioneers of the Black Hills, going there from Iowa in the first rush in 1876. He was a graduate of Iowa State university law school, and was one of the best known practitioners in South Dakota. He was always active in a democratic politics, and took a leading part in shaping the new state at the time the territory was divided.

SCORCHER NEED NOT GIVE NAME

Judge Says Callan Law Would Make Person Unconstitutional.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—The Callan automobile law, which provides that a person who runs down another with an automobile must stop and give his name and address is unconstitutional, according to a ruling today by Justice Crain in dismissing the indictment against Edward T. Rosenheimer, the young millionaire who was charged with speeding away after he ran down and killed Miss Grace Hough on August 15. Rosenheimer was tried and acquitted on the charge of murder, but was indicted again under the Callan law.

Justice Crain holds that the law violates that part of the state constitution which provides "that no person shall be compelled to be a witness against himself in any criminal case."

BROWN CRITIC OF BORAH BILL

Nebraska Senator Says Measure Far Too Broad in Powers.

TAKES AWAY ELECTION INQUIRY
Measure for Direct Election of Senators at Present in Dangerous Form.

Nebraskan Thinks—Wood for Registrar.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 17.—(Special Telegram.)—Senator Norris Brown, who has been an uncompromising advocate of the proposition to elect United States senators by direct vote of the people, took in the joint resolution reported recently by Senator Borah from the committee on judiciary, proposing an amendment to the constitution providing that senators shall be elected by the people of the several states, a complete abrogation of the right of congress to inquire into the manner in which such elections were held.

The Borah amendment contemplates two distinct propositions.

First, That United States senators shall be elected by the people of the several states and not by the legislatures which is the law.

Second, That it conflicts with all of Paragraph one of Section 4 of Article 1 of the constitution, insofar as it relates to any authority in congress to make or alter regulations as to the times or manner of holding elections for senators. The second paragraph of the Borah amendment is being by constitutional lawyers to conflict with the fourteenth amendment.

Senator Borah, it is understood, frankly said to some of his friends that he was compelled to insert the second paragraph regarding the right of states to do as they pleased as to the election of senators in order to secure enough democratic votes to report the amendment out of the committee.

Urges Single Proposition.
Senator Brown in conference with Borah, La Follette, Brewster, Cummins, Beveridge and Clapp urged Borah to divide his proposed amendment into two propositions instead of having to vote on one it stands now, with two distinct clauses, because, should the Borah amendment prevail, there would be no federal right whatsoever to examine the legality of elections.

Mr. Brown believes that the people should have a right to vote on simple amendments giving power to elect United States senators to the electors themselves and the amendment should not be encumbered by extraneous matters.

Senator Sutherland of Utah has an amendment to the Borah amendment pending which divides the question so that senators may go on record for one or both propositions as they choose. There has been no demand whatsoever from any party through its platform calling for repeal of that particular paragraph which gives congress the right "to make or alter such regulations except as to the places of choosing senators," and to load the amendment down means its defeat, according to many senators. Senator Brown will speak on the amendment when it comes before the senate tomorrow.

Senators Burnett and Brown today joined in recommending the appointment of W. W. Wood as registrar of the land office at Alliance.

Both senators from Nebraska are in receipt of many letters from citizens calling upon them to closely examine the proposed legislation relating to the creation of a national bureau of health. These correspondents say that bills are being pushed for selfish purposes.

John C. Stevens of Portland, Ore., formerly a resident of Lincoln, is in Washington attending the conference of engineers in conjunction with officials of the geological survey as to the water supply of the country.

Homestead Bill Introduced

Representative Mondell today introduced a bill which, if enacted, will give greater relief to homesteaders whose final proofs on entries have without their knowledge been protested against in the land office, who in recent years have been abroad in the western states in great numbers. It is said that there are at least 60 "kinkaiders" whose final proofs have been held up without their being given an opportunity to be heard, but who would be afforded relief by this measure of Mondell's.

The Mondell bill provides that no final proofs on land entries shall be suspended on the protests of special agents of the general land office, chiefs of field divisions or any other persons without good and sufficient legal reasons, and in every case where action on final proof is thus suspended, it shall be the duty of the officer upon whose protest proof was suspended, to furnish the register and receiver in the district in which the land is located with his reasons for such suspension, which shall be immediately transmitted to the entryman, with notice of suspension, and with opportunity to answer the same or ask for hearing, which, when demanded, shall be promptly had.

Representative Hubbard of Sioux City, who has been in charge of such suspension for several days suffering from a severe cold, was again at the capitol this morning.

E. J. McVann, traffic commissioner of the Commercial club, and Charles E. Fuller of Omaha, are at the New Willard. Mr. McVann is to participate in the hearing of the western rate cases pending before the Interstate Commerce commission.

Clifford W. Thorne, Iowa state railroad commissioner, is in Washington to appear before the Interstate Commerce commission Thursday in the western rate cases.

Hornet's Captain and Twelve Men Return

Hondurans Fill Places on Board Former United States Gunboat—Refuse to Talk.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 17.—Captain Charles Johnson of the Hornet filibustering expedition and twelve members of the crew, including Chief Engineer David P. Rowland, returned to New Orleans today on the steamer Joseph Vascaro, which sailed from Puerto Cortes last Wednesday.

All were extremely reticent concerning the movements of the Honduran revolutionists.

They left the Hornet at Ruatan and made their way to Belize, where they boarded the Joseph Vascaro. Their places on the Hornet had been taken by Hondurans and when they departed from Ruatan the gunboat was preparing to take arms and ammunition to Tela.

