Senor de la Barra Says Majority of Insurrectos Will Be Satisfied with Reforms to Be Initiated by New Cabinet.

NEW CABINET MEMBERS.

Minister of Finance—Jose Yves Limantour. Minister of Foreign Relations—Francisco de la Barra. Minister of Justice—Demetrio Solis.

MEXICO CITY, March 25.—Francisco de la Barra, Mexican ambassador to the United States, was yesterday named minister of foreign relations of the Mexican cabinet by President Diaz.

Although no official announcement has been made, it is known that five of the new members of President Diaz's cabinet have been selected and it is almost certain Senor Jose Yves Limantour will remain as minister of finance.

Other officials besides Senor de la Barra as minister of foreign relations are: Demetrio Solis, judge of the supreme court, minister of justice, succeeding Justo Fernandez.

Nerberto Dominguez, postmaster general, department of communications, succeeding Leandro Fernandez. Manuel Maroquin, well known civil engineer, department of fomento (promotion of colonization and industry), succeeding Cigarito Molina.

José Vera Estanol, an attorney, minister of education, succeeding Justo Sierra. So far as political announcement is concerned, Mexico City is as ignorant tonight as it was yesterday.

Reyes Returns to Army. General Bernardo Reyes, now in Italy, who by many was believed to be slated for the post of secretary of War and Marine is returning to Mexico, but not to serve in that capacity, it is believed. According to a high authority he will return to serve in the army.

With the exception of General Diaz himself there is no man in Mexico whose Mexican people credit with greater military genius than General Reyes, and it is believed the more knowledge of the fact that he is to be sent into the field would do much to break the spirit of the revolution.

With the changes in the cabinet, reforms will be enacted, it is currently reported, which will include changes in the electoral system, effective suffrage in the election of state governments and a reformation of the powers of the jefes politicos. It is said a full program of these reforms will be given in the president's message next Saturday at the opening of congress.

That the administration's policy of reform now has an excellent chance of being

Miss Deutsch, Actress, Sues Dady, Millionaire, Charging Breach of Promise.

NEW YORK, March 25.—(Special Telegram.)—Harold Dady, son of Michael Dady, contractor and Brooklyn political leader, is named as defendant in a suit for $100,000 for breach of promise of marriage, filed in the supreme court today by Miss Rose Deutsch, an actress.

Scenes of love letters, in which the young millionaire referred to Miss Deutsch as "Sweet Rose," "My Fairest Rose" and other endearing names, figure in the case. Miss Deutsch met Dady in Havana, Cuba, when she was playing in vaudeville there in the summer of 1908.

On December 15, 1908, Miss Deutsch returned from Cuba and she declared it was agreed she and Dady would marry the following year, when his work in Cuba would be completed.

AGLES' MEMORIAL SERVICE

Joint Annual Meeting in Honor of Departed Brothers.

EXERCISES ARE MOST IMPRESSIVE

H. B. Fleharty, C. W. Britt and Rabbi Frederiek Cohn the Principal Speakers—Elks Attend the Services.

Members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles of Omaha, South Omaha, Benson and Florence held their annual memorial services yesterday morning at the Grand Hotel theater, which was filled with members of the order and their friends.

After Prof. H. J. Bock's orchestra had played "Ase's Death" and Miss Lila M. Peterson had sung "There is a Land," Rabbi Frederiek Cohn of Temple Israel pronounced the invocation, in which he spoke of the good effect of fraternal organizations on society in general and of the good which the inculcation of the principles of the order did.

"Fraternalism consists chiefly of following the principle of doing good to people while they are living instead of waiting until they are dead and then strewing flowers on their graves," said C. W. Britt, who, as chairman of the memorial committee, had most to do in the arrangement of the exercises. He spoke of the theory of the organization whose prime aim was in promoting the brotherhood of man.

H. B. Fleharty compared the organization of the Eagles to a mighty ocean, his picture being that of a little rivulet which, he said, was the individual. It rises in the mountains, flows over rocks, is soon joined by other little rivulets and finally by other combinations of little streams until it forms a mighty ocean. He spoke of the principles of the order, which are "Liberty, Truth, Justice and Equality."

William Kennedy, president of the local order of the Eagles, presided at the meeting.

The other musical numbers consisted of "A Duty by the Mission," a vocal selection, "No Night There," by Mrs. Charles Martin, and a song, "Give Hither His Beloved Sleep," by J. Guthrie Gunn.

Committee in Charge. C. W. Britt was chairman of the memorial committee and other members were: Omaha Aerle No. 35—Harry Asher, C. M. Bachman, Dr. B. H. Chedock, Tony Costanzo, Ed Sweeney.

