

BAD CRISIS FACES THE CITY

Health Commissioner Connell Declares Something Must Be Done.

NO PLACE TO DUMP GARBAGE

Government Does Not Permit Refuse to Be Dumped Along the River Front and Place Must Be Provided.

Facing a situation, which Dr. R. W. Connell declares threatens the life of every Omaha citizen, the health commissioner has appealed to the city attorney for advice as to the most feasible methods of solving the garbage problem.

"Unless immediate steps are taken to provide for the collection and disposal of garbage, the city faces a crisis, which may result in great loss of life," says Dr. Connell. "We must do something and do it quick. With the hot summer months coming on, there is not a minute we can afford to waste."

Two weeks ago the city clerk was directed to advertise for bids for the collection and disposal of garbage. Bids were to have been opened Tuesday night by the city council, but not a contractor in the city sent in an estimate. None wanted the job, though the specifications called for eight districts, which would have provided contracts for as many men.

With the refusal of the contractors to bid, the health commissioner has taken the question of garbage collection and disposal into his own hands. He proposes to solve it if there is any possible way to do it.

In the opinion of the health commissioner, two ways exist in which the collection and disposal can be handled. Either an emergency ordinance, declaring the necessity of raising funds for the purpose can be passed by the city council, or else he can direct contractors to collect garbage in the various districts, and they can look to the city for their money.

Dr. Connell prefers the emergency ordinance and referred the proposition to the city attorney Wednesday morning for an opinion. City Attorney Fine inclines to the belief that an emergency ordinance may be passed on the basis of unforeseen accidents.

Are Dumping Everywhere. Garbage and refuse collectors are dumping their loads all over the city, irrespective of the ordinances, says the health commissioner, and some regulations must be passed to stop the practice.

To circumvent the city council's refusal to have an ordinance passed licensing and regulating garbage collectors, the same as all other contractors who use wagons. "In this way we can keep tabs on collectors and prosecute them when they dump garbage and refuse in vacant lots," declares Connell.

Though the city has an ordinance governing the dumping of refuse, absolutely no provision is made for unloading garbage. The ordinance distinguishes between refuse and garbage and provides a dumping ground for refuse in the vicinity of Eleventh and Grant streets.

"But no place exists in the city where we can dump garbage," said Dr. Connell.

Two years ago we were served with notices by the government to stop dumping refuse in the river or along the river banks. That leaves us without a place to dispose of the garbage. The refuse proposition can be handled if we can get regulations passed by the city council.

"But unless something is done instantly, epidemics, one after another, are liable to result from the decomposition of garbage and refuse throughout the city."

"From fifty to 100 complaints are pouring into this office daily from property owners, but I can do nothing. I have no authority to direct garbage collectors in any manner."

PEDDLERS GIVEN A WARNING

Crawford Hands Out Big Fines and Says that Others Will Get the Limit.

Peddlers are now on the black list in police court. Wednesday morning J. H. Marlin was fined for peddling short weight and for working without a license. He drew $5 and costs and was warned not to appear in court again under penalty of a larger fine. "I believe it's time to clean up these peddlers," said Judge Crawford. "They've cheated and swindled the people long enough and from now on they draw the limit."

All Stocks Seem to Be Moving Upward Since Oil Decision

American Tobacco Goes Up Twenty-Five Dollars a Share Wednesday—Other Stocks Go up.

American Tobacco stock went up $25 a share today, reaching the $500 mark, according to announcement made by F. C. Hollinger of the Logan & Bryan company. This comes as a direct result of the Standard Oil decision. Advice from New York explains that the heavy buying of American is based on the idea that the company is not likely to be forced to dissolve after its decision is handed down. The American Tobacco company is involved, as was the Standard Oil, and a decision in its case is expected Monday. It is also explained that in any event there will be some sort of a distribution or capital increase following the forthcoming decision. American Tobacco stock is reported to be very scarce.

Mr. Hollinger says that reports indicate that the general public is not the buyer of stocks, the sellers being those who bought before the Standard Oil decision was handed down. Since Tuesday morning there has been a general advance all along the list of stock, averaging from $5 to $7 a share. Indications are that stocks are going higher.

