CATTLE—Cattle receipts were again dis-appointingly light and the market just about steady all around. Both dressed beef men and snippers had orders to fill and took hold of the desirable dry lot beeves in good shape, while there was the usual uncertainty and irregularity in the mar-ket for the shortfed and warmed-up grades that constituted a large proportion of the offerings. Movement was reasonably ac-tive, however, and a clearance effected tive, however, and a clearance effected in good season.

In good season.

Butcher stock and canners soid readily at prices that were steady to strong as compared with yesterday. Supplies fell short of dealers' expectations and with a vigorous demand it did not take dealers long to get down to business and clean up the supply. All grades are finding a ready outlet at firm figures and the undertone. dertone to the trade is nearthy and strong Veal calves were in very good demand and quotably strong and the market for buils, stags, etc., was fully steady with yesterday.

Business in stockers and feeders continues lively and prices ruled steady to a shade stronger than yesterday for all decent offerings. Supplies have failen short of expectations owing to the good general rains throughout the corn beit and the demand has exceeded the supply for several days. Weight cuts very little figure as it is quality that the country is after, and and decent offerings of all kinds find a ready outlet at strong figures.

State Candidates Open the Campaign;

Supreme Court Justices with Aspirants for Position and Other Candidates on Greevy's Lawn.

After M. J. Greevy, president of the Seventh Ward Republican club, had wel- spondent, comed the guests of the club at an open meeting held on the lawn of his home last | telegram that as a member of the agriculpromptity adopted by a unanimous vote:

and

Resolved. By the Seventh Ward Republican club of Omaha. Neb., that we tender to him our greetings and pledge to him our loyal support for his nomination and re-election as president of the United States of America.

Caught the train, but my right hip and other portions of my anatomy yet feel the jar. Otherwise I am all right and ready to tackle any legislative proposition that may be presented."

Congressman Sloan had but little to say

A fair sized crowd, as political meetings go in these days, was present when President Greevy made his opening address, his two weeks at home. predicting the nomination and re-election of Taft. The large lawn had been provided with chairs and benches, and was tastily decorated with flags and illuminated by electric lights. A picture of President Taft occupied a place of honor at the right of the speakers' stand.

Judge Ben S. Baker, chairman of the epublican county central committee, was introduced as chairman and put everybody in a good humor by some pat re marks, touching the fact that many candidates for many offices were present and willing to be heard briefly. He served notices all speeches would be short, and they were, of necessity. Judges Rose, Letton and Root of the supreme court were given seats of honor and Judge Cobbey of Beatrice, a candidate for nomination to the supreme bench, was also invited to a front seat. The supreme judges were introduced, together with Judge Cobbey, and made brief talks, simply announcing their candidacy and expressing the belief the republican party can win before the people if it will present a strong ticket and a united front.

Then, in order, came a long string of candidates for the district court bench and for the various county offices, police judge and justices of the peace. The main point of each announcement was that, no matter who secured the nominations, they would have the support of the unsuccessful ones in the fall campaign. The spirit of the meeting was optimistic and encouraging, and those present, aside from the candidates, gave close attention to all that was said and were generous in their applause.

Troublous Questions that Arise to Plague Taft's Administration.

Secretary Wilson and Attorney

(From a Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.-(Special Telegram.)-Was there ever a president. who had so many troublous questions to

Hardly had Mr. Taft taken office, when the Pinchot matter came up, with the resignation of Garfield from the cabinet and the retirement of Pinchot, incident to the appointment of Ballinger. Following swiftly came the Alaska coal cases and appointment of Secretary Fisher. Then ame the Controller bay and "Dick to Dick" letter, and now the chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture, Dr. Wiley, is marked for retirement by the personnel board of the department with the sanction of the attorney general, which involves two departments of the government, which may end with the resignations of
