

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Solons of City Looking for Political Moses at Present.

JOSEPH DWORAK RUNS AMUCK

Mysterious Disappearance of Station House Cat Explained and Police and Fire Department Are "Fueled."

Just at present the solons of South Omaha are looking for a political Moses to lead them out of the desert of financial emergency that threatens seriously to hamper the fire and police departments in the protection of the city.

This condition of affairs, it is alleged, is a result of the inopportune appointment of seven new patrolmen at a time when the commissioners knew that the police fund would barely suffice for the force as it stood formerly, without the addition of any other men.

It is claimed that the back tax and scavenger fund has been in arrears applied to the maintenance of the police, but the present council will not agree to assume the responsibility for such transfer. The matter was put directly up to H. C. Murphy, the city attorney, who decided that from a legal standpoint the transfer could not be made arbitrarily.

Now comes a petition from the merchants and citizens asking that the funds be transferred so as to afford proper police protection to the city. The matter is expected to come before the council Monday night and a heated session is predicted.

On one side of the council, backed up by the decision of the city attorney advising against the transfer of the funds to the police board, and on the other side will be the merchants and citizens with their demand for proper police protection at all costs.

Dworak Runs Amuck. Joseph Dworak of Nineteenth, between Q and R streets, Sunday afternoon and after destroying the furniture of his home attempted to kill his wife with an ax. Neighbors called the police and Acting Captain Coulter overcame the desperate man and locked him up.

After having attempted to kill his wife retreated to the cellar, where he sought to escape the detection of the police. While the police were in the house Dworak buried himself in a hole beneath the cellar, where he was found.

The man has but lately completed a term of sixty days in the county jail. A few days ago he was compelled to seek the aid of the police. Dworak pleaded amendment, but quickly forgot his promise. His family are respectable people.

"Kitty" is Found. The mysterious disappearance of the station house cat has been explained through the efficient sleuthing of Officer John Cashen and as a result the police are not on speaking terms with the members of the fire department.

"Kitty" was the station mascot and the confidant of the police department. She was petted and privileged. She slept on the sergeant's desk at night and in the morning purved beneath the sturdy feet of Justice Callahan in the police court.

Later "Kitty" was missed from her accustomed haunts. The police noted her absence. Several days passed without sign of sound from wandering feline. Then the matter became serious and Emergency Officer Joseph Potach asked to have a general order read at assembly cautioning the officers to keep a strict look out for the cat.

Officer John Cashen, who patrols the Brown park beat heard of the disappearance and instituted a search. Among other things he noted a coolness on the part of the members of No. 3 fire house. Once his friendly chat mates, they now seemed uneasy at his presence. He noted too the careful smuggling of small white pitchers into the No. 3 fire barn. Beggars! Pariah the thought! And then the light broke and Officer Cashen made tracks for the fire house. His suspicions proved correct. There smuggled away behind the box stalls of the horses he found Fireman Mike Lucky and Fireman Henry Keller preparing the evening meal of the missing "Kitty." Cashen lost no time in corralling the lost cat which he restored to the protection of the station house and the police. And that's why the police and fire departments of South Omaha are at odds.

Meigs Returned from a fishing trip to Child's Point. C. G. Riley will return Monday from "Child's" camp at Child's Point. Miss Mabel Henry will leave June 15 for a two month trip to California.

Miss Vera Bennett's Sunday school was taken to Hanscom park Saturday for the annual outing. Former Captain Ed. Burson of the police department was able to be out Saturday after a long illness.

James Pivonka, Twentieth and Q streets, has gone to Sioux City for a few days. Pivonka will visit Elgin, Neb., before returning home.

A party of friends surprised William Roseing at his home Twenty-ninth and B streets on Saturday night. The occasion was the celebration of Mr. Roseing's 56th birthday. He was presented with a beautiful North chair.

Tom Conway is about to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the one or ones who broke the windows in the city hall. Tom says that the board of patching and mending has already used up all available funds and he has no utilities paper to keep out the winter's blast and the summer's heat.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather the loyal members of the South Omaha Gun club met at the grounds at Fortieth and B streets Saturday afternoon. Some very fine scores were run up and the medal for the week was awarded to Caspar, who shot a score of 23. For the Rogers cup Caspar and McGuiness made a tie of 20. The tie was broken by the tie of 20. The individual scores are as follows: Boye, 23; Ulrich, 21; Morrison, 20; Merriam, 19; McGuiness, 18; For the Rogers cup: Boye, 23; McGuiness, 17; Morrison, 16; Merriam, 15; Ulrich, 14; Dworak, 12.

J. D. Robinson of Lincoln Leaves Note, Saying He is in Right Mind.

LINCOLN, May 21.—(Special Telegram.)—J. D. Robinson, 74 years old, a retired hotel keeper, who had been in business in different towns of the state, killed himself tonight by shooting himself through the head with an old revolver. His own illness and the fact that his wife was seriously sick are said to have been the reasons. He left a note in which he stated that he was in his right mind at the time of the deed, but that he could not stand the pain in his head. A widow and four grown children, of whom one was in the house at the time, survive him.

"The Spenders" at the Gayety.

"Carmen" at the Boyd.

"The Spenders" at the Gayety.

