Women at Happy Hollow to Have Tourney of Their Own.

NEW CLUB INTERESTS WOMEN

Interesting Visitors from the East Are Entertained—Clubs Are Still the Most Popular Spots Around Omaha.

Social Calendar

MONDAY—Women's Tennis tournament all week at Happy Hollow club. Children's tennis club at Field club.

For the second time this season tennis will play a prominent part in the week's interest.

In the first women's tennis tourney which has ever been held at Happy Hollow club, and for which Mr. John F. Flack has offered a handsome silver cup to the winner, the drawings are as follows:

Miss Bernice Edwards plays Miss Carol Howard, Shirley Freeman plays Henrietta McCague, Madeline Marr plays Daisy Dyer, Caroline Harding plays Eloise Hills, Marion Towle plays Marion Carpenter, Pauline Nason plays Grace Slabaugh, Nell Carpenter plays Gladys Goodman, Henrietta Flack plays Jennie Peters, Hazel Howard plays Hazel Evans, Alice Woodworth plays Edna Hill, Naomi Towle plays Ruth Evans, Alice Egan plays Katherine Woodworth, Florence Nason plays Henrietta Flack.

Goody bridge-what! Auction bridge in which the players bid for the opportunity of making the trump instead of taking their turns as in the ordinary game, bids fair to supersede the bridge whist, which has held sway in Omaha for several years.

Wives, mothers, sisters and feminine friends of the college men of Omaha are almost as interested in the men themselves in the fact that the University club has arranged for club rooms in the Barker block August 1, and will be ready for the fall season.

At the Country Club

One of the dinner parties last evening at the club was given by Mr. Earl Gannett and Mr. Frank Hamilton in honor of Madam d'Arquin of Paris. The dinner was placed for Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fairfield, Madam d'Arquin, Miss Stella Hamilton, Daisy Doane, Lynn Curtis, Messrs. F. A. Brogan, Major Hale, Frank Hamilton and Earl Gannett.

Omaha Guest from New York

MRS. MARY PAYNE.

A woman who combines charm of manner with unusual mental equipment is Mrs. Harry Payne of New York, guest in Omaha at present of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Burns, with whom she is spending the month. Mrs. Payne is one of the most interesting types of the twentieth century woman which clings to the feminine social graces, while giving the predominance of thought and attention to educational pursuits.

"It does not make a woman less womanly to lessen her charm to be well informed," maintains Mrs. Payne, a vivacious brunette whom one could not mistake for an inhabitant of any less cosmopolitan place than New York.

Mrs. Payne's forte is lecture work in which she has had marked success among the club women of New York. During the last season she conducted a class in current topics, to which the wives of statesmen, bankers, lawyers and men high in the country's affairs, flocked in order to learn the ins and outs and whys and wherefores of politics, economics and other subjects in which their husbands are chiefly interested.

At Happy Hollow

Among those dining at Happy Hollow Saturday night were Lloyd F. Smith, who had three guests, S. W. Slabaugh, four; Francis Pollard, six, and W. J. Millard, seven; Dr. A. B. Somers, four; J. R. Webster, six; Mel Uhl, six; Samuel Rees, Jr., six; J. F. Black, ten; G. W. Noble, four; T. H. Matters, five.

Personal Gossip

Dr. Rosenau Speaks of Great Advances He Notes in Omaha

Former Well Known Rabbi in Charge of Temple Israel Here to Meet Old Friends.

Omaha has improved wonderfully since he left it nineteen years ago, says Dr. William Rosenau, former rabbi at Temple Israel, who is in the city for a few days' visit.

"Someone told me on the train that if I hadn't been in Omaha for nineteen years I wouldn't recognize it, and it is almost true. Omaha has improved in every way, but the thing most noticeable to me is the improved business atmosphere and the increased noise and bustle."

"I was only in Omaha for three years, but I believe those were the very three years when it was regaining its equilibrium after the boom days and its location and environment have enabled it to keep its position among western cities. A great many of the old landmarks are gone, and that is a fine thing, but I am grieved to note that so many of the personal landmarks have also been removed. Many who were prominent citizens nineteen years ago have passed away."

