

IN WOMAN'S WORLD

Society to Assist

AK-SAR-BEN day at Bourke park means that all royalty will attend the game which this afternoon opens the base ball season of 1911.

Everett Buckingham, king of Ak-Sar-Ben, and Frances Nash, queen of Quivers, accompanied by their attendants, the board of governors and the princesses of the court, will occupy the center boxes, which have been specially decorated with Ak-Sar-Ben colors, red, green and yellow. The entire party will motor from the Commercial club to Bourke park. Their automobiles will also be brilliantly decorated with the royal colors. This party will include eighty-four guests.

All of the former kings and queens of Ak-Sar-Ben, who are in the city, will be special guests.

Many other box parties are planned by society people who are devotees of the game.

Rod and Gun Club

Rod and Gun club plans are to make this season one of more than usual pleasure for their members. Through the formal opening of the club is to be held for the decoration day the committee is already arranging for the season's entertainments.

The opening day festivities will include yacht and canoe races and a band concert in the afternoon, a table d'hôte dinner and dance in the evening.

Improvements are now being made on the club grounds. New cinder walks have been made and a number of people are already moving to their cottages for the summer. Those who have moved to the club this month are Mr. and Mrs. VanCott, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Christy and Mr. and Mrs. George Pettigrew.

Moving pictures, an open air play, a daylight water pagoda and the annual evening carnival are among the features planned for this season.

Mr. Albert Edholm has offered a handsome sterling silver trophy cup for the yacht racing at the club to be held by the boat winning the highest percentage each season, or permanently by the boat winning three seasons in succession.

Mother Goose Tableaux

Little Miss Muffett, Little Boy Blue, Red Riding Hood and a good number of the other people of Mother Goose fame entertained a large audience of grown-up people at Jacobs Memorial hall Thursday evening. The entertainment was the opening of the new hall and was given by the junior auxiliary and the Sunday school classes of Trinity cathedral. The nursery favorites appeared in the costume tableaux which were part of the interesting program. A song by Miss Rowley, a dance by Miss West, a sleight-of-hand performance by Frank Martin and old-fashioned songs by the choir boys were the other numbers.

Entertainments planned include the boys' entertainment to be given May 3 and the minstrel show which the juniors give May 12. The money from these entertainments is to be used to equip the new hall.

Those who took part in the program last evening were:

Spring Chickens Are in Season; Garden Stuff is Very Plentiful

Sunday Dinner Menu.

Crown of Lamb,
Potato Pie, Green Peas,
Baked Asparagus,
Maple Mousse,
Toasted Crackers, Roquefort,
Cafe Noir.

Baked Asparagus—Take four bunches of asparagus, boil until tender, then cut off the soft tips and add to them about a pint of sweet milk. Mix three eggs and a teaspoon of flour, salt and pepper, and parsley; place in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle grated cheese on the top and bake fifteen minutes.

Garden stuff of all varieties is more plentiful this week. Prices are lower. Strawberries, which are an exception to the first statement and are not plentiful, are nevertheless cheaper and sell now for 10 cents a box—10 cents a bunch; in some places three boxes for 25 cents, a price which is strongly indicative of the fact that the summer is near.

New potatoes are also out of the luxury classification and sell three pounds for 25 cents. New turnips are 5 cents a bunch. Radishes and onions are two bunches for 5 cents. Head lettuce is scarce and 20 and 25 cents a head. Tomatoes are 10 cents a pound or 25 cents a basket. Wax and green beans and green peas are 15 cents a quart. Asparagus is now 10 cents a bunch; cucumbers, 10 and 15 cents each; egg plant, 10 and 15 cents each. Cauliflower is 19 cents quality and sells for 20 cents a pound.

Vegetables as Beautifiers

BEAUTY is an attribute of health. Naturally winter is season when energy is consumed, especially in the city world, is a season when the natural oils are burned up by feverish race after pleasure. And the complexion of most people shows the depletion. Complexions which stood fairly well the scrutiny of the modified light of winter are blotched and unattractive in the bright spring light. The remedy for the depletion is to add to the system the elements which have been exhausted in the winter rush. Spring vegetables are nature's contribution to the world and are the sanest, safest and most efficient complexion builders.

Carrots, rhubarb, lettuce, tomatoes, celery, spinach, cucumbers, onions, asparagus and watercress among vegetables, and strawberries, apples, grapes, melons and pineapples among fruits, have a beautifying effect upon the complexion.

