AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Councilmen Stay Away from Meeting and There is No Quorum.

Bids for Grading Were Expected, Which Must Go Over Until Monday-Man Accused of Illegal Sale of Liquor.

"I guess this is a put-up job," remarked ouncilman Miller at the adjourned meeting of the city council last might, when it was discovered at 8:20 only Councilmen Miller, Mat Peterson, Tom Peterson and Riba were present, not a sufficient number o form a quorum. The absentees were uncilmen Franck, Walters and Hoffman. "It is a poor place," replied Mayor Trainor, "for put-up jobs, with so much mportant business to transact." When Councilman Tom Peterson moved an adjournment to next Monday night at 8 o'clock, Councilman Miller thought that they should wait a little while longer "But it is now 8:20," answered the mayor. "and they all know the amount of business to be transacted, which has been accumulating through no meeting being held Monday night. Everyone knew of the meeting

Upon receiving this reply Councilman Miller seconded the resolution and the ouncil adjourned to next Monday.

Important Matters Pending. Among the important business referred to by the mayor was the reception of bids for several grading districts. Then the committee was to report on the material which selections were received at the meeting April 9. It is well known that a strong contest is being waged whether it shall be sarce or brick. Another report to be received was that of A. A. Wright, P. C. Caldwell and E. R. 95c to $3.45

You have learned how carefully our fabrics are selected. You have seen the best possible evidence of the skill with which our styles are designed and you have proven by their superb appearance and their perfect fit how well our garments are tailored. But amongst all these have you ever realized the immense importance of that one feature-The Tailoring?

Without expert Hand-Tailoring, the best skill of the designer and the greatest care of the cutter would be useless, for Style depends as much on tailoring as on designing. That's the reason we supervise the tailoring of our garments. That's the reason none but men-tailors, who have become expert through years of experience are employed by the great tailoring concerns, which make our garments. Aren't those, reasons that appeal to you? At $15.00, at $25.00, or any price between, there's a score of Hand-Tailored models just suited to your needs.

A CLASS BY HIMSELF

Mexican Soldier is the Most Peculiar Fighting Man in the World.

The Mexican soldier is the most peculiar fighting man in the world. When I say Mexican soldier. I do not mean the Mexican army man alone, but the Mexican insurrecto as well. They are of a distinctly different type. Since the insurrection broke out, on October 22, last, I have several times seen both the regular and the insurrecto in battle, under fire and firing at the enemy; and, while I candidly admit that my respect for the Mexican as a fighter was at low ebb before I saw him on the battlefield, it is now the highest. He may be afraid of the bullets; but, if he shows it the poor.—Cleveland Plain Desier. in one instance, he performs some feat the next that detracts from any streak of "yellow" he might be accused of. I have seen the federals under a hall of fire from the insurrectos, with wounded and dving com rades near to make them wary of the fate that might await them also, when actually they stood in plain view of the enemy to drink a cup of coffee. Then I have seen the insurrectos, on the open country, scamper like sheep in a storm when they feared an attack from the federals, and I have seen the federals run like deer to get out of the way of insurrecto bullets, after having previously charged directly in the face of the enemy's rifle pits without a waver liam Burgess, a Duluth (Minn.) electrical until their commander had given the order to retire. It may be discipline with the federals that makes them stand in face of the enemy and intuition with the insurrectos that makes them run when they are not in the mountains.
