CAPITAL CITY IS ORDERLY TODAY

GENERAL DIAZ IS IMPROVED

Minister of Finance Turns Over to His Successor Sixty Million Dollars in Gold Coins and Gold Bars.

BULLETIN.

MEXICO CITY, May 26.—Ex-President Diaz departed secretly for Vera Cruz early this morning.

MEXICO CITY, May 26.—Francisco Leon de la Barra, the Mexican foreign minister and former ambassador at Washington, took the oath of office as provisional president of the republic today. He will act as the chief executive in succession to Porfirio Diaz, who resigned yesterday, until a general election can be held.

Order prevailed throughout the capital last night. Senor de la Barra was escorted from the national palace to the chamber of deputies where the oath of office was administered by the members of the senate. Former President Linares, who had resigned days ago, but had asked permission to escort the provisional president to the scene of his inauguration. The new chief executive was accompanied by General E. Rascos, who took the oath as minister of war earlier in the day.

Most of the distinguished personages in the capital were present, including the diplomatic corps in full regalia headed by the American ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, the dean of the corps.

Business is resumed. Owing to the fact that Mexico City was orderly throughout the night despite the magnitude of the crowd which celebrated the change in administration, business men this morning prepared to resume their occupations on a normal basis.

Shutters were removed from the windows for the first time in two days and the morning sunlight, like a gold omen, cast its rays through the open facades of the buildings, brightening considerably the appearance of the business district. A large crowd gathered about the chamber of deputies, cheering for Senor de la Barra and General Rascos, while the oath was being administered.

It is now regarded as certain that Alfred Robles Dominguez, General Madero's representative here and who is virtually the military commander of the federal district, will not find it necessary to call in the revolutionary forces from the cities of Cuernavaca and Pachuca for the purpose of maintaining order. The police and soldiers are acting under the direction of Senor Dominguez with as much readiness as if they had never known another superior.

General Diaz is better. General Diaz's condition was reported as improved this morning. The inflammation in his face is said to have subsided greatly and the fever to have disappeared. Members of the retired president's family expressed the belief that he will be able to sail for Europe from Vera Cruz by the last of the month.

General Enrique Torroella, subdirector of the military college, today was appointed chief of staff to Provisional President de la Barra.

Before resigning his office yesterday as minister of finance Jose Yrujo Limantour exhibited to Jaime Guera, the new sub-secretary of the treasury, $6,000,000 in gold in the vaults of the treasury. Senor Limantour turned over all the government funds in his possession, taking Senor Guera's receipt.

Passing of Diaz Dramatic. The passing of Provisional President last night was one of the most dramatic events in the recent history of Mexico. The venerable ruler was still confined to his palace, which was hedged about with strong guards of mounted police and soldiers, while across the scenic machine guns were masked, ready to deal with any outbreak such as that of the night before.

Popular excitement was at high pitch, but was held in check by the patriotic appeals of Madero's personal representative, Senor Dominguez, for the maintenance of order and the dignity of the cause. Revolutionary fervor foundered in apathy, waiting the words of Diaz's final address.

Inside the chamber there was an impressive scene as President Diaz's letter, finally and completely relinquishing the reins of power was presented and accepted, followed by the presentation and acceptance of Vice President Corral's resignation.

Wild Demonstrations. Immediately word was carried to the waiting crowd outside, which broke into a wild demonstration of enthusiasm, accompanied by the ringing of the great bell in the cathedral and a salute of cannon. Surging masses of people paraded the streets, carrying banners or emblems of Madero with wreaths of flowers and other symbols of the final success of the revolution. Here and there were scattered affrays, but in the main the demonstration was one of enthusiasm and rejoicing.

Francisco Leon de la Barra took up the reins of government in an open letter addressed to the Mexican people, acknowledging his election as provisional president and declaring his purpose not to be a