South Omaha Aerle No. 154—H. Rotholz, E. E. Jones, C. Christensen. Benson Aerle No. 132—Philip Saxman, Christ Mortensen, Robert Barr.

Pontanelle Aerle No. 152—M. Thompson, E. L. Platz, John Lubold.

VERIFIED BY TICKET AGENT

Man at Union Station Says He Sold Them Transportation—Autopsy on Victim—Robbery the Motive.

Two men, captured by bloodhounds, are held for investigation in connection with the murder of Herman B. Cohn, who was shot and killed near his home early Sunday morning.

John Lahey, farmer, and Henry Mignery, stationary engineer of Julian, Neb., according to their statements, are the men held. In statements made to the police these men declare that they took a southbound Missouri Pacific train out of the city at midnight, an hour before the killing. E. E. Smith, ticket agent at the Union station, corroborated this statement when he identified the men as those to whom he had sold two tickets to Fort Crook at 9:30 o'clock Saturday night.

The only tangible clue in connection with the case is the revolver which the slayer of Mr. Cohn dropped in his flight. Further work by the detectives will be in relation to the weapon of death.

The police are far from convinced that the men held have any connection with the case. Lahey and Mignery will be held two days for the investigation of their statements made to the police, which, if proven true, will establish an alibi.

The chase with the bloodhounds began at 3 o'clock in the morning, two hours after the murder, and continued for more than eight hours, ending at La Platte, Neb., twenty-two miles from the scene of the murder.

Bloodhounds on the Trail. The bloodhounds, placed on the trail two hours after the crime was committed, followed a perfectly logical course from the scene of the killing to a shack a quarter of a mile south of La Platte, Neb., where the two men now under arrest were found.

Arrested and brought to the Omaha police station, the men were examined by Lloyd Cohn, son of the murdered man. He declared the dogs had the general appearance of the men who shot and killed his father.

The men gave their names as John Lahey, farmer, and Henry Mignery, laborer, and both said they lived in Julian, Nemaha county, Nebraska.

They were cuddled closely together on a bench in the shack to which the dogs led the posse of police. Pocket knives were the only weapons found upon them when searched. The man who did the fatal shooting of Mr. Cohn threw his weapon away as he began his attempted escape.

Prisoners Are Reluctant. Lahey and Mignery would give no information about themselves except to say that they were not in Omaha last night at the time they were told the murder occurred, at 1 o'clock.

"We were in the 11:30 Missouri Pacific train out of Omaha Saturday night en route to Fort Crook," Lahey told a reporter for the Bee.

"Pop" and "Lad," the bloodhounds owned by Dr. J. S. Fulton of Beatrice, Neb., which won first prizes at the bench show, gave a remarkable exhibition in following the trail.

The dogs had been caged for expressage to Beatrice when the murder of Mr. Cohn was committed. Police Captain Dempsey immediately ordered them into service. The two hours following the crime were spent in locating the younger Fulton and Elmer Noffsinger, their trainer. Shortly before the dogs arrived at the scene it began to sprinkle and many persons awaiting their arrival to see them start on the trail went home, believing the water would wash out the scent left by the murderers.

Rain Does Not Interfere. When Elmer Noffsinger arrived, however, he expressed himself as pleased over the fact, as a little water, he said, would freshen the scent.

Elmer Noffsinger guarded the driveway leading past the house of Frank Hamilton where, Lloyd Cohn, son of the dead man, who was with his father when he was killed, said the men had jumped from hiding.

No person being allowed in the driveway to confuse the dogs in taking up the trail, the bloodhounds had an easy time in getting a start.

Taken into the driveway the dogs became unusually excited. They sniffed about the spot where the murderers had lain and followed the drive up to the Hamilton garage, where they walked anxiously about for more than a minute.

Then returning down the drive they began the trail diagonally across Thirty-second street toward the north, the direction in which Lloyd Cohn had fled the police the men had gone. The dogs passed directly by the spot where the revolver had been thrown and into a lawn across the street.

Young Cohn had told the police that the escaping men had gone between the houses, disappearing in the dark. The bloodhounds went part way back between the houses and turned out again to the sidewalk. With noses close to the walk they pulled and tugged upon Noffsinger and excitedly returned to the corner, starting east on the north side of Dodge street.

Hounds Move Rapidly. In the driving rain and growing clouds, near the bloodhounds almost disappeared from the state of the house following Sergeant Madson and Detectives Hill, Bur-
