FICKLENESS AMONG FICKS CAUSES A LEGAL TANGLE

Omnha Man Wants Woman, Who May or May Not Be His Wife, to Come Back Home to Him.

Carl Fick wants his wife back. Mrs. Fick won't come back, Besides she says she is not Mrs. Fick any more, but Mrs. Earl Bready of Kansas City.

She points to a decree of divorce granted in Douglas county. Fick, through his lawyer, Sophus Nebla, replies that she has annulled that divorce by her remarriage in Kansas City.

Mr. Neble went to Kansas City recently to try to induce Mrs. Fick or Bready to return to her husband here. She left him standing on the corner watching the street car speed up the boulevard.

Mr. Fick is displeased. Now he has written to his wife, or former wife, as the case may be, to notify her that if she won't be good and come home he will prosecute.

We're Showing All the New Grays and Tans in Our Ladies' Spring Suits and Coats, at

For the larger part, mannish worsteds and imported French serges are the materials. The suits show the shorter jackets, tailored with straight lines, giving that most fashionable "The Mannish Custom Tailored" effect. Some of the patterns are plain shades with a hair line or pencil stripe, others bring out the mannish checks, while some speak pnietly in plain colors. The collars come in three charming effects. The narrow lapel with the silk facing, another the sailor collar for the younger figures, while the third comes in shawl style, a very popular collar with the taller women. The pockets are not so frequently noticed. The bottoms, however, command your attention for their individuality and charms.

The skirts are narrower still, yet they lack that skimpy, scant apperance, which called for such wide comment when first these skirts were introduced. The tailor's art has accomplished this. All these charms are found in hundreds of different fabrics. Never were we so able to perfectly meet the demands of all types of Omaha women, at $25. The coats are fitted just a bit, yet in no way do they wander from the "straight line" effects of the sults, which Dame Fashion says must be the vogue. These, too, show the shawl collars and the piain lapels, the plain sleeves, and too, they are finished with Duchess satin or Peau de Cygne silk. We ask that you visit the display Thursday after making the rounds of all other stores. We promise you greater advantages in these garments at $25.00 than others stores' lines do that come as high as $30 and $35.

Our Spring Silk Foulards are Irresistible

The designs are so numerous, allowing no monotonous repetitions, that makes one fear that her next door neighbor or intimate friend shall appear in a duplicate pattern.
