MIND OF WEST NOT MADE UP

How Reciprocity Matter Was Received by the Delegations.

CUMMINS SAYS IT GOES TOO FAR

Senator Brown Thinks Definite Agreement Should Be Made with Canada with Respect to Crown Spruce Lands.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(Special Telegram.)—The manner in which the message reciprocity was sent to congress yesterday may play an extremely important part in its consideration at this session. The message was directed to the senate and house of representatives, and therefore leaves it open to congress whether it shall consider the project by joint resolution or whether the ways and means committee of the house shall take the initiative by a bill putting into effect the recommendations of the president as a result of negotiations between Canada and the United States through duly accredited commissioners. Senator Cummins of Iowa said tonight that while he stood for reciprocity between Canada and the United States, he was not prepared to go the full length of the recommendations which President Taft made to the senate yesterday; that it was really more free trade than he had ever dreamed of and that his democratic friend in Massachusetts, Governor Ross, would hardly be found favoring so broad a free trade measure as the president outlined.

Views of Brown.

Senator Brown, who made a magnificent fight for free wood pulp and print paper, is not exactly satisfied that the recommendations of the president accomplish the purposes intended unless a definite agreement has been made between Canada and the other country to relinquish crown lands held by the mother country which includes 50 per cent of the spruce wood supply.

Senator Brown contends that the export duty must be removed from every product, otherwise free wood pulp would be impossible.

Congressman-elect Sloan, although extremely new to the situation, but a very close student of the tariff and economic conditions generally, thought that the paragraph relative to meats would interest Nebraska, particularly in view of the fact that but a thousand head of cattle had been shipped into Canada last year.

The message has created more speculation than any document which the president has sent to congress for an extremely long time. A great many friends of the administration are openly in arms against it, while so-called enemies of the administration are as openly in praise of the wisdom of the proposition and broadness of the man who sent it forth.

Tawney's Attitude.

Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the appropriation committee, is opposed to the suggestion of treating along the lines outlined by Mr. Taft, and so are Lindberg, Volstead and Steiensen. On the other hand, those in favor of the treaty, coming from the same state, which bounds Canada on the north, are Hammond (dem.), Stevens, Nye and Miller, the latter of Duluth, and one other member, Davis, noncommittal. The Dakotas are unreservedly against the plan of reciprocity laid down in the president's message.

As to Nebraska, the entire membership of the delegation, with the possible exception of Mr. Hitchcock, is inclined to be non-committal as to where they will stand when the matter comes before them. Mr. Hitchcock was inclined to believe it a step forward and thought that the president showed a far-sightedness and wisdom in bringing about such an agreement.

Congressman Latta, who unreservedly says that he will quit public life after this congress, believes that the law of supply and demand will regulate prices irrespective of any concessions made by countries with one another, but just how he would vote on this question he is frank enough to say he does not know and might vote "no" just as easily as he would vote "yes." One fact remains, however, the president has played masterful politics. He has called the attention of the country to conditions existing between Canada and the United States and to the disparity between them relative to the necessities of both. He has served notice on the democratic party that if he does not get legislation through at this session of congress the democratic party will be held responsible for their failure to accomplish the legislation in the sixty-second congress even though it may justify some of the agrarian states temporarily.

After several hearings the house committee on irrigation today amended the first section of the Warren bills No. 43,629 to $3.54 by the adoption of amendments urged by Congressman Kinkaid of Nebraska. While the section provided for the disposition and delivery of any part of the water supply of irrigation projects, by order of the secretary of the interior, as now amended the government is authorized, where an excess of reservoir and canal capacity has been provided for projects to contract with other irrigation systems for the impounding, storage and carrying of water to the extent of such excess capacity. The bill reserves a first right to lands and entrymen under the project. House members well informed on the situation have been convinced that the bill could not pass the house without such an amendment as have been adopted, and they are not well assured that it can be passed even with such amendments.

C. H. Sloan of Geneva, representative-elect of the Fourth Nebraska district, is in Washington, having arrived early this morning. Mr. Sloan had an appointment with Senator Brown to take him to the White House and formally present the new Nebraska congressman to Mr. Taft. The president naturally received Mr. Sloan most cordially and briefly chatted with him upon current affairs. Leaving the White House Mr. Sloan went to the capitol, where he met Representative Hinshaw, who introduced him to his own particular circle of friends, including Speaker Cannon and Soren E. Payne. Later Mr. Sloan lunched with Judge Norris in the house restaurant and there met many more men with whom he will be associated during the sixty-second congress.

Charles Saunders of Omaha is in Washington visiting old-time friends. Mr. Saunders said: "It's just one of my annual visits to Washington to see relatives and friends."

Senator Brown today recommended the appointment of J. W. Ward to be postmaster at Nickerson, Vice Guy Stewart, resigned.

Husband Able to Work; Wife Can't Get a Job

Court Holds Married Woman Cannot Force Appointment as Teacher in Spite of License.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—Married school teachers in New York are not eligible for promotion and married women may be refused appointment, while their husbands are still able to earn a living. This decision was handed down today by the appellate division of the supreme court, after a long legal fight.

The case in point is that of Mrs. E. P. Norman, who sued to compel the Board of Education to appoint her an assistant principal, for which position she holds the license of the board. Her husband is in good health and the court upheld a rule of the board that unless he was incapacitated by mental or physical disease or had abandoned her for not less than three years, she cannot force an appointment.

