Montana is Happy. "Our commercial clubs at Great Falls and Helena seek us here with a double mission," said Sam W. Farnstead.

"Second, to call the attention of the younger men of the cities and towns to the fact that opportunity waits for them in Montana to engage in industry and merchandising. Less capital is required in our new towns than here, where the individual initiative in business is becoming more and more restricted by the big concerns."

"The Bee may say for Montana that we have been accorded every opportunity to forward our purposes in coming to the Western Land Products exhibit; that we feel our mission has been a success, and that we shall so report to our people."

PICK OUT SITE FOR MONUMENT

One Near State House in Des Moines Goes to River Front.

NEW PLACE FOR ALLISON SHAFT. Senator Lafayette Young Goes to Washington to Oppose Reciprocity with Canada—Consists to Speak on Duffell.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, Ia., Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The Iowa senators and senators' monument, which now stands directly south of the state house, will be moved to the site on the river front if the plans of the committees from the city council, the greater Des Moines committee and the Iowa Grand Army of the Republic members are carried out at a meeting in the office of Mayor Hanna the three committees formulated a campaign to have the big memorial moved. The city will be asked to dedicate ground on the river front, while the state will be appealed to for a sufficient sum to move and re-erect the monument.

Young Goes to Washington. Senator Lafayette Young started for Washington tonight, where he will go for the special purpose of adding members opposing the bill which has been proposed, looking to the reciprocity arrangement with Canada. He declared before going that he will fight the measure in the interest of the western people. He may not return to take part in the senatorial election.

Consensus Was Spoken. Robert G. Cousins of Tipton notified the Duffell memorial committee of the general assembly that he accepted their invitation to deliver the memorial address on the life and character of the late Senator Duffell. The services will be held in the house chamber some time early in March.

Tax Ferrets Opposed. The house has passed by a vote of 31 to 18 the Fulton bill to abolish the law authorizing the employment of tax ferrets. There was introduced in the house a bill to apply the Wisconsin preferential privilege to the real estate taxes in Iowa. It was sent to the revenue committee, which is considering the various bills that have been introduced looking to a special primary to advise the legislators on the vote for senator.

For Death of a Wife. Senator Clarkson has started to pass his bill defining the measure of damages for loss of a wife in an accident, but objection was raised by Saunders to its consideration, and it was made a special order for next Thursday. The bill provides specifically for a measure of damages not to exceed $5,000 for death of a wife, something not now provided in the Iowa code.

The senate passed Saunders' bill to require in water works condemnation cases that notice must be given to junior lienholders before such condemnation may be legal. This applies especially to the case of the city of Des Moines. The senate also passed a bill regarding the Centerville school district. New bills introduced in the senate: By Proudfoot, giving the parole board right to review cases involving life sentences.

By Allen of Pocahontas, authorizing the appointment of secretary of department of agriculture. By Hunter, permitting free passes to be given mail carriers. By Stuckless, amending the coal and oil inheritance tax law.

By Balkom, raising the pay of county auditors on graduated scale. By Linnan, to authorize normal course work in the high schools. By Whitney, to amend the list of offenses in which immunity may be granted a witness.

By Fraley, providing for sanitary conditions in restaurants and bakeries. Corporation Fight to Be Warm. The indications now are that the fight over various bills in the legislature affecting corporation interests will be exciting. The senate judiciary committee has set February 9 for a big public hearing in regard to various bills looking toward regulation of the public service corporations. It is evident that the representatives of the cities and of the corporations will seriously oppose the former favoring one side and the latter favoring the other to establish a public service commission will be bitterly opposed by the representatives of the cities and towns.

May Raise Salary of Secretary. The salary of the secretary of the state department of agriculture is the subject of a bill pending in each house. It is proposed that the legislature authorize the department to fix the salary without any restrictions and it is argued that only in this way can the department be safe in securing a good man. Secretary Simpson has returned from St. Paul, where he yesterday took charge of the state fair.

Waiting for Contentment. The contest committee in regard to a contest for the seat of Representative Lyon county is waiting for the coming of Mr. Boomgard of Rock Rapids, who claims the seat of Representative Olsen, democrat. As soon as he comes an effort will be made to have the two men fix up the matter in some way satisfactory to both, as the count showed a tie vote. If they can adjust the matter the committee will be spared much embarrassment.

