Mrs. Horn Makes Strong Charges Against Omaha Nurse.

TELLS WHAT WOMAN HAD SAID Asserts Florence Conway Told Her She Had Been Tried for Murder and that She Married J. Francis Ellison.

That Miss Florence M. Conway, a nurse at the Clarkson hospital, is Mrs. J. Clay- a regiment to a brigade. ton Erb, who, with her sister, was tried and acquitted for the alleged murder of partment commander, that every officer her husband, a prominent Philadelphian, and chevalter in good standing be admitted three years ago, figuring in a sensation that was the talk of eastern society at the time, was brought out by Mrs. Irene Horn on the witness stand before Judge Kennedy in district court. She testified, in a suit in which she is seeking divorce from her husband, W. H. C. Horn, manager of the Western Automobile Supply company, Mrs. Horn named Mrs. Erb as a co-respondent, but in proof succeeded only establishing that Horn and Mrs. Erb had been together frequently.

The Horn case has been submitted to Judge Kennedy for a decision, the attorneys finishing their arguments after more than a week of evidence taking. Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Horn testified on the stand that Mrs. Erb had told her the story of her life, the latter, according to Mrs. Horn's story, having played off to both husband and wife in her efforts to get them separated. Mrs. Erb told her, as Mrs. Horn testified, that she was married to J. Clayton Erb in Philadelphia. That in his country home outside the city, sometime after they had separated, she and her sister met Erb, got into an altercation and a fight which resuited in Erb's death. That she was brought to trial, but acquitted on a plea of self-defense. Coming west two years ago of the recent revolt at Camp Penn, Harian, woman away from us." According to his to hide her identity, she met J. Francis Ia. Ellison, formerly agent of the humane society of this city, in Des Moines. She married him under the name of Margaret Conway, her malden name being Florence M. Conway.

Ellison had just been divorced from Mrs. Lafe Garner of this city, but the six months required after the signing of the decree had not expired, and in reality she never married him. However, she lived with him for about four months. Then she began to fear him, and left him to come to Omaha, where she has remained since under her maiden name of Florence M. Conway. She is now employed as a nurse at the Clarkson hos-

Nebular Hypothesis

Centennial of Theory Will Be Held on Evening of June 20 in the Library.

One hundred years will have elapsed on June 20 since the theory of the nebular hypothesis was advanced, and in comnemoration of the birth of this important scientific theory the centennial anniversary will be celebrated at the auditorium of the Omaha public library next Tuesday. At this time the theory of the nebular hypothesis, or natural world building process, as now advocated by modern science, will be elucidated by the use of artistic illustrations and experimental apparatus by some of Omaha's ablest ex-ponents. The meeting will be informal and
