

SHELDON FOR GARBAGE PLANT

Likes the Ideas Suggested by City Engineer Craig.

AWAITS ACTION OF LEGISLATURE

If City Charter Revision Bill Passes Sheldon Will at Once Introduce a Resolution to Vote the Bonds.

With the passage of the bill for the revision of the city charter the city council will immediately get busy on the question of garbage collection and disposition. The revised charter, should the bill pass, will empower the city council to vote bonds in the sum of $100,000, the money to be used to install garbage reduction plants should the city council decide that to be the best way of disposing of its garbage.

At present there are no provisions for voting bonds for this purpose, according to George Craig, city engineer, who is active in a movement for better garbage facilities. But the new charter makes ample provisions.

Councilman Sheldon will introduce an ordinance to vote the bonds as soon as the charter revision act becomes active.

"I shall not delay matters a moment," said Mr. Sheldon. "Like Mr. Craig, I am of the opinion that Omaha must do something at once to better its system of collection and disposal of garbage. I am of the opinion that a reduction plant, or two if necessary, is the most feasible solution of the disposal question. My ordinance will likely make provision for the creation of a reduction plant."

"Whether we will be able to install an adequate system for the handling of garbage depends on the disposition of the bill for the revision of the charter."

Mr. Sheldon, who has been agitating better garbage conditions for some time, has made an exhaustive study of the question of garbage disposal.

"I am in favor of the reduction plant. Just what sort we should decide to install is another matter. Mr. Craig is much impressed with the plant on Staten Island, used for the reduction of garbage for the borough of Richmond, N. Y. Personally I do not think as well of this plant as the one in use in Minneapolis. The New York plant is what is known as the English patent, while Minneapolis has installed the De Carle plant. The latter, which is a water jacketed plant, does not cost as much for upkeep, according to statistics, and it is for this reason that I am inclined to the one used in Minneapolis."

"However, this is a mere matter of detail. What we want is a reduction plant."

"I do not believe that any opposition will be encountered in getting an ordinance through the council. The members realize that we need improvement along this line and I believe will be unanimous in their attitude toward the establishment of an up-to-date system."

WHAT'S BECOME OF MEMPHIS?

Not a Word Has Been Heard Since Omaha Accepted the Challenges.

The city dads of Omaha are wondering what has become of the contests that the city of Memphis, Tenn., proposed some two weeks ago. Along about that time challenges were received by the mayor, the chief of police, chief of the fire department, superintendent of schools and a host of other organizations about town, proposing contests in the various departments.

These defies came so thick and fast that the Omaha officials kept the messenger boys humpbacked carrying lengthy telegrams accepting the challenges.

So eager were the Omaha officials also to get a crack at the Memphis propositions that they couldn't wait for the mails to carry the acceptances. They sent them by wire.

After waiting a reasonable length of time the Omaha chiefs are getting weary. Likewise, they are figuring up the deficit, which comes of sending seven night messages to the southern city. They have also come to the conclusion that Memphis slipped one or a series of ones over on them, not a reply to an acceptance has been received, though the Memphis challengers were given the privilege of naming all conditions.

"I guess they slipped one over," said Mayor Dahlman Saturday morning. "It was an unique advertising scheme, but Memphis probably reckoned without its hosts when it hurled that bunch of defies along this way."

"They are probably willing to acknowledge that they ran up against one western town that wasn't afraid to take a chance with the prohibition city."

TWENTY MEN JOIN THE NAVY

Establish a Record for a Week's Enlistments at the Omaha Recruiting Station.

Twenty-eight men were enlisted in the United States navy at the Omaha recruiting station in the federal building last week, establishing a record for a week's enlistments at the local station.

The nearest approach to this number was the enlistment of sixteen men the first week in January, 1906, which was shortly after the station here was established.

Most of the number of recruits taken were men and boys who lived in various places throughout the United States. Four Omaha boys, however, helped in the establishing of the record by their enlistments. They were William C. Fogarty, 206 South Seventeenth street; Edward E. Jeffries, 264 Harney street; Henry Bosen, 130 South Eighteenth street, and Edward C. Jennings, 1028 South Fifty-second street.

