

SECOND STORM IN MISSOURI

to Towns Demolished and St. Louis Heavily Damaged.

VALES MINES AND CADET SUFFER

Relief Parties from Festus Blocked by High Water—St. Louis Elevator Filled with Wheat in River.

DESOTO, Mo., April 14.—With all indications south of here crippled, reports from districts swept by a tornado late yesterday afternoon are coming in slowly. It will be late today before a complete list of destruction can be compiled.

Lighted messages known to have been sent in Vales Mines, east and northeast of here, are dead at Vales Mines and to white women at Cadet. Two men, Jim Powers of Cape Girardeau and Joseph J. Boyers of Desoto, were killed while in an automobile in the southern part of Jefferson county. A third occupant of the machine, which was caught in the mud, is missing. The chauffeur, who escaped, telephoned the report here.

Meager reports tell of great havoc wrought through Jefferson county. Farm buildings were demolished and great damage done to crops.

Festus is Blown Down. ST. LOUIS, April 14.—Four negroes are known to be dead, a number injured, one riotously, and three missing, following a made which wrecked the town of Vales Mines, Mo., forty miles southeast of here at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baker, their daughter and son-in-law, were killed when the Vales Mines postoffice and general store crashed upon them. Postmaster Bunce, who is believed to have been the only person in the debris, was taken out half an hour after the storm. He is said to be lying at his home.

News of the storm, which damaged farm property, tore up trees, paralyzed wire communication and blocked railroads, was not received at Festus, Mo. A train crew saved over the Mississippi river and Bonne terre railroad from Vales Mines, carrying relief parties from Festus, managed to reach the stricken town, but found the roads locked by high water. No word has come out of Vales Mines since 8 o'clock. It is believed that a second storm visited the town, as the one which demolished Cadet, Mo., ten miles south of Vales Mines, was reported from Desoto as sweeping in that direction at 4 o'clock.

St. Louis Swept by Storm. A terrific wind, hail and thunder storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, swept over St. Louis late this afternoon, causing thousands of dollars of damage and indirectly three deaths.

The dead include a driver of a team of mules, who with his mules was electrocuted by running into a live wire; a woman who succumbed to fright, and another woman who was killed in a runaway, or horses taking fright during the storm. Houses were blown down in the outskirts of the city, and in the extreme north end an eight-story elevator containing 1,000,000 bushels of wheat valued at $750,000 was blown into the Missouri river.

Windows in the Bryan Hill and John Marshall schools and two churches were broken by the wind and hail.

The damage was particularly heavy in the west end, north side and in St. Louis county, where many greenhouses were demolished by the hailstones, which measured more than two inches in diameter. The city parks were denuded of plants, and flowers in the city's greenhouses were destroyed. As the storm came as thousands were on their way home from downtown, as windows were broken in the streets, the excitement approximated a panic.

Manly Stranded by Helitones. Persons in various parts of the city were reported stunned by blows from falling hailstones, though no serious injury to any one from this source was reported.

The storm hit an abrupt end to the American league game between the local and the Cleveland teams, when the steel plate was snapped by the wind and the players driven from the diamond by the storm.

Telephone service was interrupted and reports from the stricken districts were received slowly.

The known dead are: MRS. JOYCE, electrocuted; MRS. REGINA MAYER, 70 years old, who was run over by her carriage. She was killed when the horse took fright from the hail and was injured internally.

Almost every manufacturing plant on the north side was left without windows after the storm.

Fifty Injured at Flat River. FLAT RIVER, Mo., April 14.—Fifty persons were injured, several probably fatally, in a storm which this afternoon swept over of Elvira, Flat River and Estler, all lying towns in this section.

Riots in Champagne District at an End

Quiet Follows Announcement Chamber Had Refused to Pass the Delimitation Bill.

Quiet Follows Announcement Chamber Had Refused to Pass the Delimitation Bill.

SPERNAY, Department of Marne, France, April 14.—Calm prevailed during the night throughout the department of Marne, the scene of the wine growers' riot on the part of the discontented wine growers, and the authorities this morning are hopeful that the rioting is over.

The vote of the Chamber of Deputies in nullifying the action of the senate with reference to the delimitation of the champagne districts, and the expressed intention of Premier Modie to refer the whole question to the council of state for settlement served to a large extent, it is believed, in appeasing the excited populace.

The army corps sent to quell the outbreak and prevent the further destruction of property remains, however, for the time being in the disturbed area.

A force of gendarmes just before daylight this morning proceeded to Venteuil, one of the wine depots on which the manifestants especially directed their operations of destruction of the wine presses and bottles of champagne and arrested two of the ring leaders.

While the gendarmes were escorting the accused men to the police station, women rushed into the street and tried to tear incriminating documents from the arms of the public prosecutors.

Military aeroplanes played a prominent role in the maneuvers of the troops when the rioting was at its height.

Cause of Upsetting. The discontent of the wine growers in the French Champagne region was the result of the suffering of the people in the department of Marne, which the wine growers there attributed to the extensive manufacture of adulterated and counterfeited wine.

To protect the growers of real champagne the French government in 1907 instituted an investigation. As the result of the investigation the government secured the passage of a law which provided an official label for real champagne and requiring that no wine should bear this label unless it were wholly the production of a specific district—a region within the limits of the department of Marne.

