IDAHO DRY FARMS DRENCHED

Big Wood River Reservoir Pouring Forth Heavy Stream.
BIG TRACTS ARE BENEFITED
Reservoir Above Richfield is Ten Miles Long, Two and Quarter Miles Wide—Second Largest in Country.

SHOSHONE, Ida., June 30.—(Special.)—The heavy rains during May have insured the crops in the dry farming sections of southern Idaho, and the heavy snow fall during the winter and spring has filled the irrigation reservoirs so that there is now no question about the returns to the farmers who depend upon them. The great reservoir of the Big Wood River project is now filled and it is running a stream two feet deep over the spillway. The heavy run of water has not come down as yet and that will be sufficient to make the overflow at least four feet. Were the water needed a sufficient quantity could be had to care for double the area now provided for. This project is the one built by the Idaho Irrigation company and the reservoir above, Richfield, Ida., is ten miles long by two and a quarter miles wide, and covers 1,600 acres. It holds 300,000 acre feet of water and is arranged for the irrigation of tracts amounting to 150,000 acres. This reservoir is one which is but little known, and yet is the second largest in the country. The dam which retains this great body of water is the largest earth dam in the world and was built at a cost of $2,500,000 in two years, beginning in the fall of 1908. This great dam is 500 feet long and 72 feet thick at the bottom, with a 200-foot apron, and is 4,300 feet long and forty feet thick at the top. It is 125 feet high and has a facing of lava blocks to protect the face from the washing of the waters in flood time. Water is taken from the reservoir through an intake tower 100 feet high and then through a rock tunnel 700 feet long.
This great body of water supplies water for the districts around Gooding, Dietrich and Richfield, as well as Shoshone and a section which promises to soon be a rival of the famous North Side Twin Falls district. A community exhibit from this section will be made at the Omaha Land show in October and will be the display made by the towns of this region at the Nebraska gateway to the west. The people who have developed the Idaho irrigation project are pushing this work hard to get up a fine display as they see better results from a display at Omaha than one at any other point.

Grant's Pass Exhibit, to Be Extraordinary

Louis W. Buckley Enlists Assistance of the Leading Citizens of Live Town.

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., June 30.—(Special.)—L. W. Buckley of the Omaha Land show management, visited Grant's Pass and succeeded in lining up several persons who will prove to be active wires and enthusiastic workers for a Josephine county exhibit. Among those who have been listed are A. E. Voorhies, publisher; M. T. Murray, city; G. C. Coutant, editor, all of the Rogue River Courier; Secretary Andrews of the Commercial club, Judge Hawkins, President of the Commercial club, and Prosecuting Attorney Clements.
With this following of assistants Mr. Buckley is assured of an extraordinary display from Josephine county. The Courier is a great booster for its section and has done more to put Grant's Pass on the map than anything else. It is directly responsible for the purchase of the Josephine County Irrigation and Power company, which has converted this country into a veritable oasis. The Courier has one of the best equipped newspaper plants in the west, considering the size of the town.

DISPLAY IS BEING COLLECTED

Commercial Clubs of Fremont County, Idaho, Assembling Land Show Exhibits.

ST. ANTHONY, Ida., June 30.—(Special.)—The Commercial clubs of Fremont county are collecting material for display at Omaha and other points to show the resources of this great section. State Immigration Commissioner S. J. Rich, Colonel Jack D'Arcy of Blackfoot and W. O. Paisley of the Omaha Land show, recently visited the clubs in this county and helped them outline their plan of campaign. Referring to his visit to the Omaha Land show, President A. P. Soule of the St. Anthony Commercial club said, "That is the place for us to go. The people of Omaha appreciate the opportunities offered them and it will be our fault if we do not get the people who are leaving there to come to the upper Snake River valley. One who was not at the Land show could not imagine the unique manner in which the displays were worked up and we will have one this year which will be up to the best."

Just an Example.
G. P. Schlosser, publicity manager of the Roseburg (Ore.) Commercial club, says the day after he received the copies of The Bee which contained some favorable notices of Roseburg, two inquirers came to his office, each writer stating that he had read something of Roseburg in a recent edition of The Bee. "To receive letters of inquiry written the day following the publication of the paper, reflects very favor-

OREGON BOOSTERS ON TIP-TOE

Communities of Willamette Valley Planning Big Exhibit.

