

BLOCK WATCHMAN PLAN FAILS

Chief Donahue Says Commercial Club
Has Abandoned the Scheme.

HOPES FOR MORE PATROLMEN

If Council Will Assume Maintenance of City Jail Donahue Says He Can Add Twelve Men in a Jiffy.

Members of the Commercial club have abandoned their scheme to have block watchmen delegated with special police powers, according to Chief of Police Donahue. Recently a committee from the club was in conference with the chief, Mayor Dahlman and William Wapport and William Hunter, members of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

The Commercial club suggested that block watchmen in the city be delegated as special policemen and put under the direction of the chief. The committee was given encouragement by the chief, who said he was told that if the club would furnish the watchmen or provide for their pay the chief would direct their activities. The club members departed with the understanding that if sufficient funds could be raised to put the scheme into operation the chief would be requested to direct the club's efforts.

The club members have not met with the assistance they desired and for that reason have dropped the plan.

"While the scheme might add to the police force in a way, I do not believe the results would warrant the expense," said Chief Donahue. "Block watchmen are not effective as a rule. The absence of the uniform is enough in itself to handicap the project. Plain clothes patrolmen cannot exert one-tenth the influence of a uniformed man."

"We can solve the police situation here for the time being if the city council will assume the expense at the city jail, as has been requested by the fire and police board."

"The funds asked would give us twelve additional patrolmen. The plan of the department is to detail these men throughout the residence district. If the city council decides to bear the cost of the city jail we will put on twelve more men in a jiffy."

Chief Donahue made a flying visit to Lincoln Wednesday. He held a conference with Governor Aldrich, during which the police department was discussed at length. Governor Aldrich, who is visiting Omaha, declared he needed 150 patrolmen in Omaha, said the chief. "He told me that a recent inspection of Omaha had proven to him that the present force is totally inadequate. He said he had no idea the amount of territory Omaha covered until he went over the city recently."

"The governor could offer no suggestions for increasing the force at this time, because he could not see where the money would come from."

Homeopaths Express
Grouch by ResolutionConvention Condemns Appropriation for State Medical School Re-cause it is Allopathic.

The appropriation of $100,000 for the establishment of the medical department of the state university at Omaha, which carried through the legislature during the recent session, was condemned in resolutions adopted by the state association of homeopathic physicians at the conclusion of their convention Thursday morning.

The Nebraska State Homeopathic Medical society held a business meeting at the close of the morning's scientific discussions and the Omaha appropriation was attacked because the bill does not specify that any instruction shall be given in homeopathic theories of materia medica. The other doctors of medicine are taking it for granted that it is to be allopathic or "regular." The same objections of unfairness were brought forward against the school when the bill was being discussed in the house and senate.

The resolutions introduced by Dr. F. A. Marsh of Seward, Dr. Stella E. Jacob, Omaha, and Dr. Laura M. Ross, Lincoln, were passed and a committee composed of Dr. Marsh and Dr. D. A. Foote of Omaha was authorized to begin the organization of a movement which will eventually lead to the establishing in the state school a chair of materia medica and medicine, according to the homeopathic or Hahnemann theories. The resolutions were as follows:

Whereas, That after nearly 100 years of existence of the homeopathic school of medicine, with its thousands of practitioners and millions of patrons all over our broad land, thus showing the scientific method and the virtue and truth of the Hahnemannian theory of the application of drugs in the treatment of the sick, and

Whereas, There exists today as always the same obstructions to our advancement and progress in the medical profession, society and legislative acts.

Therefore, Be it resolved, that we hereby reiterate our firm belief in and adherence to the teachings of the immortal Hahnemann, as being superior to any known system of medicine.

Be it further resolved, That we condemn as unfair and unjust the recent act of our legislature in appropriating money from the public treasury for the promotion of single and separate schools for medicine without provision therein for the teaching of any other system.

"STELLA E. JACOBI, Omaha;
"LAURA M. ROSS, Lincoln."

The annual election of the Nebraska State Homeopathic Medical society Wednesday evening resulted in the election as President of Laura J. Brown, M. D., of Lincoln. The other officers chosen were vice presidents Dr. W. K. Foote, Omaha; Dr. R. C. Bowie, Table Rock; corresponding secretary, J. S. Alexander, Omaha; recording secretary, Stella Jacob, Omaha; treasurer, O. S. Wood, Omaha, and as members of the board of directors, Dr. W. A. Calk, Nelora; Dr. D. A. Foote, Omaha; and Dr. L. C. Voss, Columbus.

