According to report around the city hall, councilman Charles E. Davis, elected as a republican from the Tweifth ward, has left Omaha for good, and his resignation from the council will be shortly forthcoming. Councilman Davis is one of the publican councilmen alected in the spring of 1909, when the council was found to be equally divided between republicans and democrats. If he vacates his seat it will leave the division six democrats to five republicans, and if the democrats fill his