From the start the law delimiting the champagne country was unpopular, there being numerous complaints that it was not rigidly enforced. Dissatisfaction led to meetings of protest, the wine growers asserting that wine was imported into Marne, where it was bottled and marked with the government label. Counter demonstrations were begun in the department of Aube, where the wine growers clamored to have their department included in the delimited champagne district.

Taking cognizance of the Aube growers the French senate, after a long discussion, adopted a resolution April 11 in favor of the suppression of all territorial delimitation. As soon as the news of the senate's action reached the Marne region, where it was regarded as a deadly blow to their interests and a concession to the rival and neighboring department of Aube, the exasperated Marne wine growers rose in arms and burned and sacked every Aube wine depot they could reach.

The president thanks Mr. Hill for his services at Berlin and says that he is glad to know that he will remain there until July 1, when the resignation goes into effect.

Ambassador Hill was ordered home from Berlin several weeks ago to discuss, according to an announcement by the State department at the time, the potash controversy between the United States and Germany, which for a long time has been the subject of diplomatic interchange, in which Mr. Hill has been intimately engaged.

State department officials declined today to discuss the resignation.

The retiring ambassador has been connected with the State department for more than twenty years, entering the service as assistant secretary of state October 23, 1888. He was appointed minister to Switzerland in 1906 and two years later transferred to the Netherlands. Since April 2, 1908, he has been ambassador to Germany.

While Ambassador Hill's resignation was a great surprise to official Washington and the diplomatic corps here, it was argued that the fact that he was to remain at his post until July 1 indicated that there was nothing urgent in the ambassador's action.

The belief is general that Ambassador Hill's retirement is in accordance with the custom of past administrations of appointing new ambassadors in all of the important posts. Changes have been made heretofore by President Taft at all such places except Great Britain and Germany.

In the case of Great Britain, President Taft offered the mission to Dr. Charles W. Eliot of Harvard university, who declined.

SERVICES FOR GOOD FRIDAY

Chanting of Tenebrae Marks Dawn of Holy Holiday.

LIGHTS AND MUSIC ARE ABSENT Solemn and Impressive Commemoration of the Crucifixion Engages the Earnest Attention of All the Faithful.

The solemn and deeply impressive services that mark Good Friday began Thursday night in Catholic churches with the recital of the Tenebrae. With the morning service of Thursday all sound of music ceased until after noon hour of Saturday, when the Ascension of Christ is heralded by the sound of organ and bells.

Yesterday stood out in the Catholic church as the one day in the year when the Eucharist is not exposed in the church. On good Friday the light before the tabernacle is extinguished and the cross is exposed for veneration of the faithful; no mass is said in the churches.

The services at St. John's, Twenty-fifth and California streets, took place at 7:30 this morning, when were celebrated what is called the mysteries of the pre-sanctified. All day the crucifix was exposed for the veneration of the faithful and at night there will be recital of the solemn stations of the cross, with sermon on the passion. At night also was chanted the office of Tenebrae, in which alternate choirs of priests chant the lamentations of the prophets and the psalms that have reference to the death of Christ.

Storm in Howard and Greeley Counties

No Barns and Store Building Are Wrecked and Number of Windmills Are Blown Down.

ST. PAUL, Neb., April 14.—(Special.)—A storm of 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon was a terrific windstorm, which, in places assumed the character of a tornado, swept over Howard and Greeley counties. Considerable property damage is reported this morning. On both sides of the boundary between the two counties a large number of windmills were blown down and 700 or less injury done to farm outbuildings. The large new barn of Mr. Lindsay at Cotesfield was pretty badly wrecked and the concrete store building of Christ in Cotesfield was partially unroofed if the front demolished. L. H. Bosen's rye barn six miles west of Weibach was completely unroofed. A great many lesser ones are reported from other parts of the storm swept territory and the aggregate damage will roll well up into the thousands. A striking phenomenon which accompanied the storm was a cloud of dust dense that it necessitated lights in the case. Only a light precipitation of rain fell here.

HELLA TORNADO WAS FREAKISH

ally Well-To-Do Property Owners Losers From the Wind.

STELLA, Neb., April 14.—(Special.)—The rade which struck five miles from Stella yesterday acted as freakishly as any storm. Its kind and while the damage done is limited at about $2,500, in the main only wealthy farmers were the sufferers and the loss will not seriously affect them. The twister struck about half way between Stella and Dawson and traveled about seven miles westerly before ending its force. At the start after tearing down a fence or two and demolishing a few outbuildings, the wind lifted the top of a buggy belonging to Arthur Anderson which he had put in Barney Sheffield's barn and carried it away without marring the buggy.

Colonel McCarthy Loves All Kinds of Good Music

Lieutenant Colonel Daniel E. McCarthy, deputy quartermaster general and chief quartermaster of the Department of the Missouri, who celebrated his 63rd birthday yesterday, on the Mexican border, is a great lover of music. Not only the music of bullets, if such could be called music, but that which flows harmoniously from instruments, or the human throat. At every grand opera or music festival in Omaha, Colonel McCarthy is found with his wife, among the guests. Mrs. McCarthy is an accomplished pianist, and many were the musicals given by the colonel and his wife while he was at home. Whether on duty at headquarters or on the battlefield, the colonel is an authority on military tactics. He graduated from West Point at the age of 22, and came to Omaha in 1897 as chief quartermaster of the Department of the Missouri. He was on the quartermaster's staff in the Philippines and is now chief quartermaster of the Maneuver division at San Antonio, Tex.
