Thinks Proposed Revision Would Provide Too Much Money.

MORE MONEY THAN IS NEEDED Favors Having Royalties and Occupation Taxes Added to the Fund, but Not Raising the Fixed Amount.

The provisions of the bill for the proposed revision of the city ordinances will give 'he city more money than it needs for lighting purposes, according to Walde mar Michaelsen, city electrician, Mr. Mich aelsen has made an exhaustive study of the ordinance and sugrasts that it should

Under our present ordinance the city council is empowered to vote $70,000 a year for the lighting fund. In addition all moneys accruing from royalty taxes from the lighting companies are placed to this fund, which gives more than $100,000 for lighting purposes," said Mr. Michaelsen. "Now, the new ordinance provides that the amount that the city can expend is $100,000. In addition, it puts all moneys received from royalties and occupation taxes in this fund. Then there is another provision, which gives the city council the power to create lighting districts and to assent one-half the cost of maintenance against the property owners. From these three provisions the city will get approx-follows: Physi, a set amount of $160,000, then oc cupation taxes, which it is proposed divert from the sinking fund, will add in the pelghborhood of $55,000. These taxes are based on 3 per cent of the gross business of the companies, exclusive of light furnished to the city. The royalties will bring to from $25,000 to $40,000 more, while there is no limit to the amount that may be exacted from property owners in special lighting districts.

imately $50,000 for lighting purposes, as

Tells of Objections. "The objections to the proposed plan are two-fold. First, the city does not need that much money for lighting purposes; secondly, the provision creates a fund which will gradually increase from year to year and will increase faster than the demand for extra lights. We should have an increasing frind to meet the demands, but we do not need one that is as general as

There are two ways in which the provision can be amended satisfactory, in my opinion. The present limit of $70,000 can be left as it is and the occupation taxes and repulties added to the fund. In this way we can get about $20,000 to $25,000 more each year, which will be ample. Or the amount that can be apportioned by the city council can be raised to $100,000 and the royalties added to the fund, as now, and leave the occupation taxes to the sinking fund. This will also add about $30,600 yearly.

"Elther way is antisfactory. Of the two however, I favor that leaving the money to be apportioned by the council to $70,000 and diverting both the royalties and occupation taxes to the fund. This will meet conditions better as it will give an increasing fund, which will be augmented as the business of the lighting companies increase. "But I am against the present provisions and shall make suggestions for the amending of the ordinance.

J. R. Webster Buys Big Factory Tract

Secures Twenty Acres on Nicholas and Eleventh Street as an Investment.

In the purchase of a five-acre plot of ground at Eleventh and Nicholas streets Wednesday, John R. Webster, representative of the litinois Central ratiroad, has begun a movement to extend Omaha's factory district Mr. Webster purchased the ground from the Byron Reed company. paying $29,000 for it.

He announced he made the deal as a speculation, hoping to secure a manufacturing plant through a sale or lease, as occupant of the tract. Mr. Webster pointed out that the section at that point is the proper location for a greater factory district in Omaha, and that the Illinois Central is in a position to extend spur tracks into the locality to accommodate whatever factories that may be established there.

Business men of the city first anticipated the building of a factory district in the bottoms, at East Omaha section, where the Webster ground is located, about twenty years ago. Expecting that such industries would naturally spring up in that locality, the city paved Nicholas street for a considerable length. how the expectations were not fulfilled in the ensuing years, and the bottoms land is to a large extent still open for occu-
