Wedding Bells

Mr. and Mrs. William Wilke, 434 South Fortieth street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace, to Mr. Herman A. Drebhus. The wedding, which will take place May 11, will be quiet, owing to the illness of the bride's father.

Mrs. James F. Miller entertained at a May party Thursday evening at her home, 313 Cass street, when the engagement of her sister, Miss Loretto Marie Glennon, to Mr. Philip N. Bigger was announced. A May basket formed the centerpiece and the spring shades of green and white were used. Covers were placed for fourteen.

A pretty home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening when Miss Katherine Henck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Henck, became the bride of Mr. Charles Mills, Dr. Edwin H. Jenks of the First Presbyterian church officiating. The house was prettily decorated in pink and green.

Gelatine Recipes

ANY people are unaware of the possibilities of delicacies which are contained in one small box of gelatine. Many people, that is to say, are unaware of the diversity of delicacies which can be prepared by the skillful use of the contents of the box—served fruits, vegetables, meats and other good things. For the use of gelatine is not limited—as many think—to the preparation of the one sort of dessert, but gelatine skillfully used will add to the attractiveness of every course of luncheon or dinner. Soups and gravies can be improved by the use of gelatine. Aspic jelly, a salad, and the variety of desserts, are the other ways in which gelatine appears to good advantage.

The gelatine desserts are especially pleasing both to the eye and the palate. A few of these recipes are:

Wine jelly, which is a favorite preparation for convalescents, is made by dissolving one-half cup of gelatine in cold water five minutes and dissolve with the boiling water; add the sugar and stir until cooled; then add wine and fruit juice when the dissolving sugar has cooled the liquid. The proportions are one-half cup of gelatine, one-half cup of cold water, two cups boiling water, one cup sugar, one cup wine, juice of two lemons.

Grape fruit jelly, which is served in a basket of the grape fruit skins, is one-half cup gelatine, one-half cup cold water, one cup boiling water, one cup sugar, two cups grape fruit juice and pulp, juice of one lemon, one-half cup sherry; prepare the gelatine, add grape juice and pulp and sherry after the liquid has been strained and become cool. Do not put into moulds set in ice water until jelly is just ready to set, in order to avoid settling of the pulp. Cut the jelly in small cubes or cut to take whole sections of pulp; place in baskets made from the grape fruit skins, finish with a teaspoonful of red bar-le-doux pressed into the pulp.

Chateaufort of Jelly—Cut out the center of a round sponge cake, leaving the bottom and sides thick enough to hold a quart of jelly. Prepare a lemon, orange, strawberry or wine jelly, and when it is cold and just ready to form, turn into the cake and set aside in a cool place or on ice. When ready to serve cover the top with the chilled froth from a cup of double cream and a cup of milk beaten with a whip cream. Flavor the cream with vanilla or wine and add one-fourth cup of confectioner's sugar before whipping.

Bavarian creams are a combination of fruit juice or other liquid—as milk, coffee, caramel or chocolate gelatine, sugar and whipped cream, the whipped cream being incorporated into the other ingredients in such a manner that the fluffy texture of the cream is retained. When made with milk, coffee, etc., yolks of eggs are usually employed to enrich and, in combination with gelatine, to thicken the mixture.

Gelatine is also used in a wide variety of frozen desserts.

Ivan Caryll and family arrived in New York April 13 from London. Mr. Caryll comes to make his permanent home here. He is now working on "Sweet Pansy," an operetta, which Klav and Erlanger will produce in September.

A. G. Delamater and William Norris have closed a contract with Charlotte Walker. According to its terms she will appear under their management for a term of years. Miss Walker will open as a star in stock at the Metropolitan Opera house, Minneapolis, today for an engagement of six weeks. During this engagement she will probably produce a dramatization of John Fox's novel, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," in which she will appear in New York next season.

Eugene Walter's play, "The Assassin," first announced for production by Frederic Thompson, will reach the footlights next season, but under a different management. Charles Dillingham has purchased the rights and will make it one of his important enterprises.

"The Assassin" is based upon the murder of Petrosino and the incidents leading thereto.

Last Saturday night saw the termination of Margaret Hington ex-Frohman Bowers' tour in the Eugene Walter play, "Mrs. Maxwell's Mistake," which originally was produced under the title of "Homeward Bound." ## Woman's Work Activities of Various Organized Bodies Along the Lines of Undertaking of Concern to Women.

The immigrant and travelers' aid work of the Young Women's Christian association is to be emphasized and developed nationally as strongly and as soon as is possible. This fact Miss Lily M. Strong, general secretary of the Omaha association, cited as one of the most important features of the biennial convention which was recently held at Indianapolis and from which she has just returned.