An interesting bit of side information came to Logan & Bryan today in the statement that democratic leaders declare that there is no present intention of moving for additional anti-trust legislation at this session of congress.

Contest is Keen for Council Committees

Many Are After the Best Places to Be Handed Out by the New President.

Competition for the chairmanships of the various council committees is as keen, if not keener, than the struggle which finally resulted in Councilman Louis Berka being nominated for the presidency of the council. Berka has the naming of the committees and all sorts of pressure is being brought to bear on the prospective president. The combination of six republicans and three insurgents, democrats, however, will take about all the places on the committees that are worth while.

Whenever one of the standpatters is placed on a committee he will be so surrounded by members of the combine that he will practically be powerless to do anything unless the combine wants it.

All told, twelve committees are to be named, but of these four—the judiciary, finance and claims, street, lighting and public property and buildings—are considered the most important.

Though no definite slate has been made for the committees it is said the chairmanships of the important committees have practically been settled. The committees will be appointed next Tuesday night, following the reorganization of the council next Monday afternoon.

The finance and claims, now composed of Sheldon, chairman, and Johnson and Berka, will suffer little change. Berka may name someone to replace him, but Sheldon is the likely man for the chairmanship.

Funkhouser will break into the lighting committee again, either as chairman or as a member. Johnson, who is standing for the vice presidency, is the present chairman, but he is willing to give way and take the chairmanship of the public property and buildings committee instead. If these plans prevail, he and Funkhouser will change places on the two committees.

Funkhouser was formerly chairman of the lighting committee, but was moved by the combination when Brucker was elected president. Joseph Hummel is touted as the chairman of the judiciary committee to replace Berka. Berka will head the rules committee, a place that goes to the president by courtesy.

On all the committees, however, it is stated that there will be enough of the combine members to dominate the proceedings.

Aesthetic Dances to Draw Big Crowds

Advance Sale of Seats Far Above All Expectations of the Promoters.

The opening ticket sale for the aesthetic dancing entertainment to be given at the Brandeis Saturday for the Child Saving Institute was more indicative of a general interest in the affair than its promoters had expected. Both performances will probably be largely attended not only by the friends of the pupils of Miss Lowden, who are to do the dancing, but by hundreds of others who are interested in the art itself.

The musical program is to be unusually attractive. It will be played under the direction of Ernest Nordin by the regular Brandeis orchestra, and many of the selections were made on suggestions by Mr. Nordin.

In the Scotch scene there will be a reel and a highland fling and in the Irish scene some reel jigs. Mr. Hugh Wallace, who sings the three songs in this number, has chosen "The Low Back Car," by Lovel; "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms," by Tom Moore, and "Kitty of Coleraine," from an old Irish air.

