JUNE WEDDINGS FALL OFF

September and December Most Popular Months in England.

JUNE HOLDS ITS OWN IN BIRTHS

Queen Mary Gains Reputation for a Persistent Clinging to Friends of Her Humble Days as a Princess.

BY LADY MANWARING.
LONDON, April 22.—(Special to The Bee.)—Statistics indicate that romance is about to yield the palm to custom in the acceptance of a popular month for marriages in England. The June bride is in the minority when compared to the September bride. While September heads the list, December follows, a close second, relegating June to third place on the calendar. Why one month should be more popular than another for marrying is not accounted for by the statisticians in the report on England and Wales, issued by the registrar general.

In the September quarter there were in London 11,894 marriages. December came next with 10,629. June followed with 8,227. The same condition of things obtained throughout the country, the figures being as follows: September, 76,502; December, 75,530; June, 61,903, and March, 56,331.
Both in town and country June was the most prolific quarter in the matter of births. In London there was 39,356 in June, against 25,130 in March, 28,838 in September, and 29,935 in December. In the country generally the disparity between the June quarter and other quarters was even more striking, the figures being 234,489, against 211,707 in March, 227,196 in September, and 212,548 in December.
During the year 267,416 marriages, 507,100 births, and 483,321 deaths were registered in England and Wales. Of the births, 457,532 were males, and 429,568 females, and of the deaths 249,122 males and 284,198 females. In London the marriages numbered 23,082 and the births 118,322, and the deaths 62,720.

The population of England and Wales by the report of the registrar general was 36,139,150, and that of London 4,572,732. These figures apply to the middle of the year.
Mansion Ready for Decies.
When Lady and Lord Decies return to London from their honeymoon in Egypt they will find a famous old country mansion ready for their occupancy.
For some weeks past a small army of workmen have been busy day and night preparing the famous old mansion for the return of its owner, who recently captured the handsome and extremely wealthy bride on the other side of the Atlantic. The house has not been done up for many years, but it is now undergoing the most thorough repair and some remarkable innovations are being introduced. Surprise is expressed locally at the hurried nature of the preparations and there is considerable speculation as to the reason why the work was not begun sooner in view of the fact that the engagement was announced long before any attempt was made to put the place in proper order.

Queen Keeps Old Friends.
The personal friends of Queen Mary of England in the possession of a number of persons living in comparatively modest stations of life. These were friendships she formed when a girl living with her parents in White Lodge, Richmond Park, and indeed a number of people living in the neighborhoods of Royal Richmond, Kingston, and Teddington, own intimate friendships with her majesty.
"Mary is a continual ray of sunshine," the late Queen Victoria used to remark when speaking of the present queen, and this statement is borne out by her majesty's principal friends. Queen Mary is slow to make friends, but when friendships are formed they are lasting. Queen Mary's chief interest centers in her home and her children. Like Queen Alexandra, she is fond of music, and is a very fair musician. She also possesses a tuneful but not powerful mezzo soprano voice. Her majesty is possessed of considerable skill in art, and has distinct literary tastes. She very seldom misses an exhibition of any importance. On these occasions she is generally accompanied by Lady Catharine Coke, who, since the death of the queen's mother, to whom she was a lady in waiting, has been one of her majesty's women of the bed chamber. Lady Catharine Coke is a very keen art critic.

Queen Mary has very few intimate friends among society ladies, but among those honored with her friendship may be mentioned the duchess of Devonshire, who was recently installed as her majesty's mistress of the robes, and Lady Mount Stephen, to whom their majesties. It will be remembered, paid a visit at Brockton Hall, near Hatfield, some few weeks ago.
Lady Eva Dugdale is perhaps the oldest and most intimate friend that her majesty possesses. Lady Eva has been the queen's lady in waiting, or woman of the bed chamber, as she is now officially known, ever since her marriage, nearly eighteen years ago. She is a very clever needle woman and is also said to be an expert upon furniture and old china, two topics in which the queen takes a very great interest. Both the queen and Lady Eva Dugdale are great readers and often discuss and criticize books together.

The Countess of Shaftesbury, who, accompanied their majesties on their last visit to India and will again this November as the queen's lady of the bed chamber, is another intimate friend of her majesty. Before her marriage with the earl of Shaftesbury she was Lady Constance Grosvenor and is sister of the duke of Westminster.
Fund for Scholarships.
Miss Mary Anne Beart of Ebury, Surrey, who left an estate valued at £25,000, bequeathed $15,000 for scholarships for women. Of the amount for the scholarships $7,500 was for the foundation of scholarships and otherwise for the benefit of women students at Newham college, Cambridge, and $4,500 for a similar purpose at Somerville college, Oxford. Candidates must be needy women of not less than eighteen years of age and unmarried. Every scholarship ends if the owner marries or engages in teaching during her holidays.

Music Composers Busy.
Music for the coronation is now engaging the attention of some of the greatest musicians and band leaders of England. New marches by native composers will be displayed during the procession and the coronation. His majesty's private band will form the nucleus of the orchestra, under the direction of Sir Walter Parratt as master of the king's music, and Dr. Alcock will be at the organ. Sir Frederick Bridge will be the director-in-chief and will share with his colleague of St. George's the task of conducting the rehearsals. Sir Frederick Bridge has already completed his homage anthem and has woven into the battle cry of the Lutheran reformation "Safe Stronghold." It is looked upon as an open secret that a knightship is destined for Dr. Alcock on this occasion, and there will be other honors for the musical knights.
