SHEEP-Recipts of sheep were very moderate this morning, only about eight cars being reported in part of them single decks. As has been the case several days back the quality of offerings was far from good taken as a whole. There were four more cars of Oregon yearlings, the same as have been coming and the remainder of the receipts consisted of odds and electe of spring lambs and ewes. The demand was fair and it was evident that packers wanted a few decent killers and anything that would come under that head sold very readily at strong prices. Common stuff, much of it hardly good enough for killers was naturally slow sale at no more than steady prices. There were a few good spring lambs that sold up to $7.25, the best price paid in some days and there were two head of native ewes good enough to bring $4.15.

SILVER WEDDING HOLDS EYES Reception on White House Iawn

Ends Most Notable Function.

FIVE THOUSAND ARE PRESENT Mrs. Taft Surprises Her Friends by, Remaining by the President's Side in Receiving Line All Eventng.

WASHINGTON, June 20.-The silver wedding celebration of President and Mrs. Taft, the second that has been held in the White House, came to an end last night with the reception on the White House lawn. Invitations had been sent to almost 12,000 persons and while the official count of those who shook hands with the prestdent was not given out it was estimated that at least 5,000 persons were present. Never in the history of the nation probably has such a function been held in Washington. The diplomatic corps, the United States supreme court, the senate and the house of representatives, the departments of the government, the men who are high in political affairs of the country. the army and navy and almost every walk in life were represented. The clear, cool night, making the reception in the open air possible, prevented the crush of which the White House for days has been afraid and made the reception not only brilliant and unusual, but delightful in every respect. The guests would have filled the White House to overflowing, but the White House grounds are ample and there was no crush and no confusion.

Possibly 15,000 people crowded about the iron fence that surrounds the grounds and looked longingly at the electric display, the splashing fountain and the gay throng within. Washington seldom gets excited about anything, but tonight it showed its interest in the anniversary of the president in unmistakable fashion.

The eards said that the reception would hegin at 9 colock and promptly on the hour, to the strains of the wedding march, the president and Mrs. Taft walked slowly preceded by the six presidential aides and followed by the cabinet. Out through the red room to the rear portico of the mansion, down the broad steps and out onto the lawn the procession marched, while hundreds of guests already in the grounds watched their progress. They took their stand beneath two trees just about the center of the lawn, whose branches were joined by an electric sign flashing "1886-

The guests entered from the east front, passed through the corridors beneath the White House and out onto the lawn. Down the winding walk they passed in two lines to where the president, his face wreathed in smiles, was waiting to meet them all. Above the walks the electricians had touched the trees with magic and they, blazed in red and white and blue bulbay From the top of the treasury a monster searchlight played upon a new Americans flag upon the summit of the mansion. Over the rear portico another flag in red, white and blue incandescent lamps, shimmered and waved. The fountain in the center of the grounds, played upon by another searchlight, sprinkled forth all bues of the rainbow.

The Washington monument, 1,000 feet to the south, brought into sight by the thousands of lights, stood out sharply against the sky, with here and there a star striving unsuccessfully against the lights of Presents Beautiful Scene. The White House sawn, clipped and shaved to the very quick, made a carpet of soft dark green over which walked lightly the gayly clad women, the men in black or in the white of the military in scarlet coats played with vigor and in the White House itself the Engineer band vied with them. Every corner of the mansion had its own particular light. On the terraces that extend upon the old mansion eastward and westward the beauty of the White House conservatories had been poured. The tall lamps that stand along the borders of these terraces had been shaded by deep red paper, resembling nothing so much as monster popples. The reception was just as informal as the president could make it. Those who could waited in line for hours to shake hands, but many slipped out of the lines and sought the shaded walks, the chairs waiting on the grass or wandered at will through the lower floors of the mansion. The presents that numbered in the hundreds and whose money value ran high into the thousands attracted many, whileothers turned to the east room, whose polished floor echoed to the tread of the dancers.

Preparations had been made for 5,000 guests and the refreshment tables in the state dining room came as near groaning as a perfectly good table can come. The president and the members of his family with the cabinet and the aides were served on the east terrace but the guests found their refreshments in the state dining room.

hour at which the reception began no time was fixed for the end of the festivities and it was after midnight that the engineer and struck up "Home, Sweet Home," the ast dancers swept out on the floor of the east room ond the president feit that he could retire. The president said in part:

"The prospect of going back to a less active life has in it at this time some phases that are welcome and some that are unwelcome. The necessity for labor which will follow my retirement, however, relieves me somewhat from anxiety on that score.

"It will be now, when my son Robert comes back to practice law, four generations in Cincinnati, and while it has been pressed on him and on me to have him go to some place where possibly his emoluments would be larger. I am determined, and he sympathizes with me, that he shall go to the home that knew his great-grandfather and his grandfather and his father, and there he shall work out his life under the influences that I hope will be favorable to his success-at least in OMAHA, June 20.—HAY—No. 1, $11; No. 1, $10; packing, $7; alfalfa, $13.
