H. S. CLASS TO GRADUATE

List of Eligibles Reaches a Grand Total of 204.
EXERCISES HELD JUNE SIXTEEN
List of the Graduates, Their Residence and the College Which They Expect to Attend Next Year.
Commencement night, June 15, 204 of the young men and women of Omaha will receive diplomas as graduates from the Omaha High School. The certificates state that each of the youthful graduates has completed a full course of four years' work in the high school and is eligible for admission to a higher college.
This is one of the biggest classes that the Omaha High School has turned out in its history. The largest class ever graduated was in 1908, the last year that only the June commencement was held. This year a graduation was held in February, thus making two classes sent out into the world from Omaha each school session.
On the stage of the Brandeis theater the night the commencement exercises are held will be seated the entire class, with the parents as audience to the program. The first part of the program will be the delivery of the officers' commissions to the officers of the cadet regiment. Following this will come music, essays and orations by those of the class who have won the right to take part in the exercises by a competition that is held each year. Last of the diploma that signifies four years of work completed will be handed to each graduate.
Then school will be truly over.
Many of Omaha's students are planning to take a further training in higher educational institutions. Some have already decided on their school and of these the place they will attend is registered behind their names. Others will make their choice to either attend some school or enter in the ranks of the world's workers before the summer is past and September school time has again come around.

Working Charity for Joy Rides

BY ALICE WILLARD SOLENERBERGER.
The author of this article, whose life of service came to an untimely close at her death last December, was for some years secretary of the Central district of the Chicago Bureau of Charities. In her office was mustered daily a ragged regiment of the homeless. She studied intimately the history of the city's pauper problem, and such facts as are set forth in this article which have led over 400 organizations to enter voluntary agreement to abide by the "Rules Governing the Issuance of Charity Transportation" of the National Conference of Charities and Correction.
The fact that thousands of boys, unemployed workmen, tramps and vagrants are stealing rides on the railroads is one with which all are familiar, but that a second army of wanderers, almost as large, is traveling from Maine to California, and back again, with its transportation paid out of charity funds, is a fact which is probably not so well known.
The most striking differences which exist between the two armies are, first, that the "paid for" group includes hundreds of women and children, while among those who bear their way women are rare; and, second, that although the men who are traveling on charity tickets some are capable of self-support, the great majority are old, crippled, defective, or for some reason chronically dependent, while in the other group the majority are young and able-bodied, and when dependent are as often so from choice as from necessity. Certain states which have not yet protected themselves by legislation have been heavy sufferers from the unregulated migration of dependents from one section of the country to another.
Chicago, on account of the nonresident dependents thrust upon it for care, has been afflicted with an enormous expense. Unless there is a state law which empowers it to return dependents at the expense of the railroad which brought them into the state, a city cannot rid itself of this burden. It may return dependents to their homes if they are willing to go, but if unwilling, it cannot compel them to leave.
In 1902 a large family of paupers came from Pennsylvania to Chicago. The man was blind, the woman crippled, and there were seven children, the oldest of whom was feeble-minded. The next child was only 10, so that it would be four years before he would be legally able to work. We ascertained that these people had never been self-supporting. They had received aid for fifteen years and they had been aided to reach Chicago by the poor relief agents of their own county and of a chain of counties extending across three states. In spite of our definite knowledge

San Francisco to Chicago on charity tickets.

San Francisco to Chicago on charity tickets, and asked us to send him to Philadelphia. We refused, and offered him well paid work, but he declined it and a few weeks later came and boasted that he had begged from ministers enough to pay his full fare to Philadelphia. There was no reason for doubting his story, since two Episcopal ministers had telephoned the office about the man.
In another case a man who had also come from California, and who was blind in one eye and paralyzed, asked us to send him to Rochester, N. Y. He claimed that a wealthy brother had died leaving him a large legacy, but that he had not received it and must go at once to look after his interests.
We found that this man had been almost a year in making the trip from Los Angeles to Chicago. The Rochester Charity organization society advises us not to send the man, as he would at once be dependent upon charity, because the brother had died in poverty, leaving nothing for his own family. We refused under the circumstances, to send aid to certain dependence, we offered to send his back to his sister in Los Angeles, who was willing to care for him. In five days he could have been in Los Angeles, where he could have remained in comparative comfort, but he refused and said he would secure help elsewhere and push on to Rochester. He reached there four weeks later and has ever since been an inmate of the local almshouse.
How can states regulate the granting of transportation to paupers who wish to go to communitense upon which they have no claim? It is the almost unanimous opinion of those who have given attention to the problem that these are questions which cannot be satisfactorily answered by state legislation. No two states will pass identical laws, and unless the laws are uniform certain states will be imposed upon. What is needed is a federal law, which shall regulate the interstate migration of paupers and dependents.
In the mean time, until such a law has been passed individual states should protect themselves by passing laws excluding nonresident dependents; and citizens may do much to lessen the evil by refusing to contribute towards the purchase of railroad tickets for any applicant until they have assurance from the point of destination that the person who asks transportation will be cared for there; and also by refusing to contribute to any charity society which sends investigations and without purpose.

ARMY OF EDITORS COMING

Advance Guard is Expected by Sunday Afternoon.
ENTERTAINMENT IS ALL PLANNED

Something Will Be Done at All Times for the Entertainment of All the Visitors—Trip to South Omaha.
The advance guard of the army of editors who will invade Omaha this week for the thirty-ninth annual convention will arrive in the city Sunday afternoon and evening. The guard will be composed mostly of officers and others upon whom devolves some of the work of providing for the main body. Headquarters will be established at the Royal hotel.
The convention will last throughout three days, beginning Monday morning. One of the biggest entertainment features will be the banquet at the Field club. It is planned to take the visitors to the club in 100 or more automobiles. It is impossible to hire that number of machines, says Will A. Campbell, manager of the publicity bureau, and it will be necessary for public spirited citizens to furnish them. Responses to requests for autos have thus far been coming in slow, but by Tuesday evening it is believed that a sufficient number will come forward.
Mr. Campbell has received responses from about 20 editors who will be here on the opening day. During the week it is expected that no less than 500 visitors will be in attendance. Many of these will be wives and daughters of the delegates.
The entertainment provided for the editors at this convention is probably the most elaborate ever planned. There will not be a dull moment from the time they arrive until they leave for their homes Wednesday night.

SHOWER GIVEN TO MISS JONTZ

Friends Give Her a Large Amount of Linen on Her Return from Vacation.
Employees of the Associated Charities office in the city hall surprised Miss Ida V. Jontz, secretary of the association at her home, 5106 Capitol Avenue, Saturday afternoon. The affair was in the nature of a linen shower and when the employees contributed their offering, Miss Jontz was the possessor of enough linen to start housekeeping.
Those who participated in the affair were Miss Matilda Vost, Mrs. Freda Timma, Miss Josephine Rhoad, Miss Maud Cloud, Mrs. Anna Brown and Mrs. Ellen Finch.
Miss Jontz returned to her desk in the city hall Wednesday morning after an absence of a month. She was threatened with an attack of nervous prostration, but after a prolonged rest she has fully recovered. Part of her vacation was spent at Princeton, Ill.