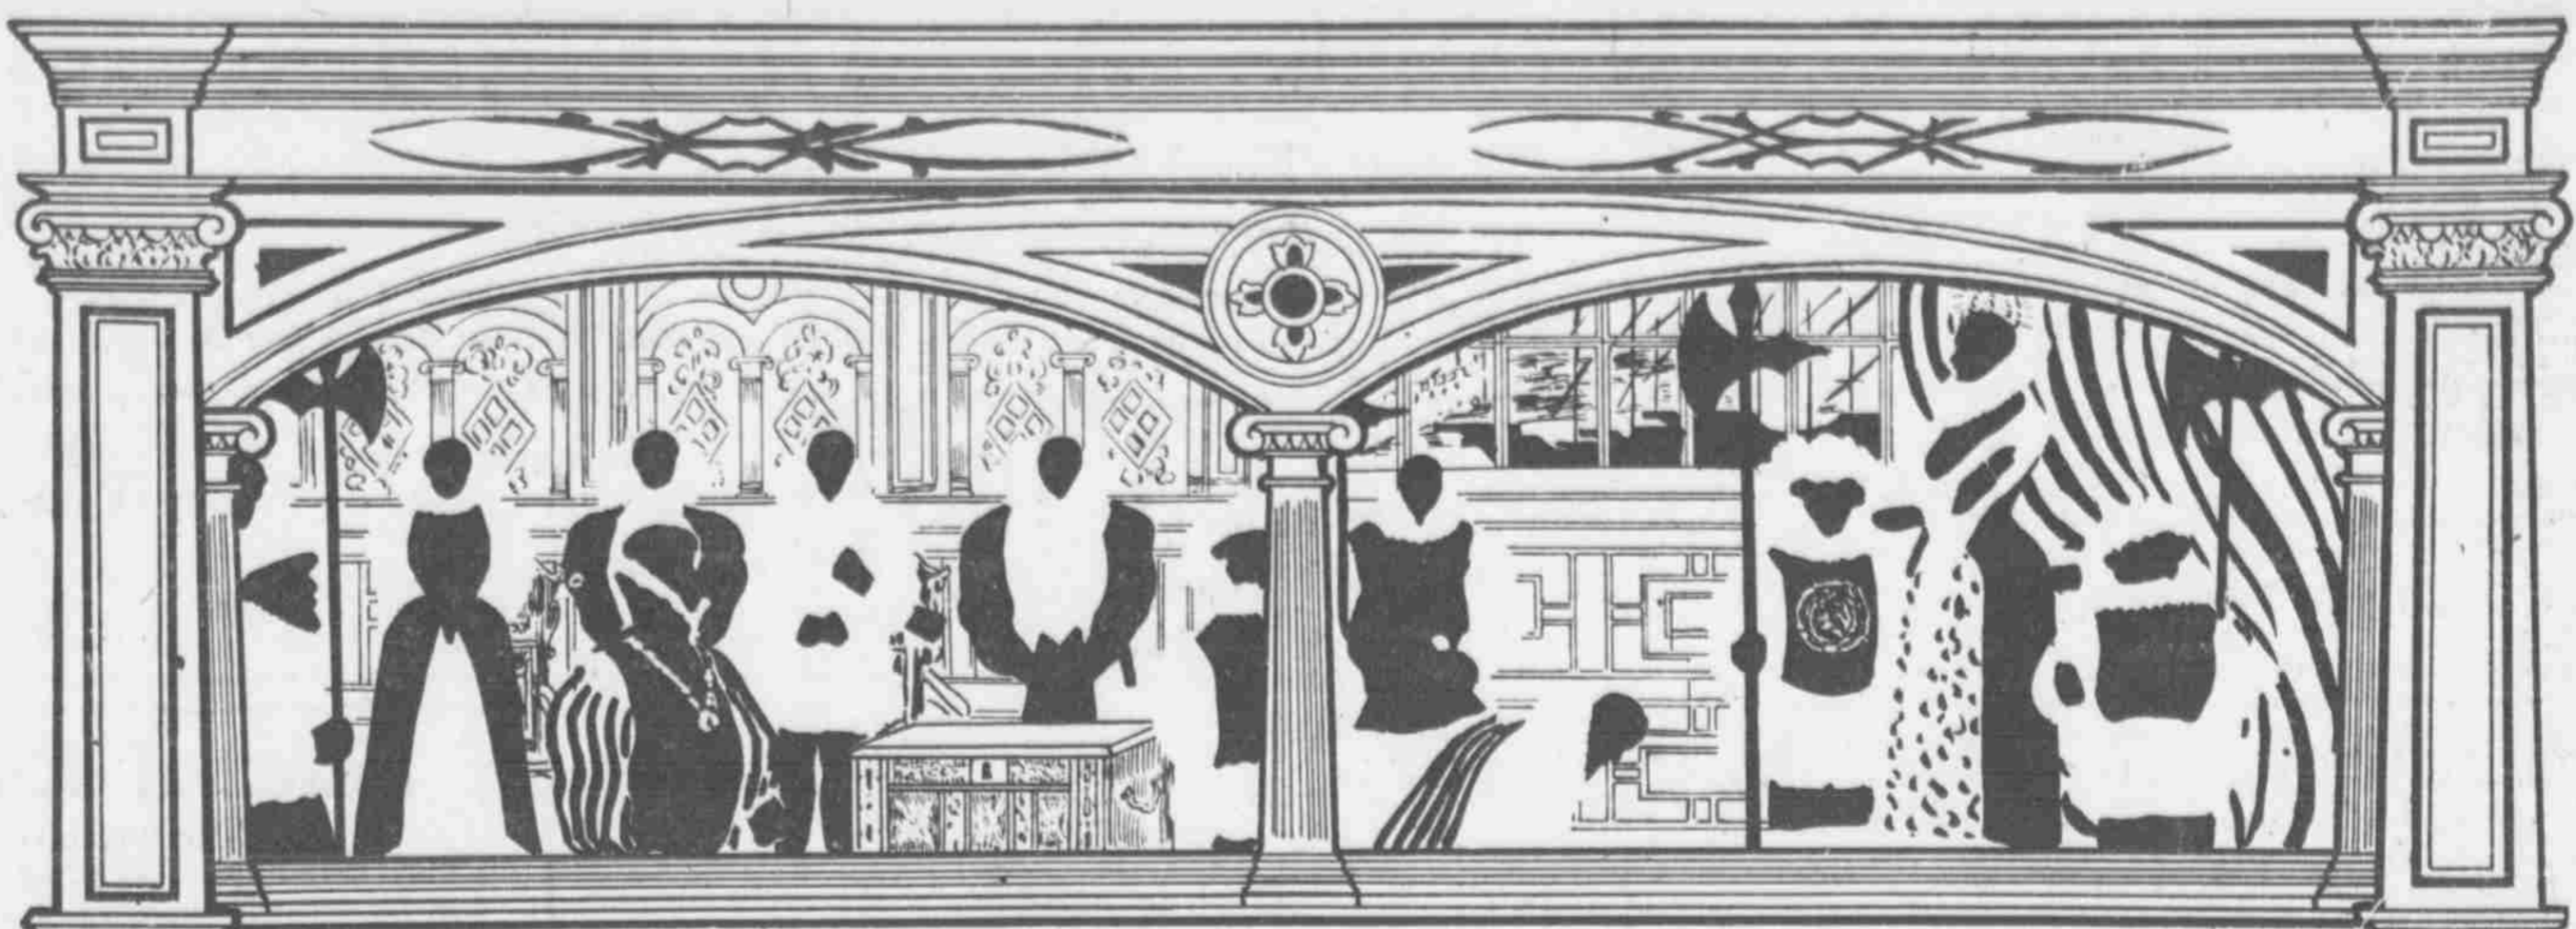

LIBRARY CATERING TO WOMEN

Publications Concerning Fashions, the Home and Gardening and Nursing All on the List.

Magazines of particular interest to women are being continuously added to the list at the Omaha public library. Those destined to use back numbers will be allowed to take them home, and a good many ambitious women in humble circumstances are taking advantage of the opportunity thus afforded for the of many publications they could not secure otherwise. Along the line of fashions are Le Bon Ton, Harper's Bazar, The Delineator, Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion. In the home and garden list are Good Housekeeping, House Beautiful, Garden Magazine, American Homes and Gardens, Country Life in America, Craftsman, Ceramic Studio, and for those interested in nursing the Trained Nurse Magazine.

ANNUAL JANUARY SALE

Good Queen Bess, here represented as receiving Sir Walter Raleigh at court on his return from America in 1578, was queen of England during the period which is known as "Elizabethan." So fragmentary is the material available on furniture making prior to this time that the chronological arrangement is begun with this date. Even patterns of the days of Elizabeth are few, for it takes excellent craftsmanship to survive three centuries, but so solidly constructed was the furniture that some of the Elizabethan designs have remained intact to the present day. In these fragments and in their reproductions are many romantic stories; for as there are sermons in stones, so there must be delightful tales in these historic bits of furniture. Your ancestors created furniture and woodwork which appealed most strongly to them, and from these sturdy old chests, massive tables, majestic four-post beds, and tall straight chairs charming bits of history are gathered. These talk with one of the manners and customs of those glorious times long since faded into the deepest pages of history. Or they call forth pictures, and one sees the giant shadows of men who made history during the reign of the Virgin Queen. Francis Drake is beheld sailing the seas for glory. Ezzex is seen composing sonnets to his queen; Bacon is viewed struggling with his literary works; Marlowe is pictured bringing forth vivid dreams; Shakespeare is seen at work on plays, the like of which has never been produced. All these classical articles are so fraught with romance that one cannot stand before them without being carried back into ancient days. For this reason every student of history, every man who loves ancient beauty and every woman who delights in romance should visit our store and look upon the modern reproductions of these classical periods. These are being sold far below regular value during our January Green Seal of Quality Sale.