Carrots eaten in generous quantities impart an exquisite peachy tint to the complexion and promote the growth and glossiness of the hair. They may be prepared in a variety of ways, but the best mode from the therapeutic standpoint is to grate them raw, in which form they may be added to salads and sauces, stirred into soup, or mixed with chopped parsley and sprinkled over an omelet before it is folded.

Watercress is good for the complexion and acts as a tonic for the blood. All greens in a measure have this effect, but cress is the best. Spinach is one of the most wholesome greens a woman may eat and acts as a broom to the stomach. Tomatoes and lettuce are good liver regulators. Rhubarb is just the acid the system is craving at this season of the year.

Onions are one of the best known blood purifiers, and a slice or two of Bermuda onion salted and placed between two thin buttered pieces of brown bread make the best possible lunch for those who are accustomed to eat a few mouthfuls before retiring.

Celery is well known for its quieting effect upon the nervous system. Tea made by steeping celery knobs and taken in doses of a wineglassful three times a day is said to relieve inflammatory rheumatism.

Olive oil is the secret of a good complexion and a good complexion. The marvellously clear, warm tinted complexion of the Italian peasant women are attributed in part to their lavish use of olive oil as a cooking medium and dressing for food. It may be taken clear or in the form of a salad dressing.

To prepare a beauty salad, begin with an apple peeled and minced into a bowl. On top of this put the pulp of an orange chopped to bits; over this spread the halves of white grapes. Then dress it with fine olive oil. Three tablespoonfuls of the oil may be poured over the salad, and if it seems dry another may be added. Set the salad away to ripen for a few minutes. It is eaten with a teaspoon, not a fork. With a slice or two of whole wheat bread and fresh butter this may well compose the beauty seeker's luncheon not less than three or four days in the week.

Fruit juices of every description, diluted one-third with distilled water and sweetened no more than is necessary to make them palatable, may be taken freely and are wonderful beautifiers. Try drinking a glassful of orange juice or grape juice and distilled water in equal parts the first thing on arising in the morning and one of pineapple lemonade an hour before luncheon every day for three or four weeks, abstaining at the same time from tea and coffee, and see how your eyes will brighten and your cheeks begin to bloom.

Water taken systematically for several weeks will make a great improvement in the complexion, making the skin soft and clear. A glass of hot water with a dash of salt in it, sipped slowly half an hour or longer before meals, is a partial corrective at least of many internal disorders, including indigestion, bowel torpidity and inactive liver. Drink a little water with meals if it does not disagree with you. Cooled water, not cold, should be taken freely between meals an hour or so after eating. Two quarts daily should be drunk, but when the stomach is weak only one quart is frequently all that it will absorb.

John Loomis, David Bowman, Clarence Patton, Chester Nieman, James Durke, Hugh Millard, Ralph Doud.

The members of the J. F. W. club will be entertained at a heart party this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rice, 434 Douglas street. The decorations will be ferns and red carnations. The guests of the club will be the husbands of the members. Those present will be:

Recital by Miss Meyer.

The Temple Israel was well filled last night with an audience which came to recognize and to encourage the ambition and endeavor of an Omaha girl, Miss Minna Meyer. The audience was arrayed sumptuously for the occasion and was disposed of us to seats by an excellent committee of ushers at the head of which were Mr. Stanley Hartman and Mr. Schwartz. Mrs. Stanley Hartman, Mrs. Philip Schwartz, Mrs. M. Unverzagt and Miss Fanny Rosenstock were the committee of arrangements.

Miss Meyer's offering to the assembly was in the nature of a song recital with the professional assistance of Mr. Siegmund Landsberg at the pianoforte and Mr. Leon Weltman with his violinello.

Miss Meyer pleased her audience immensely and was the recipient of many flowers. Her voice, which is of a dramatic soprano quality, showed that she had made a lot of work and that she had done considerable headway. The program was a most exacting one, indeed it would have been exacting for a complete mistress of the art of singing. Strauss, the modern bard of music, was represented by three songs: Brahms by two, and an aria from Richard Wagner's "Tannhauser" also found place. The French songs of Reynaldo Hahn and Massenet were given with much delicacy, contrasting with the heavier numbers. Miss Meyer has done some excellent work, which is of a resonance and tone-color, and has attained a richness of tone which she did not formerly possess. Of course, she has much to do yet, but she knows that herself. She is going abroad to study for a possible operatic career and rumor has it that she has interested in the great singers in her work. She will be followed by the good wishes of all her friends and if application, hard work and sincerity of purpose can win, Miss Minna Meyer will win.