RECIPROCITY IS TO BE AN ISSUE

Mr. McCall declined to declare himself, but made no secret of his approval of the plan for reciprocal arrangements between the two countries. Several members of the committee whose positions have also been in doubt have indicated the fact that the ways and means committee will under no circumstances fail to report the bill promptly and have given indication that the report is likely to be favorable to the treaty.

The McCall bill, after indicating the duties that are to be levied upon Canadian products, provides these shall become effective as soon as the president ascertains and issues a proclamation showing that Canada is levying similar duties against American products. The free importation of certain articles is to become operative as soon as the president becomes satisfied that Canada is making similar concessions to the United States.

The senate was not in session today and there were few members of that body at the capitol. It was impossible to learn if there had been any change in the open hostility with which the measure was received on Thursday.

Aim of President Taft. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—If the Canadian reciprocity arrangement is ratified by congress and the Canadian Parliament works out as well in practice as the administration believes it will, similar arrangements will be made with Mexico and other Central and South American countries.

This is the firm belief of men who are in a position to know what is in the mind of the president and his most trusted advisers.

Mr. Taft's ultimate aim is a great American sovereign, or tariff union, which will take in all the countries of North and South America.

The encouragement of closer financial relations with the Central and South American countries, as indicated in the recent Honduras treaty, is in line with this policy. So is the encouragement of American investments in that section of the world.

It is felt we are not getting our share of the Central and South American trade, and Mr. Taft is ambitious that his administration shall place us in first position in that line. Under the impetus of most favorable reciprocity arrangements, aided by the fact that the Panama canal will place us in closer and more direct touch with the west coast and better banking facilities, he believes we can get the price. And that is a prize worth striving for. The foreign trade of Latin America is more than $2,000,000,000, nearly two-thirds the foreign trade of the United States. Of this we now get only about one-fourth.

President is Hopeful. The president is very hopeful that congress will lose no time in making effective the arrangement with Canada.

Senators and representatives are quoted as saying that the agreement cannot possibly be enacted into law at this session of congress, but these declarations apparently have no effect on Mr. Taft. He is looking for action before adjournment on March 4, and while he has not authorized such an announcement, the fact is made that if the agreement falls at this time, congress may be called in a special session early in March. If the president should call the lawmakers in session in March, it would be up to the democrats to begin work on a revision bill. They would subordinate the Canadian agreement as such, but would probably be instructed in order to get concessions, in part at least, in their revision bill.

The Canadian agreement is popular with the democrats. Practically all the members in the party in the house endorse it. Most of the democratic senators approved the agreement at the Toronto session. Bailey has announced that he does not like it because of the provision placing cattle on the free list. Senator Bailey will probably lead the opposition in the senate.

Some Protests Are Made. Very strong protests were heard from republican members representing northwest interests in an agricultural nature, such as those of North and South Dakota and states farther west. The feeling of the group is that the treaty is intended to, or at all events does, trench very seriously upon the barley, flax and cereal interests of the northwest, and that these are practically sacrificed in order to get concessions from Canada that would be pleasing to interests which have been causing trouble to the administration. Very much the same state of mind exists among the lumber interests. As for the New England interests, they are intensely stirred up over the proposal to allow the mutual free admission of fresh and salt fish.

A serious feature of the situation is that a considerable number of insurgent republicans, who have been clamoring for reciprocity, are now taking the view that they don't want reciprocity of this kind, and will not vote for it. This is particularly true of the northwestern members, and several were today ridiculed or rebuked by other members because of their change of front.

As Viewed in England. LONDON, Jan. 28.—(Special Cablegram.)—In the international politics of the world, the Washington-Ottawa reciprocity negotiations Mr. Taft has won, not only a distinct triumph in a field where he has desired to excel, but also a larger advantage in the general relations between the United States and its northern neighbor.

WOODMEN CIRCLE AT PEACE

Charges against supreme guardian Manchester Fall Through.

MRS. MANCHESTER IS CLEARED. Fall Settlement of Recent Unpleasantness in Auxiliary of Woodmen of World Expected This Week.

The recent unpleasantness which interrupted the quietness of the supreme grove of the Woodmen of the World, is in a fair way to be cleared up within the next week. Mrs. Emma B. Manchester, supreme guardian of the circle, has proven herself equal to the occasion, and has given a clean bill by the supreme council, which has been going into the affairs of the organization for ten days.