"Great stress," she says, "was put upon the importance of developing the work for the foreigners and the travelers. In connection with other organizations the Young Women's Christian association plans to establish a central home in New York City where the many foreign girls coming to this country will be cared for until friends or positions are found for them. There will be stations established in all the important cities of the country, and when a girl leaves New York for another city or another part of the country secretaries in the cities she goes through and to which she goes will be informed and will keep track of her until she reaches her destination."

"How great is the need for this work was clearly indicated in a report given by Miss Grace Abbott of Hull House, Chicago. She told of the truly appalling number of girls who are lost each year between New York and Chicago. All trace is lost to them after they leave the eastern city.

"The work of the travelers' aid is to be developed also by each city organization, and the educational classes for the foreign speaking girls increased. In Omaha we hope to be able before long to have another worker in the field, as one person cannot meet all the trains which come in at the two stations.

"Prof. Jeremiah Jenks of Cornell university, who has been a member of a commission of sociologists appointed to investigate the work of the travelers' aid throughout the country, gave one of the Most interesting talks of the meetings." Mrs. George Tilden, president of the Omaha Young Women's Christian association, and Mrs. W. P. Harford, president of the Omaha Federation of Women's Missionary societies, were the other members of Omaha's delegation.

The Omaha Woman's Suffrage club plans to devote the meetings to a consideration of topics of civic interest, and those active in different work will be asked to speak to the club on special topics. The first of the talks was given at the meeting Wednesday, when Mrs. Albert Edholm, who is at the head of the Red Cross anti-tuberculosis work in Nebraska, spoke of the national and state effort so to educate and organize the Americans in right living that the spread of the white plague might be prevented.

At the next meeting of the club Mrs. Draper Smith will be asked to speak on the enforcement of the child labor laws in Nebraska. Mrs. W. E. Shafer is in charge of the programs.

Dr. Barton O. Aylesworth, national lecturer for woman's suffrage, is expected in Omaha in May and then a number of special meetings will be held. The suffrage workers hope especially to organize a men's league.

Attractions in Omaha.

Mary Garden at the Brandeis.

"The Lost Trail" at the Boyd.

Vaudeville at the American.

Burlesque at the Orpheum.

Burlesque at the Gayety.

Burlesque at the Krug.

Tonight Omaha is to have its first glimpse of Mary Garden, the sensation of the season in the grand opera way. She will sing at the Brandeis in concert, assisted by Arturo Tibaldi, a young English violinist, and Howard Brockway, pianist. Miss Garden will be heard in arias from operas in which she has appeared during the season, and promises to sing a number of popular ballads as encore numbers. The sale of seats has been such as assures a large attendance, but the capacity of the theater has not as yet been reached.

E. L. Johnson of the Gayety and Lloyd Ingraham went east last night, journeying to New York, where they will engage players for the stock company to be installed at the Gayety, opening May 11. Mr. Ingraham is to head the organization, which will begin rehearsals a week from next Monday.

Among other things Ben Welsh is showing with much pride is a contract with Martin Beck for the appearance of his daughter on the Orpheum circuit for two years, beginning in 1912. Miss Welsh will be 18 years old then, and Ben says he proposes to hold Beck to his agreement. The contract was sent recently from the New York office of the Orpheum, and is in due form. Welsh says Beck may think he is playing a joke, but time will tell on whom the joke really is. In the meantime Justice Etta Welsh, the cause of it all, is traveling with her proud parents, totally unconscious of the fuss she has started. She is but 18 months old now, and takes very little interest in the affairs of the theater.

The American will close down on Saturday night, pending plans to open it for a summer run as an amusement center. Manager McGowan, who has been at the helm for sometime, will go to Detroit for a short stay, to look after his company's business there. He will stop in Chicago to see what can be done about some propositions that are under consideration for the summer season. Mr. McGowan expresses himself as quite well satisfied with the season at the American since January 22, when the present management took over the house. Good bills have been produced and many friends have been made, and when the house is reopened in August, it will be with much brighter prospects.

Also, the Krug will end its burlesque season on Saturday night. Just at present Manager Francke is uncertain if an effort will be made to continue any sort of amusement there until warmer weather forces a stop.

The coming of Grace Van Studdiford to the Brandeis for a short stay of two performances on Saturday will give a chance to see the latest opera buff, "The Paradise of Mahomet," the music of which is by Robert Planquette, and reported to be in his best style. It has been a long time since Planquette has given any attention to the lighter form of operatic composition, and this ought to be very welcome. Miss Van Studdiford will have the support of a large company, under the general direction of Daniel V. Arthur.

Fanny Ward's "temperament" is going to give a couple of Omaha lawyers some employment, and out of the court proceedings may result a determination as to whether she is an unlucky star or just a star out of luck. It all grows out of a disagreement between Miss Ward and one of her actors and the matter of a week's pay which she says is coming to him and which she says is not.

T. Daniel Frawley, for the last two years general stage director for Frederic Thompson, has succeeded Robert Hunter as chief of the engagement department of Henry W.
