MUST HAVE EXTINGUISHERS

City Fire Warden Issues Ultimatum to Big Building Owners.

TOO MANY BUILDINGS NEGLECTED

Gasoline Must Also Be Kept in Closed, Underground Tanks by All Dealers and Cleaners—Test Case Won.

proof or not, shall be so equipped," said Mr. Morris.

"Frequently fires break out on the upper floors of buildings which could be extinguished by the chemical apparatus. But without them, employees have to resort to carrying water or else call the fire department. By the time either of these methods is utilized the fire has gotten under such headway that it is difficult to extinguish. If either chemical apparatus or stand pipes were at hand the fire could be handled with little trouble.

"We have called the attention of many owners to this omission and in all cases they have agreed to install either chemical extinguishers or standpipes. Others no doubt will comply with the request."

the validity of the ordinance. Now we will force all users to comply with the ordinance. This applies to all who handle gasoline, whether he be a storekeeper or not. Cleaning companies must also do all their cleaning in closed machines, supplying the gasoline through pipes."
