CORN—SPOT, firm; export new No. 2, $1.000 nead, evidently with cattle and the feeling generally was a little easier. Beef steers opened with buyers holding back, evidently with the idea of learning something about prices at other points before taking on very many cattle. The trade the first half of the morning was a good deal of a drag, but still it settled down into a market that was not very much different from yesterday's later market in the May position in Chicago, closing at $60 net decline for May and $60 to $60 advance for the later positions.

BEEF STEERS.

HOGS—Nickel declines prevailed on bulk of business in the hog yards this morning. Burdensome receipts were responsible, but the demand was broad and the market showed a very fair degree of freedom. A supply of fully 16,000 head changed hands in less than three hours, margins between lard, butcher and bacon weights remaining unchanged at cheaper cost.

Active movement at least found a partial explanation in the outlet furnished by order and speculative buyers. About one-eighth of the total offerings moved into channels other than lucal packing and selection of weights by this class of buyers was by no means critical. All kinds of animals, barring poor and rough quality stock, went over the scales to shipping and speculative pens

Long strings ranged from $5.50 to $5.55, butchers selling around $5.506.60 Best light grades on sale dropped to $5.70, a nickel less than yesterday's top and 20c less than high price a week ago
