Clubs, at last, have come into their own. Of course to club members the meetings are always important and are given first attention, but it is only in the Lenten season that clubs dominate the calendar. They do this week. The announcements of entertalnments are chiefly for the club gatherings, the informal afternoon and for the charity benefit.

Two of the larger clubs meet this week. The Amateur Musical club gives a program Monday with Mrs. H. P. Whitmore as hostess. The Tuesday Morning Musical club meets at the home of Mrs. George A Joslyn Tuesday morning, when Mr. Thomas J. Kelly will furnish a program which promises unusual interest-lecture recital on Wagner's opera, "Tristan and Isolde,"

The bridge dinner, which is to be given at the Omaha club Tuesday evening for Mrs. Latey, Mrs. Trexler, Mrs. Leaverton, attending this formal were Miss Louise dining room and will be followed by an Shockley. evening of bridge in the card rooms. This is the first subscription dinner of the season and is proving exceedingly popular.

Pleasurable anticipation is aroused by the announcement that Mrs. Myron Learned will give a recital of ballads and children's songs in benefit of the Visiting Nurses' association. Mrs. Learned sang a number of these songs at the successful "Children's entertainments" last fall and is to be given at her home, 2232 Sherman qua, Wis. Those present were: avenue. Saturday afernoon at 4 o'clock. The fact that the program will include Samuel Rees, several of Mrs. Learned's compositions adds to its interest. The story of the program as it is told by the names of the John O. Yelser, songs to be included, is: "When Stars Are E. R. Hume. in the Quiet Skies"; "Bendemeer's Stream," Strelesski); "The Stars in Her Hair"; Lullaby"; "When I Am Dead, My Dear-"Doan Yo' Listen," (Carrie Jacobs est"; "Donn Yo' Listen," (Carrie Jacobs Leavitt, Bond); "The Bonnie Banks of Loch Lo- L. (Carrie Jacobs talned at dinner Major and Mrs. W. P. Bond); "Practicing"; "When Night Comes." Burnham at the Hotel Loyal Saturday and Rue Carpenter); "Three Wise evening, prior to their departure for the Old Women." (Homer N. Bartlett.)

In foreign countries Omaha people are finding the outdoor life offers serious ! rivalry to any amusements furnished by the "social calendar." The sojourners who are finding most joy in the outdoor events are, moreover, not in the summer climes. but are where "winter rules" even longer than it does in this part of the world.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. Kountze, who have been spending the winter in Munich, Germany, have ben thoroughly enjoying the winter there. They expect to sail from Bremen April 16. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kountze are athletic and have been enjoying the winter sports, skting, skating and coasting parties. They have also been taking a number of interesting trips to sight places near Munich.

Garrison life in wintry Alaska is offering numerous novel experiences to the officers and ladies of the Sixteenth infantry, who are now stationed there ing party Friday evening. The hall was Captain Martin Crimmins has expressed decorated in the club colors, old rose and of Oklahoma City. Those present included the felracing dogs which recently won the Alas- lowing: kan sweepstakes. Captain and Mrs. Crimmins and their friends are now learning the Joys of cross-country sledding, with the swift and hardy little dogs as steeds.

A Shrove Tuesday wedding which is of Interest to all Omahans who visit the Pacific coast because it united two of California's best known and wealthiest families was the wedding of Miss Helene Irwin to Mr. Templeton Crocker, which was celebrated in San Francisco.
