SEWER PROTEST NOT IN VAIN

Assessments to Be Cut for Thirty-Sixth Street Taxpayers.

TO DRAW UPON GENERAL FUND

Communication from County Commissioners Offering Site for Emergency Hospital is Referred.

A petition of property owners in the vicinity of Thirty-sixth street from Grand to Ames avenue, asking for a relief of sewer taxes received favorable consideration yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the committee of the whole. The council referred the protest to the city engineer, with instructions to suggest means for cutting the assessment for special taxes.

Residents of the neighborhood petitioned the council last fall to install an eight-inch sanitary sewer along Thirty-sixth street from Grand avenue to Ames avenue. The council ordered the sewer, but the city engineer laid a combination sanitary and storm sewer.

Property owners were assessed $1 cent a foot on each side of the street. Edward L. Foster, representing the disgruntled owners, appeared before the council and contended that the owners should not be forced to pay for the storm sewer.

He argued that inasmuch as the storm sewer was laid and that the city had a fund for this purpose, a portion of the cost should be paid to property owners. He offered to stand as much as 50 cents a foot, thereby requesting the council to assess 37 cents against the general fund. The council took his view of the contention and ordered the city engineer to work out a scheme to relieve the property owners.

Appraisers Make Report.

The appraisers' report awarding damages in the sum of $2,000 to property owners along the right-of-way of the proposed North Central boulevard, was referred to the city engineer with instructions to prepare a plan of assessment.

The plans call for the opening of the boulevard from Thirty-eighth and Hamilton streets to Thirty-first and Sprague streets. Interested owners appeared at the meeting and intimated that if the appraisers' report was adopted they would appeal, as they considered the awards inadequate.

The appraisers' report on the opening of Fortieth street from Lake street to Blondo was also referred to the city engineer. The finding awards damages in the sum of $1,661.30, of which $1,075.78 is apportioned to the McShane heirs.

T. J. McShane, representing the heirs, protested the award, stating that it was not enough by two-thirds. By way of a compromise, McShane offered to dedicate thirty feet along Forty-first street from Lake to Blondo street, if the council will abandon the plan of opening Fortieth street.

Council Wants Details.

Councilmen did not view the proposition of abandoning the opening of the street with favor, stating that petitioners were insisting that the street be opened. McShane argued that the sixty-foot street along Forty-first street would serve the purpose desired and would give the heirs an opportunity to plat the McShane property to better advantage. He was told to submit a plat of the tract for the consideration of the council.

The communication from the Board of County Commissioners offering to furnish a site for an emergency hospital if for that site will erect the building was referred to the county board for further details. The council wants to know what sort of an agreement the county will be willing to make in the event that the building is erected.

The committee on public grounds and buildings, to which the letter was referred, reported favorably on the offer. The members were instructed to confer with the county commissioners and get a statement in writing as to the terms of operating the hospital.

If a satisfactory agreement can be entered into, the council will ask the city to vote bonds, amounting to about $10,000 to comply with their part of the deal.

Specifications for a contract for removing dead animals were approved. The new contract will require that all dead animals be removed within twelve hours after notification and provides a penalty of $5 for each twelve hours the carcasses are permitted to remain within the city limits. The specifications also stipulate that all dead animals must be removed to a point without a radius of three miles from the city limits.

Returns to Ireland

After Two Hours in Omaha; No Green Here

Oh, sweet is County Dublin in the spring-time of the year, whiter than the snow. When the hawthorn's white than the snow. When the feathered folk assemble and the air is all a-tremble. With their singin' and their wingin' to and fro; When queen Eileananonn puts her verdant vesture on. And smiles to hear the news the breezes bring.

While here am I in Omaha, an' me heart a cryin' loud. For the green of good old Ireland in the spring. Florence Hughes, fresh and blooming from Dublin, entered the offices of Baldwin, DeBort & Fradenburg, attorneys, to take up the duties of stenographer, Monday morning.

"I don't like this country—it's all brown. There is not a green thing in the fields. I will not live where there is nothing green," she protested to Howard Baldridge, her employer.

"Besides things go so fast in Omaha. It makes my head ache."

An hour later Miss Hughes was taking train on her way to Dublin, the land of the harp and shamrock. She had traveled 4,000 miles to spend two hours in Omaha.

A few weeks ago Mr. Baldridge received a letter from the firm of E. and G. Stapleton, solicitors, Dublin, stating that their head stenographer wanted to come to America to try fortunes anew. She was given the place left vacant in the Omaha office by the marriage of Miss Mary Gannatt.

The Irish girl lingered at her desk in the law office here just long enough to leave the above verse behind.

ATTACKS MORAL CONVENTIONS

Emma Goldman Decries Barden of Civilization's Restraints.

STRANGE CONTRASTS IN CROWD

All of Types and Classes of Omaha Represented Among Those Gathered to Hear the Woman Anarchist.

Civilization's double standard of morality, one side for the man, the other for the woman—was under verbal fire from the fortress of Emma Goldman's vocabulary, before a curiously composed audience at the Lyric theater last night.

"We have attained much in science," said Miss Goldman. "We have learned to breed beautiful fruits, beautiful flowers, beautiful animals—but in the science of being born well we are in nowise ahead of the cave man."

Those whom Miss Goldman addressed represented all of the widely variant types of which Omaha as a typical western center is made up. In the same tier of seats her eye swept over the faces of scientists, teachers, charity workers, institutional leaders, political and social radicals, and here and there a laborer. Side by side sat the stolid-looking foreign workman and the tittering but quizzical schoolgirl.

Miss Goldman spared not words or classes. Together, the speaker classed the avowed principles of Anthony Comstock, prudery, puritanism and morality as defined by modern convention. Her arguments against the laws of this conventional morality were based largely on physical phenomena.

The decided aggressiveness of her address was emphasized by her occasional lapses into German idiom and a slight accent. The lecture was followed by a discussion of questions raised by members of the audience.