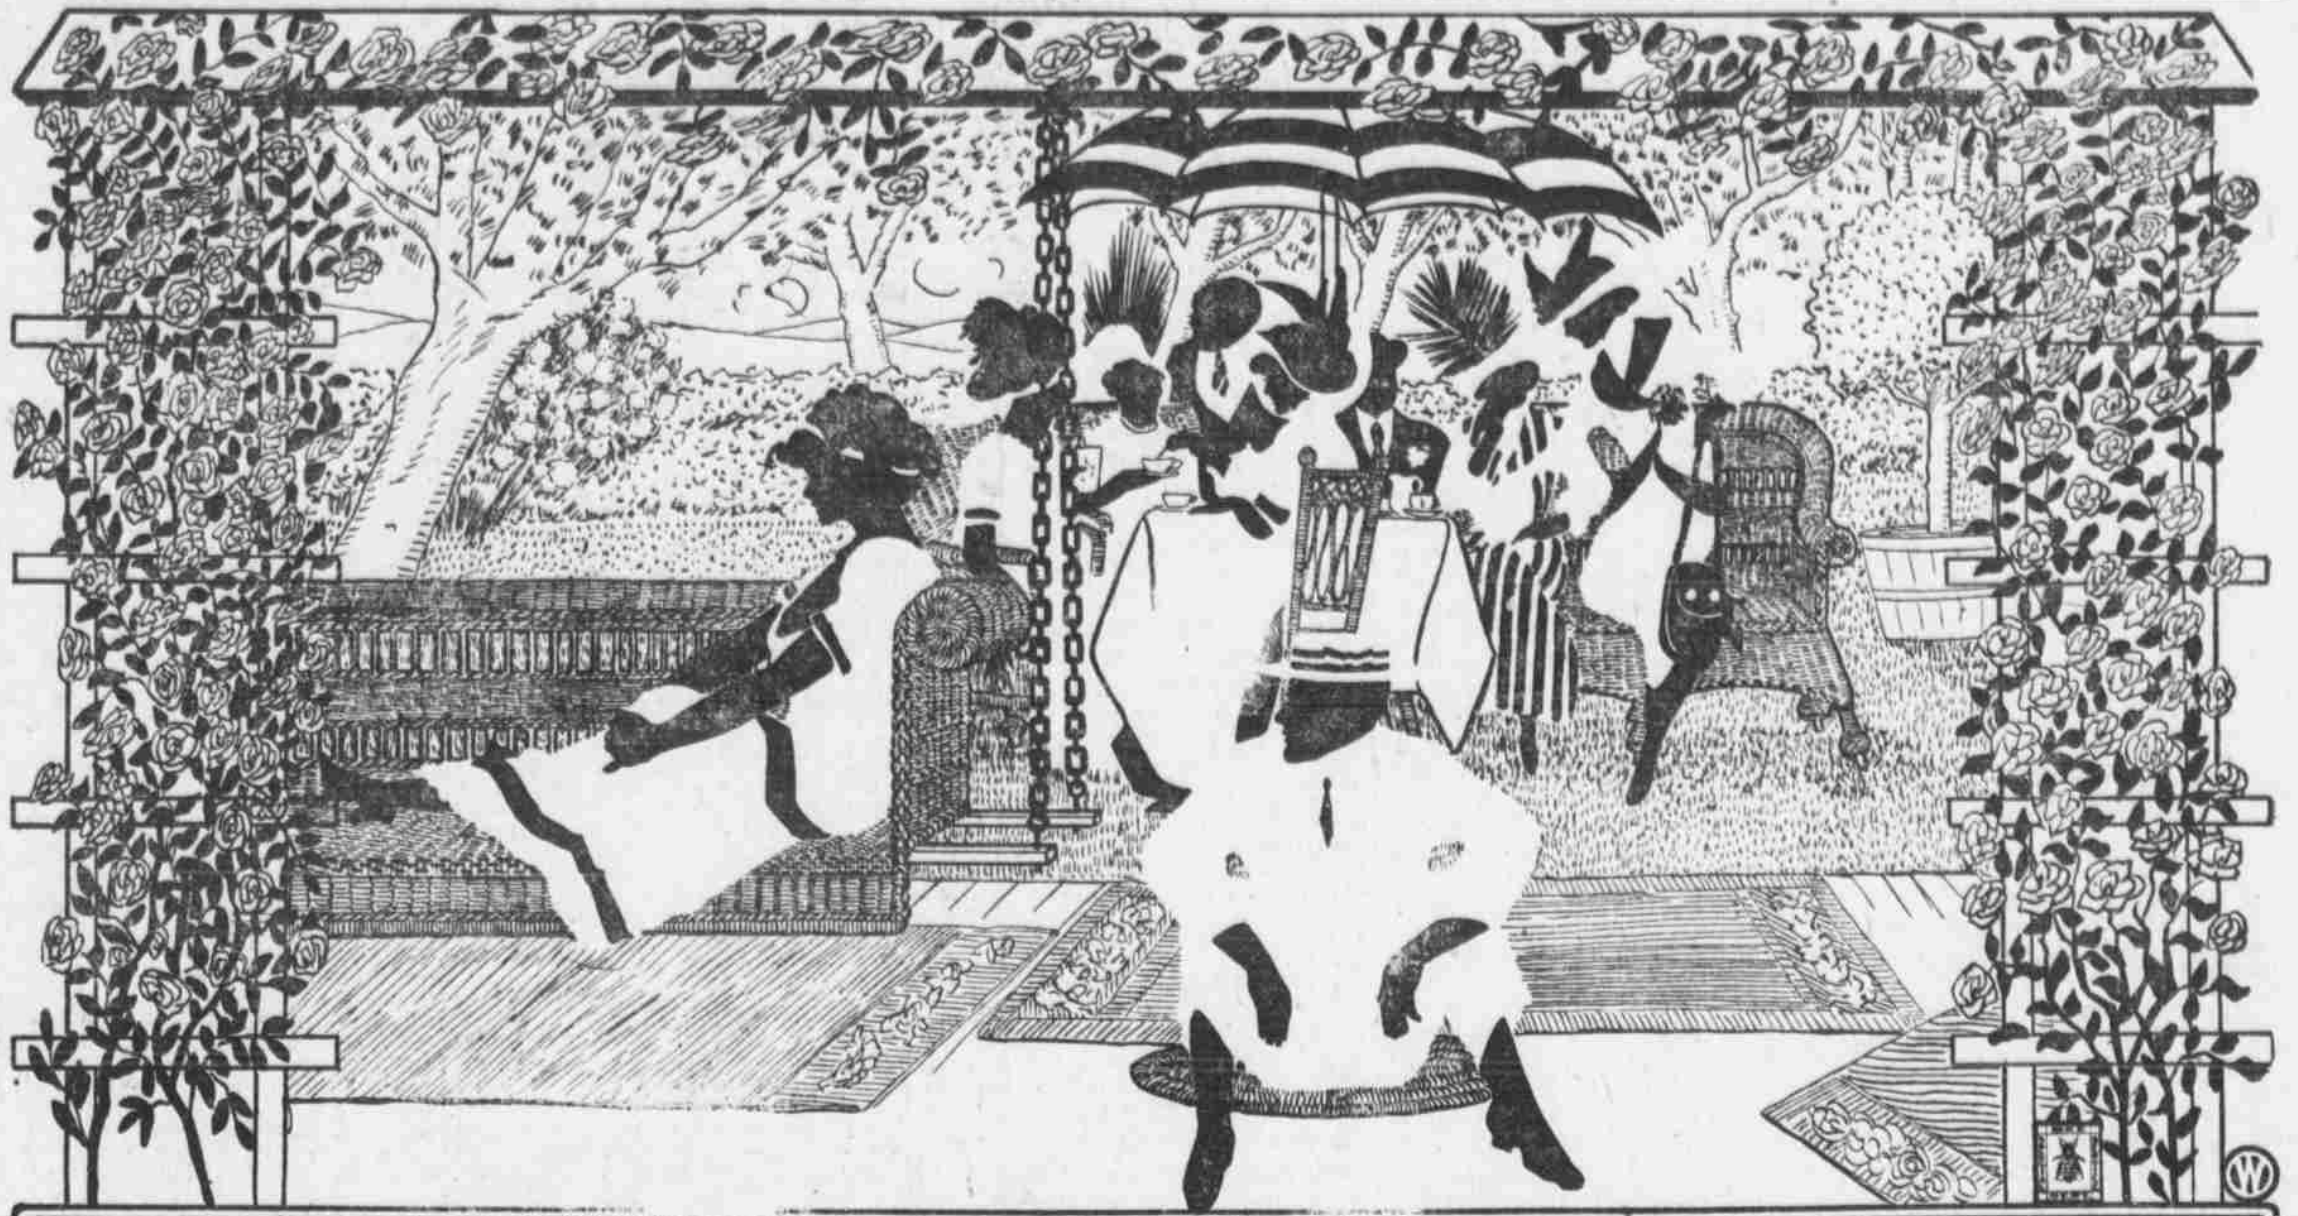

In the English scenes the orchestra will play Ballet No. 1, "Bacchanal," from Godard's "Faust," gavotte from "Iphigenie en Aulide," by Gluck, and an old English lyric. The other musical numbers will be as follows:

- Serenade—Les Millions d'Harlequin..... Drigo
- Le Secret..... Gaultier
- Festival Dance—Opera Coppelia..... Delibes
- Gitanella..... F. Taconne
- Le Habere—Carmen..... Bizet
- Marche Hongroise—Damnation of Faust..... Berlioz
- Halleluyah—Nok..... Ladinsky
- Bajaderensians—Opera Fermors. Rubinstein
- Evening Song..... Kussner
- Barcarolle—Tales of Hoffman..... Offenbach
- Waltz—Opera Coppelia..... Delibes
- Indian Sun Dance..... Friedman
- National Air.....