It was an enthusiastic audience, generous in size and generous with its applause, that greeted Lloyd Ingraham at the head of his new stock company last night at the Gayety in the opening play of the summer season. The company is composed of bright and intelligent actors of pleasing appearance, every one of them in a part that gave the impression that it was made for that particular player.

"The Spenders" is the play, an adaptation from Harry Leon Wilson's well-known novel. Mr. Ingraham fairly shone with gentility and fun in the lovable character of "Uncle Peter Bines," a staunch Westerner gifted with a pithy tongue, who calls New York "hell-an-gone." He met with such applause that he was forced "to step out of his part" for a speech. Another who received an ovation was Miss Edith Spencer, "born and raised" in Omaha, who appeared in a grande dame role.

Harry Pollard, who last night played a leading part, is a well set-up young man with considerable personality and acting power. Miss Marguerita Fischer, who appeared as "Avice Milberry," is charming in face and figure, and although her part last night held no great dramatic range, it gave stronger indication of much latent ability. Chester Wallace, debonaire and gracefully, played the part of the disappointed lover so well that his hearers when he was through were almost convinced that he should have been the lucky one.

"Carmen" at the Boyd. Carmen, the cigarette girl of Seville, immortalized by Bizet in his opera, lives, love and dies once more at the Boyd this week. It is, of course, an acting version that is presented by the Long stock company, but the tremendous dramatic appeal of the romantic story is still there, and as the appreciation of yesterday's audience evidenced.

WILSON ON GRAZING DECISION

Secretary Discusses Opinion of Court on Control of National Forests.

POWERS OF CONGRESS ABSOLUTE

Contention Taken by Department of Agriculture Regarding Pasture Within Reserve Upheld in Every Respect.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(Special.)—The decisions handed down by the supreme court on May 1 concerning the right of the government to control grazing on the national forests are of great interest to western people, and especially to the western stockmen. The right of the government to control its own lands within the various states and territories is so clearly defined that it is regarded by Secretary Wilson as establishing absolutely the position these lands occupy under the law. "I am very sure," said Secretary Wilson today, "that the stockmen of the west, as well as the western people generally, will accept this decision of the supreme court at its full worth and that the controversy which has heretofore existed regarding the right to use the grazing lands within the various national forests without permit from the Department of Agriculture will be brought to an end."

Two Cases Reviewed

The two cases decided were the so-called Light case, which originated in Colorado, and the case of the United States against Grimaud, Carajous, and Inda, three California stockmen. In the Light case one of the principal issues joined was on the question whether the fence laws of the state must be complied with in order that the United States might sustain action for trespass on the national forests. The California case concerned the question whether violation of the national forest regulations is punishable as a crime.

"Light is a Colorado stockman who, in 1906, turned his cattle loose on public land adjacent to the Holy Cross national forest. In such a case the law would usually drift upon national forest lands. Mr. Light refused to take any steps to prevent this and also refused to take out a grazing permit. It was maintained by Light's lawyers that, inasmuch as the laws of Colorado do not allow a private person any remedy against owners of stock which stray upon his lands unless the land is fenced, the government is without redress. An injunction was secured from the district court requiring Mr. Light to so fence his stock as to prevent it from trespassing upon the national forest. Mr. Light, however, refused to do this, and, with the backing of other stockmen of his state, eventually secured a special appropriation for the purpose, carried the case up to the supreme court for final decision.

Decision of Court Clear

In the effort to establish the contention that the government was wrong, not only the validity of the grazing regulations, but the constitutionality of the entire national forest policy was challenged on every ground which the counsel representing the stock interests and the stockmen were able to raise. The fact that their contentions were, one after the other, set aside by clear cut statements of the law is a matter of extreme satisfaction to me. I nevertheless believe that the stockmen who have so vigorously contested the government's position will feel that they have been fairly dealt with, both by the department and the courts.

Harvester Company is Next on the List

Report at Washington that Government Will Soon File Suit Alleging it to Be Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(Special Telegram.)—Attorney General Wickham soon will bring criminal and civil actions against the International Harvester company for "flagrant violations of the Sherman anti-trust law," according to officials of the government close to the attorney general. For more than a year the department has been investigating the big harvester trust. The investigation has led to the firm belief that the harvester trust and the best trust are closely allied, and that the principal holders in the latter are the principal holders in the former.

SQUAW MAN SHOT ON PRAIRIE

Body of Lee Reagan Found in Gully Following Trip to Round Up Some Cattle.

LANDER, Wyo., May 21.—(Special Telegram.)—Word was received here today that Lee Reagan, a squawman, living on the Shoshone Indian reservation, had been shot and killed by his companion, Cal O'Neal, another squawman. The two men had left Fort Washakie to round up some cattle early yesterday. Reagan's dead body was found in a dry gully late yesterday afternoon four miles away. Dick Mores, chief of the Indian police, is scouring the hills for O'Neal.

Questions Definitely Settled

"I feel very certain," the secretary stated, "now that these questions are so definitely settled, that we shall have no further trouble in regulating the use of national forest ranges by live stock. Indeed, we have had very little for some time, because the stockmen themselves, although originally inclined to resent the interference of the government with their long and uncontrolled use of the lands now within these forests, have, recently, accepted the situation and are rapidly realizing that their occupancy of these grazing lands is vastly more satisfactory under
