company. "The Lost Trail" is being presented this wook in a very satisfactory manner.

The Dugene Trio, who are known to their Omaha friends as the Finney brothers, and who used to play on the lots here before they went into real stage work, opened their engagement at the American last night and were given a welcome that made them forget they had been held up in Wisconsin for two days when they should have een here playing among old friends. The Nonnarell club was out in force, and others assisted. The boys do a very neat and skillful act on the bars, and execute several dangerous feats with ease and grace. And now a story comes from New York that Nat Geodwin and Mazine Elliott are to be paired for the coming season in a revival of some of their former successes.

On Saturday for matines and night at the Brandels theater, Miss Grace Van Studdiford will be seen in a new comic opera entitied "The Paradise of Mahomet." The attraction is being brought here direct from the Herald Square theater, New York City, under the direction of David V. Arthur.

Ben Welsh, the eminent monologist, who is appearing this week at one of the local theaters, will next season head his own big extravaganza company which is booked for a week at the Gayety early next season. Mr. Weish is engaging his own chorus and as his engagements this season have placed him on bills which the $50,000 park issue of 1910, was referred have carried some stumning "girl acts,"

Miss Fannie Ward, who is playing her first Omaha engagement this week at the Orpheum, is an inveterate roller skater.

I would rather shate on roller skates than go out on a tally-ho," she says. Miss morson, who is Miss Ward's traveling mpanion as well as having a part in the sketch, is comothing of a roller shater herself, so she modeatly admits. But what attracts the visitor's eye when interviewing Fannie Ward is the collection of dia nonds, and they are not "property" dismonds, but really and truly diamonds.

E. M. F. DEALERS MEET FACTORY REPRESENTATIVES

Grouped in front of the salesrooms of the E. M. F. company at 2025-28 Far nam street are shown eighty of the local agents of the concern who met the factory representatives in Omaha on last Monday. The affair was most successful, the dealers throughout the Omaha territory coming in contact with each other and having the opportunity to become acquainted with the latest output of the E. M. F. factories.

At Monday noon the 125 dealers present were given a dinner at the Paxton hotel. Following this, Paul Smith, assistant sales manager of the E. M. F company, addressed the assembled dealers at length. Mr. Smith also explained the various processes of manufacture used at the factory, as was graphically illustrated with 10,000 feet of moving picture film. The feature of the meeting was the introduction of the "Flanders 29", which is being put out this year.

R. W. Craig, manager of the Omaha branch, is shown in the above picture seated at the driver's left in the "Flanders 20" in the center of the group.
