CASH CORN GROWS STRONGER

Good Advance may Deliveries is Expected—Shippers in Omaha Report Big Sales for the Month.

OMAHA, May 5, 1911.

Dry weather in the northwest is the active influence in wheat at the moment. So far it amounts to an appreciation only. Little rain has, however, it will likely continue to be an increasingly bullish factor.

Cash corn is in the market on a rather quiet basis at this time and is expected to advance a few cents over the spot price. Local shippers report good sales for the present month and receipts are expected to be heavy.

Wheat is being sold at a higher price than it has been for some time. Demand for wheat is steady and urgent, while receipts keep higher with a strong shipping demand decreasing stocks.

Primary wheat receipts were 33,000 bu. and shipments were 55,000 bu. against receipts of 27,000 bu. and shipments of 55,000 bu.

Primary corn receipts were 45,000 bu. and shipments were 45,000 bu. against receipts of 45,000 bu. and shipments of 45,000 bu.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Signs of rain over the dry belt in the northwest are expected to downward today. The close was irregular, varying from an under last night to a heavy corn market.

The idea that a break of the drought was at hand came through dispatches from various points in South Dakota. These reports reported the weather cloudy and indicating a supply of moisture soon.

At the same time millers advised of an improvement in the weather, indicating a slight water crop state. The Ohio officials made the condition there 37 per cent against a month's rain.

Back all day, too, purchases were on foot to bring cash wheat here from unusual sources. The market was available for delivery on May contracts.

Some of the larger long term contracts were made in consequence of a strong closing reaction from earlier high prices. An easy tone prevailed at the close.

NEW YORK, May 5.—Dun's Review of Trade

The brighter outlook for the wheat crop is responsible for a better feeling in business, but the volume of trade, while generally large, and activity slow, halting and without enthusiasm.