Manuel Bonilla was at Ruatan when they left whence he was directing the operations against the ports on the gulf coast of the main land.

When asked where the Hornet picked up guns and ammunition after its departure from New Orleans every member of the expedition declined to answer.

George and Lily Carroll, the little children of Mrs. Wallace York, victim of Sunday morning's double tragedy, were placed in the detention home by Juvenile Officer M. Bernstein, yesterday. His bag punching is more eloquent than the argument he makes.

Castellar Church Members Observe Their Anniversary

Conclusion of Ceremonies Takes Place with Reunion Supper and Fraternal Meeting.

Celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Castellar Street Presbyterian church was concluded last night with a membership reunion supper and fraternal meeting at the church, South Sixteenth and Castellar streets.

Members indulged in reminiscences of the earlier days of the church's history and some special music and singing was rendered by members of the choir of former days. Joseph Graner, as senior elder, presided.

"Thirty minutes of reminiscences," conducted by C. B. Wilson, was the most interesting part of the program. Letters from former pastors, ministers, who have been called to various churches throughout the United States, were read. Some were brought to the attention of some of the older members as these recollections were disclosed.

One of these letters was from the Rev. Dr. James M. Wilson, who was called as the church's first pastor, the June following the church's organization, January 18, 1885. The Rev. Dr. Wilson now lives in Seattle. His wife was the guest of honor at the meeting last night.

Mrs. Wilson gave a talk in which she related interesting bits of history from the first thirteen years of the church's existence, during which Dr. Wilson was pastor. She displayed programs and announcements of events which occurred between 1885 and 1898 and read interesting old newspaper clippings.

A historical sketch was given by Howard M. Laubach, William Knudsen made a short talk on "The Place and Value of Department Work in the History of Castellar." Burt Wilcox, former superintendent of the little school, talked on "What Omaha Southeast Section Expects From Its Largest Bible School."

"That For Which Castellar Has Stood Through Twenty-five Years," was the topic of a discourse given by the Rev. Dr. D. E. Jenkins. "A superior social life," Dr. Jenkins said, "is one of the principle things for which Castellar Street Presbyterian church has stood. The social life of this church is one of its greatest features, and has had a leavening influence in starting this church out in life and has kept it progressing."

Two minute talks were also given by the following older members: Mesdames Patrick, Wilson and Sidwell and Messrs. Koopman, Paine, Robertson and Vanderkoope.

Rev. Ralph H. Houseman, pastor of the church, concluded the program with a short talk.

Finlayson Tells of the Trouble in His Departments

Says the Expert Does Not Understand the System Used—Chairs for the Lunch Room.

Characterizing the report of R. L. Swoboda as unfair and unjust and charging that the expert was not familiar with the manner in which the affairs of his office are conducted, D. Finlayson, superintendent of buildings and custodian of school supplies, submitted his answer to the expert's report to the Board of Education last night. Mr. Finlayson's answer, as was the report of the expert, was referred to the finance committee and the chairman of the different school committees.

Swoboda, who is an expert accountant, was asked to examine the books of the building superintendent, Mr. Swoboda reported that he found the building department $1,000 over in supplies and the supply department about $100 short. He also intimated that the supplying of lumber for school purposes was monopolized by one firm. Concerning the new play of "Vanity Fair" in which Marie Tempest is enacting the role of Becky Sharp at the New Theater, Mr. Franklyn Fyles writes:

The leering Steyne and the luring Becky meet in a flower market, as in the book. Now, I wouldn't intimate that you've forgotten your Thackeray, yet I may be safe to remind you that Becky, after ingratiating herself with old Mrs. Crawley, has since the profligate Hawdon Crawley to marry her secretary, had found out as a miser, a five dollar bill except as a card sharper, has acted as a dowry and cooling stool was taken off in consequence of the scandalous personal charms into good. Becky Tempest and Becky Fiske don't differ in science. Alike they leave the audience to guess "how much, if any, love she has for the unworthy Hawdon, and whether sympathizing with the miser, she will take off in consequence of the scandalous personal charms into good. Alike they leave the audience to guess "how much, if any, love she has for the unworthy Hawdon, and whether sympathizing with the miser, she will take off in consequence of the scandalous personal charms into good.

Setting an important point, Mr. Felix Borowski writes for the Record-Herald as follows:

Whether Richard Strauss' "Salome" achieved a popular success or whether it did not is a question of the decision of which was made difficult or impossible by the withdrawal of the opera by the directors after the second performance—a withdrawal brought about by some adverse criticism of the opera's text and situations. In spite of a widely circulated statement to the effect that "Salome" had been torn from the Auditorium stage by the police, it is certain that the police had nothing to do with the removal of the work, which was taken off in consequence of the disapproval of a number of subscribers and, we believe, of certain members of the board of directors.

When Mme. Kirby-Lynn comes to Omaha today to sing at the Brandeis in the B.-H.-W. concert series, she will give a portion of her time to listening to Miss Elizabeth Hamling, a young woman of Omaha, who has obtained some note in local musical circles. Miss Hamling has a very good voice and is ambitious, and her try-out will be well known a professional as Mme. Kirby-Lynn means much to her.

Bob Fitzsimmons is only an ex-champion, but he finds that many of the Omaha folks are still eager to see him and hear his defense for the prize ring, which is the basis of his act at the American. His argument is that a man may be a champion pugilist and still be animated by the original hopes and aspirations of mankind. His bag punching is more eloquent than the argument he makes.

The founders of the New theater are said to be so unhappy over the results obtained under the administration of the Messrs.