ALBANY LEADS IN MOVEMENT

S. Clinton Page, Former Nebraskan, is Editing a Paper There and is Doing Much to Advertise Community.

ALBANY, Ore., June 30.—(Special.)—The Willamette valley, a veritable "God-Chosen Garden Spot," will be much in exhibit evidence at the Omaha Land Show, unless all plans of mankind hereabouts go astray. The movement to have a combined valley exhibit came about first through the advance movement of the Albany Commercial club some six weeks back. President McClure appointed an Omaha Land Show exhibit committee headed by C. L. Marvin. This committee took up the matter of a combined display with Lane county officials and Commercial clubs, later with Yamhill, Benton and other county organizations, and when Louis W. Buckley, managing director of the Omaha Land Show, started recently on a tour of the Willamette valley he met with encouragement on all sides.
Here in Albany, Secretary Van Winkle and his conferees of the Commercial club, while very busy with a chaquetaqua, a Fruit Growers' union organization and a club "Booster's meeting," they are using their best efforts to see that the magnificent fruits, nuts, cereals, grains and vegetables, of the valley shall be seen at Omaha. "At the boosters meeting, C. C. Chapman of Portland, D. O. Freeman of Eugene and L. W. Buckley of the Omaha Land Show and some fifteen other club organizations, secretaries, general boosters and hip-hip burrah boys, as well as Messrs. Van Winkle, Elies, O'Brien and officers of the Albany club, together with the splendid Albany B. F. O. E. band increased the club membership by close to fifty more names. It was a great meeting and every one helped.

C. Clinton Page, a former Nebraskan, but for three years living in Oregon, publishes a clever and well-gotten-up daily here in Albany called the Herald. He came to Oregon from Beatrice and Holdrege.
There is another bright paper here which has wielded a trenchant pen for the good of Albany for thirty years. This paper has as a specialty a daily column of very clever original sayings and proverbs of persons and places. The two papers help keep Albany on the map, that's sure.

Farm Advances $5,000 in Year.
CHEHALIS, Wash., June 23.—(Special.)—To make a profit of $5,000 on a 60-acre farm in Lewis county is the good fortune of W. K. Miner, who has sold his place four miles southwest of Chehalis, on Stearns creek, to George A. Smith of Seattle. In January, 1910, Mr. Miner bought this farm from Sam Guy and the advanced price is considered a fine profit for holding it but a little more than a year.

Omahans Get Rich

on Irrigated Tracts in Rogue Valley Vale

GRANT'S PASS, Ore., June 30.—(Special.)

Grant's Pass and the Rogue River valley will be well represented at the Second

Omaha Land show in October. Plans were worked out at the time of the visit of Louis W. Buckley of the land show management to Grant's Pass, but are being expanded on by former Nebraskan living in the valley, A. N. Parsons, formerly general agent of the American Express company at Omaha, but now a rancher and land man at the Pass, is one of the leaders in the work. He has made a success since going into the west and says, "We think the Rogue River affords the best medium climate of any place we have found in the United States, and I say this after living in various portions of the country and having visited a great many other localities. My business here has been excellent and I would unhesitatingly state that I would not return to my old position for twice the salary I received. A number of other Omaha people are here and all are doing well. The list includes C. E. Selleck, formerly general manager of the Western Newspaper Union; P. T. Birchard, former secretary of the Harding Creamery company; George J. Fox, once with the Walter G. Clark company, and L. L. Beveridge from the Carpenter Paper company. All are admirers of the enjoyable climate."

Contracts have been closed which will give this section the best irrigation system on the west coast of Oregon and this means much for those who have investments here as well as for the people who are already residents.

Oregon Berry Men Have Fine Outlook

EUGENE, Ore., June 30.—(Special.)—Berry growers of the upper Willamette valley have definite assurances of a very profitable future for their crops, as indicated by the numerous inquiries and bids received by the Fruit Growers' association. Altogether favorable conditions are reported for Pacific coast production. Holdover stocks of canned stuff are low. As a result prices for canned fruits of all kinds are good. Eugene annually ship out many carloads of loganberries and the famous Royal Anne cherry in barrels, latter for the manufacture of the maraschino.
