The La Follette amendment to the Underwood bill was the first thing proposed when the voting began. Only fourteen insurgents supported it. Following its defeat came the vote on the Underwood bill. With the single exception of Senator Brown of Nebraska, all republicans, insurgent and regular, joined in opposing the Underwood bill and it was defeated, forty-four to thirty-six.

Senator La Follette at once moved to reconsider and Senator Martin, the democratic leader, endorsed the motion. This made it appear that an understanding had been reached between the democrat, and the insurgents, and the motion to reconsider was carried forty-nine to thirty-one. Senator La Follette in offering his substitute said it fixed the raw wool duty at 35 per cent and reduced all manufactured woolen rates correspondingly. These rates are still high above the rates proposed in the Underwood bill, especially on wool, which was placed at 20 per cent ad

Bill Must Go to Conference.

The La Follette substitute was adopted, 48 to 32 and immediately afterwards the bill thus amended was passed by the same vote. As it passed the senate the bill differed in every particular from the house bill. This will throw every paragraph of the two bills into conference.

Under the usual order of procedure Senators Penrose and Cullom, the first two republican members of the finance committee, and Senator Bailey, the ranking democratic member, would represent the senate in conference, "Under the circumstances the regulars cannot afford to go into the conference," said Senators Penrose and Smoot in unison, less than five minutes after the action of the senate was announced. Tariff Tables Are Not True. He said the tables prepared by the tariff board did not show the true relation between the paper manufacturers and the holding companies. "The paper business thought it had its business so hedged that the tariff board could not find out the facts, and it threw its doors wide open to the investigators. According to the books the paper makers were losing money. By accident the investigators got the full information regarding the paper making industry."

Several Amendments Presented. The various amendments to the Under wood tariff bill were presented in the sen ate at the opening of the early session

Senator Smoot denounced the various attacks on the wool tariff as unjustified by facts. He said that "schedule K had been made the scapegost" of the tariff agitation. Senator Martine of New Jersey produced a circular showing that the Provo woofen mills, of which Senator Smoot is an officer, had not been in operation for

Two years ago at the time we were considering the present tariff act, which left schedule K practically unchanged, I proposed certain amendments.

"These amendments I have modified and offer as an amendment to the pending bill, I believe that the duties proposed by me on manufactured woolen cloth are greater than are necessary to protect American manufacturers from European competition. (From a Staff Correspondent.) DES MOINES, July 27 .- (Special Telegram.)-Judgment of $7,500 is asked of the Iowa Central railroad by the government in a petition filed in the federal court by United States Attorney Temple. The claim is based on fifteen alleged violations of the law which prohibits railroads from requiring their employes to work more than sixteen hours a day without rest. It is alleged by Mr. Temple that the railroad on different dates compelled three train crews of five men each to remain on the road between Oskaloosa and Albert Lea a total of twenty hours without rest. For each one of the alleged violations the government claims the sum of $500. The men are all trainmen which are said to have been overworked. This is the first case started for violation of this federal

British Peers Are Inclined to Grant Government Demands

Dinner to Lord Halsbury Sends Company of Moderates Into Ranks of Conservatives.

LONDON, July 27.-It is becoming increasingly evident that the "die hards" will not be able to "deliver the goods." or, in other words, to poll their peers to anything like the extent claimed, and the government will not be forced to create a large number of peers, if any, in order to carry the veto bill. The effect, of last night's rally at the dinner in honor of the earl of Halsbury, leader of the insurgent lords, has been to send the whole company of moderates scurrying into the ranks of Lord Lansdowne's adherents, who this afternoon totalled in the neighborhood of 300.

The government is going to give the inionists plenty of time in which to comose their differences. Premier Asquith anxious as his opponents to avoid swamping the upper house with new barons, will not force a crists so long as matters are tending in his direction. There are even rumors of an early adjournment of Parliament before final action on the veto bill and a session in the autumn, by which time it is thought that the tension may be entirely abated.
