It is Necessary to Put Brain Power AS WELL AS Horse Power Behind a Motor Car

While the CHALMERS "30" has plenty of horsepower, it is especially noted for the brains spent in its development. It is a well-balanced car—good through and through—it hasn't a weak spot in it.

You may not need all the quality that is built into the Chalmers, but since you do not have to pay more than you do for a car that does not possess it, why not accept it and hold it in reserve?