Whatever may have been the origin of the trouble, it is apparent that no scandal attaches to the difficulty and that differences of opinion have been the principal causes of dissension. Mrs. Elizabeth Sears, supreme clerk of the circle, and about whose authority as regards department management there has been a disagreement, was forced by the supreme council to show her hand. To that end she preferred charges against Mrs. Manchester, and witnesses were called before the council by both sides. The council listened to the charges and promptly dismissed them.

Mrs. Manchester of every shadow of suspicion. In fact, these charges were taken at all times with a grain of salt by those who were in a position to know of them.

Case Comes Up Monday. The case before the district court will come up Monday, at which time it is probable the entire matter will be dismissed and sent back to the supreme council for settlement. Circle politics has been very lively recently, but the trouble is apparently about at an end. It is not unlikely, however, it is stated, that Mrs. Sears will be called upon to "square" herself for bringing unsubstantiated charges against the supreme guardian.

Few women have made a success of business life such as Mrs. Manchester. She has done so when she undertook the management of the Woodmen Circle, that institution was $45,000 in debt. Today it has a reserve fund of nearly two million dollars and the membership has grown from 11,000 to 25,000, a showing the equal of which no fraternal organization has before made. Mrs. Manchester is highly esteemed by all connected with the organization, and has always had the respect of the great army of bureau and department workers who have assisted her in building up the Circle.

Few women have been able to conduct an institution with the quiet dignity which features the supreme guardian's management. Surrounded by a council of brilliant women, she has ever had the confidence of her associates, and for the few unpleasant spots which have marred the progress of the Circle there have been a thousand brilliant achievements.

In the Council Bluffs, which by all connected with the organization, and has always had the respect of the great army of bureau and department workers who have assisted her in building up the Circle.

While at times those who opposed Mrs. Manchester attempted to create internal dissension, their efforts have been far from successful. A remarkable instance where her fine personality has shown itself was when her character was assailed during the recent investigation. She quietly invited a full investigation, turned over everything to the supreme council, not hesitating even to give them access to her private correspondence relating to business affairs purely personal to her. A prominent bank cashier was called to the stand to confirm several of her transactions and the council found that they had been carried out in the clean-cut manner which could result only from a straightforward conduct of business. It took the council but a short time to discover these facts, so the charges fell flat.

Total, $244,000. This makes a total of appropriations now before the legislature of $2,800,000. These H. R. Nos. 91 and 92, the appropriations for legislative salaries and incidentals, totalling $100,000, have been passed by both house and senate. H. R. No. 3, to repair the basement room in the state house under the southeast wing, and H. R. No. 12, to buy statutes for the members for $2,000 have been passed by the house.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Jan. 28.—(Special.)—Senator Banning came back from the inspection trip of the public lands and the buildings made as a wet hen, not because of anything that happened on the trip, but because of the action of his colleagues during his absence. Senator Banning is interested in the senatorial fight on raising salaries for two reasons. He is opposed to all unnecessary expenditures and is of the opinion that this is one and he is chairman of the committee on employes and recruits interference. So when Auditor Barton refused to recognize the salary increases for pages and other minor officials he shouted bravo and is now determined that the subterfuge of appointing forty assistant secretaries shall not enable the generosity of Barton to evade the statutes.

An atmosphere of old battles and conquests hangs about the cloak room of the house chamber. At the table that serves as a center for the room there are always to be found two or three, or possibly more, veterans of the civil war, and the house has little to do but keep within call. They spend their time in stirring memories and recount to each other all the grim stories of battlefields and campaigns that they can recall. They go back together to each section of the country where they saw service, trace over in imagination the old marches and bivouacs and are having in general a most delightfully bloodthirsty time of it.

A blackboard is now standing just outside the railing of the house chamber which was used for the last time two and one-half years ago and has never been cleaned since. On it is written the names of the members of Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Duffin, Collins, Sullivan, Sedgwick and Grimes. Nebraska Material Company Loses Case

Interstate Commerce Commission Holds with Burlington Road on Freight Rates on Brick.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The Interstate Commerce commission today rendered a decision in the case of the Nebraska Material Company against the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company in which it holds against the complainant in that it finds that the rate of 12 cents on common brick from Mount City, Kan., to Tecumseh, Neb., is not found to be unreasonable or unjustly discriminatory, as compared with the rate of 8 cents to Lincoln, a point forty-eight miles more distant and on the same line. The complaint is dismissed.