Traveltiques at the Krug.

The Hippodrome traveltiques are finishing the week at the Krug theater. Motion picture trips to Brazil, England, France, Germany and other countries are being shown, accompanied by realistic effects operated behind the screen by six property men. The traveltiques are interpolated by comic pictures. One of the most interesting and instructive numbers of the bill is a trip down the Thames from Oxford to Richmond. Hippobuilders of Toulon, waterfalls of Krimel, the Hiss, a Swedish training ship and sketches of New York City are among other interesting features.

Some Notes of the Stage.

Marie Cahill will begin her short engagement at the Brandeis this evening, appearing in "Judy Forgot," a comedy by Avery Hopwood, with music by Silvio Hein. The stars until after Saturday night and includes a matinee on Saturday.

The management of the Gayety contributes to the general festivities attending the opening of the base ball season by asking the Omaha and Des Moines teams to attend the performance tonight as its guests. A special base ball program will be arranged, and no home runs will be permitted until the last curtain is down.

Dancing Matinee at the Brandeis.

Everybody present at the dancing matinee, given at the Brandeis theater Thursday afternoon by the pupils of Miss Mary B. Cooper and Miss Portia M. Sweet, had a lovely time. This means the performers, as well as the numerous friends and relatives who formed the audience. Indeed, it was this evident pleasure of the dancers, in the dance, and the entire absence of self-consciousness or consciousness of the audience which made the program one of exceptional charm.

Take a vacation of rest. Mrs. Adams serves the association without salary, and the vacation is an expression of the directors' appreciation. At the April meeting $300 was appropriated for this year's rest.

The report for the month showed 400 visits had been made among eighty-two patients. Six cases were sent to the hospitals. There were eight deaths, four from tuberculosis. As there were 109 cases for the same month last year, the report indicates that health conditions are improved this year.

An interdenominational missionary rally is to be held at St. Mary's Avenue Congregational church Friday afternoon. Dr. Emma Booth Tucker of China will give an address at the meeting which is also to include talks by representatives of the various Omaha church societies.

The philosophy and ethics department of the Woman's club at its last meeting elected Mrs. Mary B. Newton leader, Mrs. E. E. Stanfield first assistant and representative, Mrs. Charles Vincent second assistant and Miss Mary Krebs secretary.

It was announced at the closing simultaneous sessions of the Woman's National Foreign Missionary jubilee in New York that the hoped-for million-dollar fund had not been raised. The pledges given in this city during the four days' convention amounted in all to $130,500.90, and those obtained at jubilee celebrations in other places, $73,950, making a total of $204,450.90.

HE HAS THE QUEEREST JOB

Sidewalk Advertiser Has Stood on the Same Spot for Twenty-Five Years.

John Lee has stood every business day for twenty-five years on the same spot in Fulton street, half way down the block between Nassau and William streets in New York City. No matter whether the weather be fair or foul, he never has missed a day in all that time. He is the first and oldest of the sidewalk advertisers in point of service, if not in years. Lee's duties consist of holding a gaudy umbrella over his head in stormy weather and carrying a cane almost as thick as a baseball bat and with a staghorn handle a foot long when the weather is fine. He rarely speaks unless some one addresses him, but he has as wide an acquaintance as the head waiter of the Astor house.

Something New Under the Sun.

"If any one tells you there is nothing new under the sun," remarked a well-dressed woman to her friend in a second avenue car, "don't you believe it. I have just come from a sewing class in a public school, and what do you think the teacher asked me as she explained things?"

"What?"

"She said: 'Do you thread your needle or needle your thread?'"

"That's a funny question. What is the difference?" demanded the friend.

"Just try it," promptly responded the other, "a threading the needle is all wrong. Just take the needle in the right hand and needle your thread and see how much easier it is. I only wish I had known it twenty years ago."—New York Sun.

Apple Pie Without Apples.

A guest at an old-fashioned home dinner was eulogizing apple pie and her hostess when another guest, who had been a California pioneer, recalled the "apple" pie given the children of 1822 to appease their homesick cravings when apples were a dollar a pound. It was made by breaking four soda crackers into an earthen bowl and pouring over them a pint of cold water rendered very tart by citric acid. When soft the crackers were laid on a pie plate on the under crust. Over them were sifted two tablespoonfuls of light brown sugar and a little allspice and cinnamon. A pretty perforated top crust was added and in a few minutes a perfect apple pie was taken from the oven to delight young and old.—New York Sun.