"I never came back to a city more gladly," said Dr. Rosenau, "than I had my first pupil, received my first encouragement in ministerial work from the late Edward Rosewater, and it was here that I found my wife, who before she married me was Mabel Hellman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myer Hellman, then well known citizens."

Dr. Rosenau is at present located in Baltimore, Md., where he is at the head of one of the city's largest Jewish congregations. "I have stayed in Baltimore," said Dr. Rosenau, "in the face of flattering offers from other places because my attachment for my congregation, because of my connection with John Hopkins university here I am an associate in the Semitic department and because I have been a member of the Baltimore School Board and have been much interested in that work."

The well known divine is enroute from a summer assembly of Jewish chautauques societies in Milwaukee, which he has been attending, to Denver, where he is to speak on Tuesday. While in the city he is a guest at the home of A. Heller, 242 St. Mary's avenue, and is to talk Sunday morning at the Temple Israel.

SEVEN SICK BABIES ARE RETURNED HOME AS WELL

Fourteen Now at the Baby Camp—Visitors Are Tabooed During the Evening.

Taps are to be sounded promptly at 7:30 hereafter at the Babies' camp conducted by the Visiting Nurses' association at Seventh and Bancroft street.

Miss Nan Dorsey, head nurse, says that the flood of evening visitors to the camp has proved too much for the sick babies and that if the treatment of the babies is to gain the best result the little ones must be stowed away early in the evening and not disturbed. Between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. is the most convenient time for the nurses and the babies to receive visitors.

Seven babies have been sent home in good condition and there are now fourteen at the camp.

Merchant Kills Black Hand Agent Sent for Money

JEANNETTE, Pa., July 15.—Upon the signal of the "Black Hand" to turn money over to its agent, George Labarto, a wholesale fruit merchant, shot and killed Venet Cecciliano, an Italian barber here today, and immediately thereafter eight letters from the Black Hand, demanding money of Labarto, upon pain of death, were turned over to the police by Mrs. Labarto.

Cecciliano entered Labarto's store and stood lighting a stogie, when Labarto opened fire with an automatic revolver from the rear of the establishment. The lighting of the stogie was the signal for Labarto to give Cecciliano $2,000. The signal was explained to Labarto in a letter he received after his bars were burned and several horses destroyed.

DR. F. A. COOK STOPS HERE

Discredited Arctic Explorer is on a Lecture Tour.

HE HOPES TO BE VINDICATED

Will Place His Case Before the American People in a Book that is to Be Published in a Short Time.

Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the discredited Arctic explorer, less than two years ago the idol of the civilized world, is in the city and is stopping at the Henshaw. "I am here," said Dr. Cook on Saturday, "because the solution of my problem is ultimately to rest on public sentiment and I am at present engaged in a chautauque tour, presenting my case to the people and showing up the dark side of the great controversy."

Dr. Cook spent only a short time in Omaha, coming here from Huron, S. D., where he spoke on Friday enroute to Scott's Bluff to give his next address. One who saw the erstwhile famous physician on his triumphal lecture tour just after the announcement of his discoveries would instantly recognize him in the gentleman at the Henshaw. Since that time he has dispensed with the Van Dyke beard which he formerly wore, but his other facial characteristics, his pose, his voice and his nervous manner are unmistakable.

"This is my first tour through this portion of the country," said Dr. Cook. "On my famous speaking trip I had dates booked west of the Missouri, but they were among those canceled when the controversy sprang up. I have found the people to whom I have talked uniformly courteous and they have seemed to believe the proof which I have offered them."

Asked if he were confident of final vindication from the American public, the doctor hesitated. "It is too early to venture a guess," he finally said, "but I am encouraged, for they wouldn't book me for lectures if they weren't at least willing to give me a fair show. At all the places I have talked I have had crowded houses. That, of course, is partly curiosity, but curiosity would hardly bring out the houses I have had in the face of an increased admission price."

Along with the lecture work Dr. Cook is busy doing the final work on a book which is to be issued within a month. "I have included in that book every phase of my explorations and life since, which can be in the nature of proof," he stated, and insisted on talking from his traveling bag the corrected proof sheets and reading portions of his argument. "My articles in Hampton's," he continued, "were psychological in their nature, but this book is to be a simple narrative." The new work is to be called "My Achievement of the Pole."
