The Fifth-Third National Bank of Cincinnati Has Delivered to Hayden Bros.

257 High Grade Standard Pianos and Player Pianos for Spot Cash

SPOT CASH BRINGS TO NEBRASKA the greatest opportunity Nebraskans have ever been offered to purchase a High Grade Standard Piano at much less than its actual worth. It is possible, but not probable that any dealer in America will again offer so much quality for so low a price as we are during the sale of these pianos.

Read the letter from the Bank's Manager to Hayden Bros., which gives the reason for selling for less money to Hayden Bros. than the bank was offered by Cincinnati retail dealers. As Hayden Bros. bought, so they will sell at about 33c on the dollar, and in some instances good quality pianos will go at less than 33 per cent of their value.

Hayden Bros., Omaha, Neb. Gentlemen:

We have decided to accept your offer for the 257 pianos recently selected by your buyer.

As these pianos came to our hands through the failure of one of our customers, we decided best to sell outside of our city, as all of our city dealers are our customers and made offers for them, but we do not feel justified in giving to any one of them, so consequently we decided to accept your offer although it was lower than any of the rest.

We wish to congratulate you on your business enterprise in getting these instruments at the prices you did. We have started boxing the instruments and will forward them to you without delay.

Hoping they will reach you in first class condition,

We are,

Yours truly,

Fifth & Third Nat'l Bank.

BIRDMEN BATTLE WITH WIND

French Flyers Flirting with Wicked Whirling Gusts.

ALTITUDE RECORD ESTABLISHED

Simon Climbs Forty-Two Hundred Feet into the Air—Monoplane Glides Down Nearly Mile Before Spectators.

During the tempestuous blows of a forty-mile wind 300 feet above the ground Rene Barrier and Rene Simon performed in three sensational flights at the Omaha Speedway Thursday afternoon. Three ascents were made, on one of which Barrier came near to death by dropping 300 feet through an "air hole" from a height 600 feet above the ground.

Barrier a wonderful feat of performing for twelve minutes with the strong gusts of wind whipping his aeroplanes to and fro brought thunderous applause from the crowd. The fearless French aviator declared after he reached the ground that he had never before taken such a rough and bumpy ride—several times the machine seemed to drop right from under him. His brother aviators stood with him all through the flight and without exception the crowd and the assembled members of the aviators' company gave a sigh of relief when he returned to earth.

In his flight an hour after Barrier's attempt Simon climbed 350 feet into the heavens, making a new record for Omaha flights and one which will not soon be broken. He was up a bare seventeen minutes, and the climbing abilities of the new "altitude" wings, fitted to his machine since his accident last week in St. Joseph, brought him up to this great height within eight minutes of his start from the ground.

Barrier started on a second flight before Simon landed, remaining aloft nine minutes. His second trial was without the dangerous features of the first and on it he went far out on the Speedway grounds toward the city.

Simon, after he had arisen to his greatest height, 4200 feet, performed a feat which he has often accomplished on calm days, but never before in such a wind as was blowing Thursday. Turning, from climbing into the heavens against the wind, he headed his machine to fly with the gale. Then shutting off the motor, he came down the "bobcat" side on a lone glide, 410 feet in length, not turning his machine nor starting the motor until he was fifty feet from the ground. The glide was new to Omaha and the crowd went wild, hailing Simon with cheers and handclapping.

After turning his machine from the glide, the aviator came down in an apparent descent. Just as the wheels touched the ground the motor buzzed for a second time within the minute and he was off again for another flight. Scarcely had he started from the ground, when Barrier, evidently enticed by his comrade's deeds, jumped in his car and was in the air also. Simon after one round came down and Barrier performed for the remaining time.

Today's program will include a race between Simon and Barrier and flights by all of the aviators. Joe Seymour will bring out his biplane if the wind is not too strong. It is planned to have a race between Simon and one of the local drivers of automobiles, driving around the race-track against the aeroplane above him. Ralph Duff says he will race the birdmen.

Colored High Finance.

Some of these high finance firms nowadays haven't as good an explanation of their operations as was offered years ago by a savings bank for colored folk when Ole Moss, down in Alabama, got stung for a deposit he had made.

"Ah, what mah money," said Ole Moss to the cashier.

"Yo ain't got no money, boyah. Moss."

"Used an Ah done let forty dollars heavy the six months ago."

'Plane Contest for World's Records is Framed at Chicago

Eight-Day Meet of Birdmen Will Be Held at Grand Park in August.

CHICAGO, May 12.—An eight-day aeroplane meet surpassing in value of award, in variety of features and in number of entrants any meet yet given in the United States will be held in Grand Park beginning on August 1. The meet will obtain the official sanction of the National Aero club and the International Aeronautic Federation, arrangements to this effect already having been made.

In view of this recognition by the supreme courts of aviation, all records made by the contestants will be accepted the world over as official.

Selection of Grand park for the meet is rich in promise for the aviators expected to enter the contests. Grand park is held by experts to be much better suited to the needs of aviators than Belmont park and therefore, the achievements made in New York last fall may be exceeded here.

The affair will be under the auspices of a committee of thirty-five who after being assured Grand park could be had for the purpose decided to start on the work of raising a guarantee fund of $100,000 with which to make contracts. The estimated cost of the meet is $120,000, of which more than $100,000 will go for prize money.

The exact nature of the different events has not yet been announced, but it is the idea of the committee to discourage dare-devil stunts that have resulted in the loss of so many aviators' lives.

HE WASN'T STUCK ON STYLE

The Spectacles of a Lawyer Responding to Hurray Call in Swimming Suit.

There is only one lawyer in the United States who has appeared in court as counsel in a case while wearing a bathing suit and nothing more.