The homeopathic doctors held a banquet at the Paxton Wednesday evening and were entertained by the following program: "Hahnemann," Delmer Davis, Omaha. "Our Model City," E. Arthur Carr, Lincoln. "Impressions," Mrs. W. A. Challis, Omaha. Vocal solo, Mrs. Mabel L. Larkins, Omaha. "Sensory Stories," F. A. Wells, Omaha. "The American Institute," Dr. Benihack, Platt Center. Reading, Mrs. E. A. Carr, Lincoln. "Homeopathy," F. A. Marsh, Seward. Whistling solo, Mrs. D. Wells, Omaha. "Ataifa in Medicine," R. C. Bowie, Table Rock.

"Our State Society," Laura J. Brown, Lincoln. "Woman in Medicine," Abby V. Holmes, Omaha.

FIVE TRUE BILLS RETURNED

Federal Grand Jury Completes Its Special Session Thursday.

FOUR TO ENTER PLEAS OF GUILTY

One Charged with Raising and Passing Greenbacks Says He Was an Unwilling Partner to the Transaction.

Five indictments were returned by the federal grand jury which reported at noon Thursday after being in session since Wednesday morning. Only five cases were heard by the jury and the evidence in each was sufficient to warrant the return of indictments.

Frank Morrison, for whom the grand jury was called, was indicted for mailing non-mailable matter. Mrs. Carrie Smith is alleged to have written letters through the United States mail. He is alleged to have written letter to several young girls throughout the state of Nebraska, which were of such a character that they were not written on the indictments. It is said that Morrison will plead guilty when he is brought before the court on the charge for which he was indicted.

Two women were also indicted, both for the same offense, that of mailing non-mailable matter. Mrs. Carrie Smith is alleged to have written letters through the United States mail. He is alleged to have written letter to several young girls throughout the state of Nebraska, which were of such a character that they were not written on the indictments. It is said that Morrison will plead guilty when he is brought before the court on the charge for which he was indicted.

It is said that Morrison will plead guilty when he is brought before the court on the charge for which he was indicted.

All the prisoners indicted have signified to United States Attorney F. S. Howell that they are willing to plead guilty with the exception of James Owens. He claims he was an unwilling partner in the passing of the altered bills.

New "Drag" Tune Sets Stones in a

Whirl in Test Run on Conservatory Track.

Good-bye, you merry widow.
A waltz was given Thursday in the Knights of Columbus conservatory through the graciousness of H. J. Bock, who has just completed the composition of a waltz-
song, which will go on the market soon.

The guests included a favored few rustled
from the various departments of the Commercial club, and after the first few bars were played by the conservatory, there was an ecstatic outburst of enthusiasm over the elusive swing and the delicate construction of the piece.

There were present such judges as John M. Guild, harmony promotion expert of the Commercial club; Clement Chase, who can scout a note name many leagues away;
Will A. Campbell, public man, who is brought before the court on the charge for which he was indicted.

Two women were also indicted, both for the same offense, that of mailing non-mailable matter. Mrs. Carrie Smith is alleged to have written letters through the United States mail. He is alleged to have written letter to several young girls throughout the state of Nebraska, which were of such a character that they were not written on the indictments. It is said that Morrison will plead guilty when he is brought before the court on the charge for which he was indicted.

Kind-Hearted Woman Who

Keen eyed and kindly voiced and one of the most efficient public servants of the city is Mrs. J. H. Gibbons, matron of the Omaha police.

Mrs. Gibbons is the widow of the late police sergeant, John H. Gibbons, and has held her office for the last six years. It is the duty of the police matron to see to the charge and care of female prisoners of the city together with the juveniles that from time to time fall into the hands of the police.

Money from Residences—Work
of One Gang

Three burglaries, committed in the same manner and taken by the police to have been the work of the same gang, netted the robbers a collection of jewelry and a small sum of money.

The victims:
A. J. Sampson, 607 South Twenty-sixth street, rings and watch.
Olive Kenney, 2901 Dewey avenue, three watches.
A. V. Drescher, 354 Jones street, rings,
$5.00 in cash.

At the time of the robbery the Drescher
family was out and the thieves obtained
entrance to the house by forcing the pantry window.