NEBRASKA IN NEED OF BANKS

James C. McNish of First National of Winner Says the State Could Accommodate Few More.

"Nebraska needs more banks," said James C. McNish, president of the First National Bank of Winner, Neb., in an interview last night. Mr. McNish was a visitor at the Land Show, and gave his views on the banking situation, while inspecting one of the corn exhibits. He explained that the smaller towns of the state were not sufficiently cared for by banking institutions, so that crops could be handled with the best facility.

TAFT WILL FIGHT FOR TREATY

All Prophecies of Failure Fail to Move Chief Executive.

APPEALS CASE TO WAGE EARNERS

Would Recommend Reduction in Duties on Clothing, if Possible—Insurgents Are Turned Around.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Snags began to loom up in the pathway of the Canadian reciprocity agreement before it had been in the hands of congress twenty-four hours and confident predictions of its failure were made by pillars of the protective tariff faith. It was said that even should the house accept the terms of the arrangements (which republican high tariff advocates did not concede for a moment), it could not pass the senate.

These prophecies were carried to the White House today by members who visited the president, ostensibly on other business, but instead of their creating a pessimistic feeling there Mr. Taft, it is said, received them with smiles which indicated that one defeat would not turn him from his purpose. If his own party before surrendering control of the house of representatives fails to seize the opportunity and credit of putting into operation this reciprocal trade pact, the president, it is said, will not hesitate to submit his proposition to the democrats, perhaps even in an extra session.

Taft is Determined.

One man in the confidence of the president, who has been the administration mouthpiece on more than one occasion, came from the White House tonight with the declaration that the proposed Canadian arrangement would not die an easy death so long as Mr. Taft was in the White House.

"The president was never more in earnest in his life," said he.

"He intends to stay with it through the session and carry it to the next if necessary. He would not hesitate to call an extra session if he thought it necessary."

President Taft believes the mutual concessions arranged by the United States and Canada, especially the large number of articles of food stuffs which would be put on the free list, promises a great humanitarian movement that ultimately would mean a material reduction in the cost of living.

He believes that even if the promised reductions are not at once apparent, the very presence of this document in congress will prove a deterrent force against continual advancement in the price of food.

It is in the senate that the barriers now look impassable. A republican member of the finance committee said today that not one of the majority of that body favored the proposed arrangement with Canada, some being opposed because they believed the interests of their states to be jeopardized and others having their objections upon the ground of supposed menace to the principle of protection. The estimate by this member of the sentiment could recommend at this time a reduction in the duties on clothing.

Appeals to Workers.

He believes this combination would have appealed so forcibly to the great army of wage workers who have felt the pinch of constantly advancing food prices that there would have been manifested at once an overwhelming demand through the country for the action of his program.

The commercial relations of the United States and Canada, according to the view held by the president, should be placed above partisan political considerations and there is the best possible reason to declare that he will take his stand upon this belief and hold it until some action is taken by congress.

The overturning of the republican majority of the house and the great chance to be made in the complexion of the senate after March 4 is thought by some to supply President Taft with more than an even chance of success.

When his message was read in the house yesterday it was received with acclamation by the democrats and appearances seem to favor an endorsement of it by the present minority, which soon will be the majority.

If the attitude of the democratic leaders proves a true index of the position which the minority members of the ways and means committee will take on a joint resolution to put the trade agreement into force, then such a result can be brought out of committee. The seven democrats are believed to be in sympathy with the agreement and it is certain four republicans will vote to report it. This makes a clear majority of the nineteen members.

Republicans Line-up.

The republicans counted upon by the administration to vote to report the resolution are McCall of Massachusetts, Hill of Connecticut, Needham of California and Longworth of Ohio. Chairman Payne and Representative Dwight, both of New York, are believed to be opposed to the agreement, but it is regarded as doubtful if they will take a determined stand against the president's wishes.

Should the resolution be brought out of the ways and means committee within the next fortnight, a vote could be had on it in the house during the present session. Whether it passes or not, it is likely a majority of the present democratic members present will vote for it. This would be accepted as committing the democratic house of next session to its passage.

It is in the senate that the barriers now look impassable. A republican member of the finance committee said today that not one of the majority of that body favored the proposed arrangement with Canada, some being opposed because they believed the interests of their states to be jeopardized and others having their objections upon the ground of supposed menace to the principle of protection. The estimate by this member of the sentiment could recommend at this time a reduction in the duties on clothing.

Butterick Patterns

To the ladies of Omaha and purchasers of Butterick patterns—

We beg to announce commencing Wednesday, February 1st, that Butterick patterns can only be obtained in the store of THOS. KILPATRICK & CO.

The Butterick Publishing Company

In the committee concerning the agreement had made the walking ring of the tariff and for lower duties.

"The proposed agreement," said one of the old-time house leaders, "gives the gentlemen from the Dakotas, from Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas downward tariff revision with a vengeance on the products of their own states. Now let us see what they are going to do about it."

The insurgents discussed the matter among themselves, but so far an knell came to no general understanding.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—Editorials in the newspapers this morning dealing with the proposed reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada are concerned more with its effect on the policy of the imperial preference than the merits of the agreement itself.

The protectionist papers consider that the agreement, if ratified, would be a serious blow to trade and increase the cost of food in Great Britain, through the displacement of Canadian supplies to the United States.