That lawyer is Mr. Harry Hechheimer of the Baltimore, Md., bar. While at a resort last summer he was suddenly called from the bathing beach to defend a man in court, and he didn't take time to dress. If there be another lawyer in this country who lent himself and the law to such a novel and conspicuous situation he never has been heard of. As a matter of fact, it is most probable that no other lawyer in the world has had such an experience.

Mr. Hechheimer was spending a short vacation at Betterton, Md., a Chesapeake bay resort. It was the height of the season and the place was crowded. Among the arrivals on that particular day was a young married couple from Philadelphia. For some curious reason, believed to have been a while ago unmarried, each to have the privilege of flirting without interference from the other.

The pose seemed to afford them lots of fun for a time, but it soon became too realistic for the husband. A good-looking, well-set-up young chap, also from Philadelphia, was soon flirting outrageously with the pretty wife. The husband stood until the man introduced himself and started with her for a stroll along the beach. Then the husband forgot all about the agreement and interfered.

"I want you to understand," he said, putting his weight, plus his anger, on the words, "This lady is my wife."

The stranger was as cool and nonchalant as a west Texas cow puncher. This was his reply.

"This lady has told me that she is single. Now beat it quick and don't bother us again."

More words followed fast, and before the

HAYDEN BROTHERS

PUSHED AWAY THE BRINE

Heroic Means Employed to Check a Deluge of Wisely Tears.

"There must be something wrong at Quillmore's house," remarked the assessor. "He surely doesn't treat his wife right. She's crying so much that the neighbors agreeable chap, but that's no proof that he treats his wife as he should. Many a man goes around town with his face wreathed in smiles, and then makes life a burden to the wife of his bosom. Anyhow, it doesn't seem probable that Mrs. Quillmore would be forever doing ground and lofty weeping if her husband treated her right."

"You can't always tell," commented the village patriarch. "Woman is a curious critter, and it's never safe to try to reason out why she does this thing or that thing. Your remarks, however, are interesting as showing the usual attitude of the public in matters of this kind. If there is anything wrong in anybody's house, it is taken for granted that the husband is to blame."

"There isn't a finer man this side of Medicine Hat than Julius Caesar Quillmore. No man in this village can name a mean or dishonest action he ever did. His life has been so decent and praiseworthy that every citizen should be ready to shed his coat and scrap for him, because he reflects credit on our sex, and publishes to the world that man is not a total loss. Whenever we find a really creditable citizen we should stand up for him and defend him against calumny. But what do we do? We hunt around for something mean we can say about him. We just naturally hate to see a man enjoy a good reputation after he has earned it fairly."

"Mrs. Quillmore goes around weeping in several dialects," they say, and of course it stands to reason her husband is what he should be. In a day or two we'll be hearing he makes a practice of breaking her on the wheel or torturing her with thumb screws. And such rumors are being passed along by married men, who should know better.

"One of my early wives—the sixth, I think—was a little sunbeam when we first married, and I began to think I had drawn the capital prize in the matrimonial lottery. One evening I went home from my feed store, my bosom filled with a holy calm, and when I entered the house I found my wife with her face all swelled up from weeping. If women only realized what a mess crying makes of their faces, they'd cut it out."

"I took my wife on my knee and asked her what was hurting her, but she would not tell. That's a maddening trait of most women. They'll carry around a secret sorrow until it spoils on their hands, and they won't tell what the trouble is until their husbands have coaxed and argued and implored until they are hoarse. When I saw that my wife would give me no information, but was determined to nurse her sorrow and make a family pet of it, I paid no more attention to her."

"Well, she wept around the house day after day, till the wall paper got damp, and I soon was aware that strange tales were floating around town. The gossips were saying I treated my wife brutally. But after a man has been married half a dozen times he doesn't care much what people say about him. But after a while it began to affect my trade. Several of my best customers dropped out, and when I asked them why, they said they had heard rumors about my conduct that disgusted them."

"Then I saw it was time to take a firm stand, so I went home to occupy the judgment seat. I escorted my wife into the sitting room and locked all the doors and put the keys in my pocket. Then I said in tones of one who means business from the ground up: 'Now, my dear, we're locked in here until I know what all this foolishness is about, and we'll stay here until then, if it takes six months.'

"When you talk to a lachrymose woman that way it brings results. In five minutes I knew all about it. She had been overhauling an old trunk that I hadn't opened since I was a boy, and there she had found an old letter I had written to some little girl who wore a pigtail and chewed gum. And because of that she clouded up and rained tears for weeks together. She wasn't jealous of my former wives; but that relic of soft love was too much for her. Once she had told her trouble, and I had shown her an old picture of the pigtail girl, she was a little sunbeam again."

"So long as women are built as they are, you can't tell what they are crying about, and a man is a chump who tries.—Walt Mason in Chicago News.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS

There is a natural element of the circulation known as plasma, a fibrous constituent which is the true healing quality of the blood. This plasmic property is frequently destroyed by impure accumulations in the blood, and this vital fluid not only loses its power to heal, but becomes a source of irritation to any wound or open sore or ulcer on the flesh. The blood continually discharges the impurities into the place and gradually the infection spreads and the sore enlarges. External applications cannot cure an old sore, because such treatment does not affect the blood; the most that can be expected from plasters, washes, salves, etc., is a cleansing, soothing effect on the ulcer. S. S. S. heals old sores in a perfectly natural way. It goes down into the blood, and removes the impurities and morbid matters that are the means of keeping the ulcer open; then the sore is bound to heal. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and not only does it cleanse the circulation, but it restores the healing, plasmic qualities and aids in promoting every necessary quality for good health. S. S. S. builds new flesh tissue from the bottom of the ulcer to the outer skin, and makes a permanent cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice free. S. S. S. is for sale at drug stores.
